PLANE BOMBS LINER; 108 DEAD

REDS CAPTURE ISLE IN CENTER OF VIIPURI BAY

Seize Town to North of Finnish Port.

MOSCOW, March 4, Monday (AP).—The Red army continued to tighten its viselike grip about the shell and bomb shredded city of Viipuri in yesterday's fighting, the commanding officers reported today. The capture of the hamlet of Saarela, north of the city, and the island of Tuppuransaari to the south was announced.

Tuppuransaari is a small island in the center of Viipuri bay, where the Red army has been advancing across the ice. It is about 15 miles south of the port.

[The report did not give the distance between Saarela and Viipuri nor did it mention fighting in the city itself. Russia yesterday reported the capture of the Viipuri railway station and the southern part of the city but Finnish officials last night said the Finns still held Viipuri.]

Take Military Headquarters.

The soviet forces also reported the capture of four 76 millimeter guns and the fully equipped headquarters of a large military formation. The location of the headquarters was not disclosed.

The capture of six defensive fortifications, including five artillery forts with heavy coastal guns, also was reported. Ten Finnish planes were reported shot down in aerial combats.

The Red army called Finnish claims of recent victories—an apparent reference to the reported destruction of the 18th Russian division and the 34th Moscow tank brigade—"absurd."

The statement, supplementing the regular military communique and distributed by the official soviet news agency, Tass, was in reply to a recent Finnish note to the league of nations and said that Finnish charges of the bombing of civilian populations were fabrications.

Finns Battle at Viipuri.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 3 (AP).—Finnish troops continued their withdrawal toward new defense lines at some points on the western side of the Karelian isthmus today but reported they still were holding off Russian forces pounding at the gates of strategic Viipuri with unrelenting fury from three sides.

The Finnish high command reported that in yesterday's fighting the Russians also were beaten back with heavy losses on the eastern end of the isthmus and north of Lake Ladoga, where 1,000 of the enemy were said to have been killed.

Hold Original Positions.

Devastating punishment was inflicted on the Russians on the eastern part of the Karelian isthmus, the high command said, when the enemy was concentrating for an attack in this area where the Finns still hold their original Mannerheim fortifications.

Above Lake Ladoga, the high command announced that Russian attackers ran into a withering fire at Kollaanjoki, Alttajoki, and Kollaa. In addition to 1,000 Russians killed at the latter point, the Finns said one propeller driven sleigh, one armored car, and one tank were put out of action.

Farther north, at Kuhmo and Salla, on Finland's narrow waistline, the Finns said Red army infantry attacks were turned back and that some of the invaders' strong points were captured.

Reds Continue Air Raids.

While the fierce fighting continued northeast of Lake Ladoga, Finnish salvage forces were hauling to the rear a long line of tanks, trucks, armored cars, field kitchens, wagons, and other equipment of the 34th soviet tank brigade, powerful fighting unit which fell victim to the Finns in their latest major triumph.

The Finnish communique said that the Russians continued widespread air raids over southern Finland yesterday and that Finnish airmen countered with telling raids on soviet columns and railway communications. It totaled Finnish civilian casualties at 8 killed and 10 wounded and said at least 17 Russian planes were shot down.

Helsingfors had one air raid alarm today, but enemy bombers failed to reach the city.

Kouvola and Inkeroinen were bombed, but no reports of casualties or damage had been received here tonight. Yesterday the Reds bombed Lappeenranta, the Imatra district, Hiitola, Antrea, Mikkeli, Lahti, Riihimaki, Tampere, and Turku.

GERMANS SCORE THREE HITS ON BRITISH SHIP

Set Vessel Afire in Channel Attack.

LONDON, March 3 (AP).—Bombing of the 8,441 ton British passenger liner Domala, with a probable loss of 108 lives, was announced by the admiralty tonight as the battered and fire scarred vessel reached an English port after a nightmare voyage from Antwerp, Belgium.

The attack on the Domala, the admiralty disclosed, occurred between 4 and 5 a. m. yesterday in the English channel. In the light of a waning moon, a German Heinkel swooped down on the ship and dropped four bombs, three of which found their mark and set the vessel ablaze amidships. The captain was killed by one of the bombs.

In addition to 108 persons listed as missing and believed dead, many others were injured, the admiralty said.

High Seas Hamper Rescuers.

Of the missing, 88 were British Indian seamen who had served aboard German ships before the war, and presumably were released from internment there because of the expense of their maintenance.

Twenty of 48 Britishers aboard the Domala also were listed as missing. High seas at the time of the attack hampered rescue efforts of several British and Netherlands ships, the admiralty said.

The admiralty indicated that there were 341 persons aboard the ship altogether. The crew, totaling 150, apparently included a number of British Indians.

Crew members said the German raider had machine gunned the ship after raining bombs upon it. Fifty-one survivors, including 42 Indians and nine Europeans, were landed last night at a south coast port by a lifeboat, which also brought ashore the bodies of three of the victims.

Shoot Down Own Plane.

The admiralty had other unpleasant reports to make today, one of which revealed that British fighters pounced upon one of their own planes and sent the bullet torn craft crashing to earth, victim of a case of mistaken identity.

The craft was reported to have crashed in flames near Gravesend after being attacked by three British fighter ships, which mistook it for a German bomber.

One eye witness told of seeing the three fighters circling around the plane, which he described as "a blue and green" craft.

"Suddenly," he said, "there was a burst of machine gun fire and I saw smoke coming from the plane. A moment later one of the wings caught fire and then the other. The whole plane became enveloped in flames and began to fall to pieces. The tail dropped off and the bomber crashed on open farmland."

Two Ships Are Sunk.

The official announcement mentioned no casualties.

The loss of the plane was disclosed as two British freighters were added to the list of sea warfare victims.

The latest casualties were the steamer Albano, 1,176 tons, which sank in the North sea yesterday after hitting a mine, and the 710 ton steamer Cato, which went down off the west coast today, also the victim of a mine. Two persons were killed and 11 missing from the Cato and two were killed aboard the Albano.

Reuters [British news agency] reported from Ostend that the Netherlands freighter Limburg, 345 tons, had been attacked in the North sea by a German warplane which raked her decks with machine gun fire.

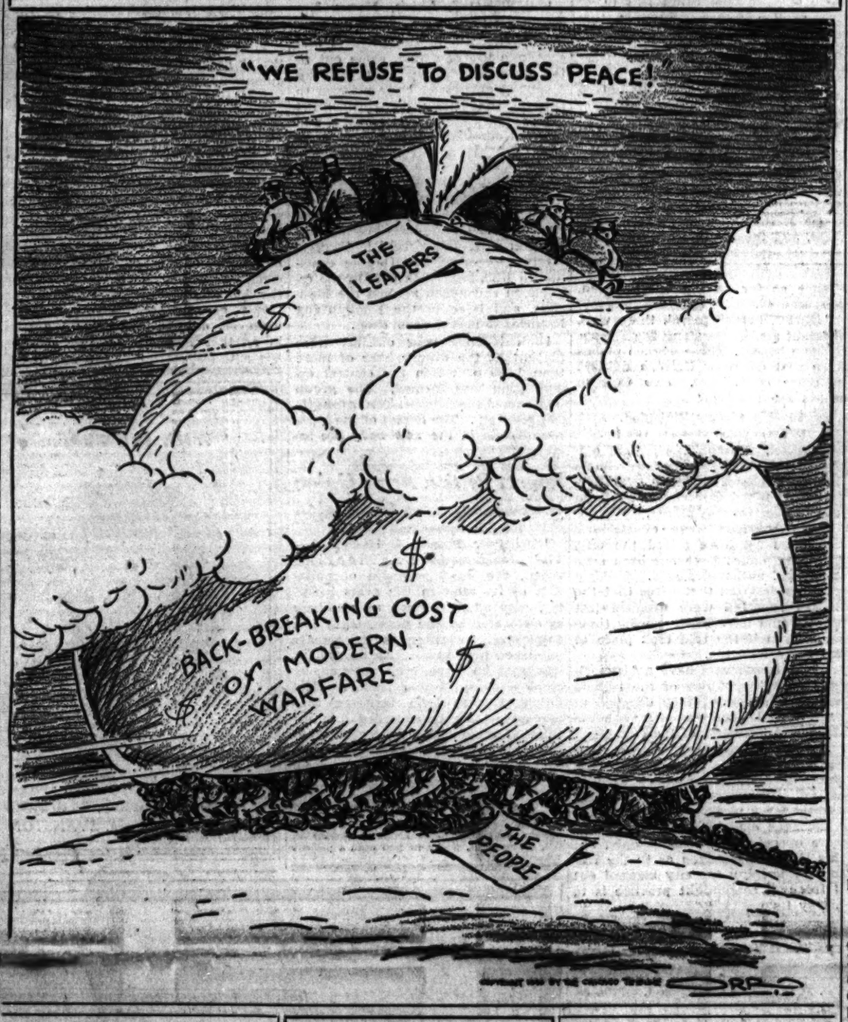
The day's aerial activity followed a night in which the British said their scouts flew over Berlin for the fifth time in six days.

Dutch Ships Attacked.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, March 3 (AP).—Two Netherlands ships arriving at southern Holland ports today from Newcastle, England, reported they were machine gunned Friday evening off Humber lightship by an unidentified plane which also bombed and sank an unnamed British vessel. The crews of the Dutch ships, Sint Annaland, 2,248 tons, and Schieland, 2,249 tons, took cover and none was injured. Bullets struck near the bridge of the Sint Annaland, however.

After the brief attack on the Dutch ships the plane machine gunned and bombed the British vessel, the Dutch sailors reported.

NOT TILL EVERY BACK IS BROKEN



He Saves Life, So Confucians Say: Pay for It!

New York, March 3 (AP).—That this story may be understood by the occidental mind, it must be stated that when a Chinese is snatched from the jaws of death it is not uncommon for him to be stricken from the official rolls of the living.

So it was with the Chinese girl whom C. S. Vaughn, transport pilot, lifted dripping from the cold waters of the Yangtze river nearly four years ago. And so it is that Vaughn is still getting bills—and paying—for the board and lodging of a soul for whose rescue he was responsible.

A Parchment Dun.

In today's southbound air mail there flew a piece of parchment paper, inscribed in beautiful Chinese script, dunning Vaughn for the board and keep of a soul which is, paradoxically, still among the living.

Vaughn, who has paid these bills with growing protest, will receive the dun at Miami, Fla., when he returns from his Pan American Airways Clipper run to Rio de Janeiro.

The story goes back to that day when Vaughn brought his airplane to rest at Wahn-Sien. A strong wind whipped across the river. He called for help to weight down a pontoon and thereby control a wing which was tugging at its mooring. The first volunteer was a girl, eager to speed the progress of aviation. Men followed her, tho, and in the mêlée the girl went overboard.

No one moved. So Vaughn shed his coat and dived.

Policeman Is Collector.

Nearly seven months passed before Vaughn returned to Wahn-Sien, and awaiting him was a constabulary officer. In his hand was a bill for $1.59 "for board and lodging one rescued soul, responsibility Pilot Vaughn."

Vaughn argued with the officer. Officially the girl had quit this life. Vaughn had seen fit to bring her back. Therefore she was his charge until she got married. Vaughn paid and has been paying ever since.

Germans Intensify Effort to Recover Waste Paper

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 3.—Germany is intensifying its drive to recover waste paper so that less wood will have to be imported. German leaders point to the example of the United States in this respect, declaring that 33 per cent of its paper production is obtained from old paper. Germany collected 1,000,000 tons of waste paper last year and as a result importation of wood pulp has decreased steadily.

FATHER DEARBORN 103 TODAY, AND MY HOW HE HAS BEEN GROWING!

Today is Chicago's 103d birthday. On March 4, 1837, the village government of a board of trustees and a president was replaced by a city charter providing for the election of a mayor, a high constable, ten aldermen, and four assessors. The city limits then were North avenue, Wood street, Cermak road, and the lake. The city had an area of 10 square miles and a population of 4,170. Now Chicago's area is 211 square miles and its population approximately 3,750,000.

AUSTRALIAN VOTE CALLED CENSURE OF WAR POLICY

SYDNEY, Australia, March 3 (AP).—Defeat of a government candidate by a Laborite in a parliamentary by election yesterday was interpreted today as censure of Australia's war policy. The Labor party opposes compulsory military service and the sending of Australian troops overseas. Prime Minister Robert Menzies said the election result meant the government was ahead of public opinion on the war.

Winter Drouth Dims Prospect for Farm Crops

DAY by DAY on the FARM

BY HOMER NEISZ.

March 3, 1940.

Farmers and the weather man, who are notoriously at odds most of the time, are agreed that the winter months just past were among the driest on record. On top of that, last fall was the most parched in more than 60 years. Again the farmer's observation and the weather man's figures coincide.

Because of the light precipitation, workers at The Tribune's Du Page county farm have some misgivings about the prospects for crops to be planted this spring after frost goes out of the ground. They say that only plenty of gentle soaking rains after the thaws will put the soil in good condition for starting oats, corn, and other crops.

Lowest Total in History.

The weather bureau figures show that in December, January, and February the total precipitation was only 3.04 inches. September, October, and November gave the Chicago area only 3.21 inches in all. Never before in the weather bureau's history had the figure been less than 4 inches for the fall period.

And the six month compilation of 6.25 inches of precipitation—hardly 40 per cent of normal—makes the outlook for subsoil moisture—so important to farmer and gardener—dubious. The Du Page farm men aver that the considerable showers Saturday and yesterday won't remedy this condition as the fields on which it fell are frozen so hard that the rain ran off instead of penetrating.

They know, of course, that winter rain usually behaves that way. But they recall that fields were dusty when small grains were seeded in the fall, and the snow that covered those same fields had little water content. It was light, dry, and fluffy and nearly all of it fell after Jan. 15, when there was no chance of its soaking into the ground as it melted.

Some Good Aspects.

Many other farmers in neighboring communities say they won't be able to tell how the small grains have progressed thru the winter until winter definitely breaks. Some of them think it was a favorable period for alfalfa and wheat, since the ground has stayed frozen continuously. Alternate freezes and thaws, they hold, damage these crops by heaving the plants out of the ground.

Henry Gewecke of Des Plaines reports that in his vicinity the freeze

PHYSICIAN TELLS CONDITION OF HORNER'S HEALTH

BY PERCY WOOD.

Dr. Nathan Rosen of Springfield, Gov. Henry Horner's physician, said yesterday that the chief executive is recovering from a severe cold which kept him in bed for two weeks.

Public interest and comment concerning the governor's health were heightened by his absence Saturday from the important meeting of the state certifying board—an absence which brought on a political controversy instituted by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle.

Stelle, who is fighting for the Democratic nomination for governor against Harry B. Hershey, the Kelly-Horner-Nash candidate, protested Horner's proxy being held during that session by Alexander Wilson of the governor's staff. He added, however: "I have no intention of taking advantage of Gov. Horner's disability."

Doctor Answers Questions.

The capital, meanwhile, echoed with rumors that Mr. Horner was severely ill; was isolated in the executive mansion from all save a few attendants and aids; was denied newspapers and telephone conversations, and was the sickest he had been since his collapse in November, 1938, from which he has never made a complete recovery.

Accordingly, a series of questions was prepared and presented to Dr. Rosen. The queries and his answers follow:

Q.—Have any additional complications followed the governor's original illness [caused by a heart attack]? A.—No, except for a cold or so. He has just been thru a hard cold.

Predicts a Long Life.

Q.—What is his exact present condition? A.—Considering his age, Gov. Horner is in as good condition as almost any man can be at the age of 60. He has high blood pressure, but so do many other people at that age. He is strong and he will recuperate now and will live for many, many years. I have kept him in bed for two weeks, but this morning [yesterday] he was dressed and in his office at the mansion. He is much stronger than for many weeks.

Q.—How long since he has left the mansion? A.—About two weeks, I think. He took an auto ride and I believe caught the cold then.

Predicts Return to Work.

Q.—Do you think the governor will be able to resume his full duties soon? A.—Within two or three weeks he will be able to attend to the ordinary routine of his office for three or four hours a day, not the 15 to 18 he used to spend.

Q.—Would a different climate benefit him? A.—That has been considered, but Florida has been having a bad year. It has been cold, so those returning have told us. On the other hand, the weather here will soon be good, and the governor is not planning to leave the state.

Samuel L. Nudelman, director of finance and one on whom the governor leans heavily, was asked how actively Mr. Horner has participated in state affairs recently.

"I would estimate," Nudelman replied, "that in the last 10 days I have spent about half a day with the governor discussing state matters.

Tells of Conferences.

"A week or so ago the governor and I discussed certain park improvements scheduled to be made and he decided that because of the condition of the treasury we should postpone them. So the governor dictated a memorandum to all the directors cautioning them to keep their expenditures to the minimum. He has been in touch with the directors from time to time on other matters."

Stelle has made the charge recently, and repeated it when he opened his downstate campaign in his home town of McLeansboro Saturday night, that "a small group of back room leaders seized the reins of the administration by taking advantage of the illness of the governor which has confined him to the executive mansion."

Nudelman and Stelle are bitter political enemies and presumably the lieutenant governor included him in "the clique of self-appointed heirs."

The governor has been in the statehouse only a few times since he was stricken just after the November 1938, election.

When a Bee Dances, He's Announcing: 'Soup's On!'

Washington, D. C., March 3 (AP).—Bees have a dance language, according to an article in the Smithsonian institution's annual report. Dr. K. von Frisch of Munich has found that a bee, after spotting a nectar-bearing flower, flies back to the hive and executes a peculiar dance which means "nectar near by." Then the other bees fly to the flower.

ISLES-FOR-DEBT DRIVE WILL GET SENATE ACTION

Reynolds to Submit Resolutions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Maps on page 6.)

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], announced today that he will introduce in the senate this week several resolutions requesting President Roosevelt to start negotiations for acquisition by the United States of British and French islands in the Caribbean.

Senator Reynolds.

Senator Reynolds has suggested such action before, but this is the first time he has announced that he will take concrete steps in the form of a resolution for American acquisition of strategic islands.

"Vitally Important."

In a statement, the senator declared he was convinced that transfer of these islands to American sovereignty "is vitally important to defense plans for the United States." In the event that his proposal came to fruition, he asserted, the American possession of Puerto Rico should be made headquarters for defense in the Caribbean.

Senator Reynolds declared he considered the Caribbean areas of special importance due to their location with respect to the Panama canal and to the Monroe Doctrine. In addition to the islands in the Caribbean, he said, he would propose acquiring Bermuda and New Providence and Bimini Islands, in the Bahamas, and the French owned islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, off Newfoundland.

Lower California, Too.

As part of such a territorial expansion for defense purposes the senator declared that the United States should also acquire Lower California from Mexico and Goose Island, off the coast of Costa Rica.

Commenting upon the importance of the Caribbean area, Senator Reynolds said he felt that the United States should be "mighty glad that the island of Puerto Rico is already under the American flag and well Americanized."

He pointed out that construction now under way at Puerto Rico would make this island a "Gibraltar" for defense of the entire area, and suggested that the bases there be made headquarters for defense operations in the other islands in that area which he proposes the United States take over from Britain and France as partial payment of the war debt.

Valuable Air Bases.

Senator Reynolds pointed out that Bermuda was only 500 miles directly east of the coast of North Carolina, while the Bahamas were virtually in the same waters with Florida. In addition to the defense angle, he said that acquisition of Bermuda would give American trans-Atlantic planes a hopping off place from American territory, while acquisition of the French islands between Newfoundland and Nova Scotia would give an additional jumping off place to American planes flying the northern route.

Reynolds pointed out that there had been much controversy over appropriation by Mexico of oil and other American properties in that nation, and suggested that the United States might well take Lower California in exchange.

PLANS CANAL DEFENSE

Washington, D. C., March 3 [Special].—A few hours after President Roosevelt's return from Panama, official circles were informed that the President personally obtained direct assurances from three countries near the Panama canal that they would allow American military planes to use their fields in case this should ever be necessary for wartime defense of the vital Atlantic-Pacific waterway.

Colombia and Panama were two of these countries, and Costa Rica was mentioned as the other.

Meets Ranking Officials.

It was known that Mr. Roosevelt had conferred with President Augusto S. Boyd of Panama and other Panamanian officials on his 15 day trip thru the Panama canal and up the Pacific coast of Central America, but

8 PLANES FALL IN DAY'S FIGHTING; EMPIRES BAG FIVE

English and Nazis Claim 3 Victories Each.

PARIS, March 3 (AP).—Five German planes have been shot down in the last 24 hours by French and British aerial patrols, military dispatches reported today. Two were bagged by the French and three by the British.

[Germany reported yesterday that its fighting planes shot down three French planes on Saturday.]

The French general staff announced this morning that the two planes bagged by the French were downed yesterday on French soil. One of the victims of the British fell in France and another behind the German lines. Great Britain announced the downing of a third craft but gave no details.

Fly Far into Germany.

With clearing weather bringing out air fighters in increasing numbers on the western front, the French high command reported that several French planes penetrated deep into southern Germany on scouting flights by day and night. All the French planes were said to have returned to their bases. One returned riddled with bullets and a second escaped after encountering 13 German Messerschmitt planes. Some of the planes used by the French were American made Curtiss craft.

[The British air force reported renewed aerial scouting of Germany, including a new flight over Berlin on Saturday night.]

Communique Tells of Raids.

The French general staff's morning communique said:

"Several of our aerial reconnaissances penetrated deeply into Germany by day and night. French pursuit aviation brought down two enemy reconnaissance planes in our lines during March 2. All our crews returned to their bases."

Tonight's communique stated:

"During a raid west of the Vosges mountains the enemy took a few prisoners. On our side, we laid a successful ambush in the region of the Lauter river. Marked activity by aerial forces on both sides."

Four German Planes Fight 12.

BERLIN, March 3 (AP).—An air battle between four German planes and 12 French pursuit craft on the Moselle river sector of the western front was reported today by the German official news agency, DNB.

One enemy plane was shot down before the other French planes flew away, the agency said. The German planes returned to their base.

German scouting planes flew over France as far as the Paris district yesterday, the high command reported.

Its communique said:

"On the west front, no special events.

"The air force scouted over the entire North Sea from before sunup to late afternoon Saturday.

13 Vessels Attacked.

"On the British east coast, two outpost boats and 11 armed or convoyed merchantmen were attacked; some were sunk and some severely hit.

"During the day, northeastern France as far as the Paris region, was scouted.

"During border patrol, there were different air battles along the French-German border. Three French planes were shot down by German fighters in these encounters. Two German scouts are missing."

British Claims Ridiculed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 3.—German officials today ridiculed British claims that their planes flew low over Berlin and dropped flares and leaflets on four of the last five nights.

"A mysterious wave of sleeping sickness must have seized the city, since the planes have not been seen or heard," authorities said.

It was declared that flares that the British reported were dropped last night would have been seen by thousands even if the raid took place in the early morning.

Foreign observers have not reported the finding of any of the leaflets the British claimed they dropped in Unter den Linden and the Wilhelmstrasse, in the heart of the city.

Despite the official denials that enemy planes flew over, Berlin residents have noticed a lively activity of antiaircraft searchlights almost nightly for a week.

Germans explained that the lights were operated for practice only, but this led to speculation as to the reason for keeping the city blacked out if frequent searchlight practice is to betray its position.

Britain Recalls Retired Admirals

The five admirals who were recalled to active duty by Britain yesterday. They are, left to right: Sir Roger J. B. Keyes, Sir Frederick L. Field, Sir Reginald Y. Tyrwhitt, Sir Osmand de B. Brock, and Sir Henry F. Oliver.

Shore Duty Likely

LONDON, March 3 (AP).—Britain today recalled five of her highest naval officers from retirement to active service under an order that those with the rank of admiral of the fleet henceforth would be on the active list for life.

This rank corresponds with that of field marshal of the army. It was explained that those recalled likely would have shore or other duties and would not necessarily be called upon to reassume commands at sea.

The five admirals are Sir Henry F. Oliver, Sir Osmond De B. Brock, Sir Roger J. B. Keyes, Sir Frederick L. Field, and Sir Reginald Y. Tyrwhitt.

CHINESE SECRET SOCIETIES UNITE TO GIVE WAR AID

CHUNGKING, China, March 3.—Secret societies, for centuries powerful instruments in the political and economic life of China, came out in the open here today by organizing a central governing body pledged to support the Chungking government in its anti-Japanese resistance and internal administration.

The societies involved have a membership of more than 20,000,000. Some in the "united front" were active as long ago as the fall of the Ming dynasty, after which they carried on continuous underground activity against Manchu rule. They were instrumental in promoting the Taiping rebellion in 1850, later took part in the republican revolution against the Manchus, and later in the Kuomintang Nationalist party] revolution.

High Kuomingtang officials were present at the dinner here of more than 1,000 at which the central organization was formed. The group was named the Citizens Self-Strengthening society. The names of the highest officials in the new body are secret.

Report British Arms Union Will Lower Bars to Women

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 4 [Monday].—The Amalgamated Engineering union, the most powerful organization of its kind in the arms industry, may admit women as members as advocated by the government and employers, according to statements published here today. An agreement was said to have been reached by employers and union leaders. The unionists have been insisting that idle male labor be absorbed first despite an announcement by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, that a million women will be needed in industry.

REHIRING OF VETS BACK FROM ARMY WORRIES BRITISH

Business Faces Fines if It Rejects Them.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 3.—England today faced for the first time a new problem arising from the war—that of guaranteeing employés conscripted for the army that they will be rehired by their old employers for positions "not less favorable" than the ones they leave.

That business is confronted by a threat became apparent when it was announced that a truck driver is suing his former employers under an act providing a penalty of $200 plus 12 weeks' salary for violation.

His Old Job Abolished.

The truck driver, who was employed for three years by a traction company, was called into military service in August under the reserve forces act. He has been demobilized and has applied to the company to be put back on his old job. The company says it is unable to do so, the job having been abolished as a result of war conditions. It has, however, offered to give him a job in another locality at lower wages. His suit puts it up to the courts to decide whether this is a position "not less favorable."

Another example of how Britain is forced to resort to restrictions similar to those of the enemy she is fighting occurred in Hyde Park.

Antiwar Papers Jail 10.

Hyde Park is famous as the spot at which any person has been permitted to express his views, even if he advocated abolition of the monarchy. Today, however, three women and seven men were arrested when they distributed leaflets and papers. The leaflets included the "Peace News," organ of the antiwar society called the Peace Pledge union, organized some years ago by a churchman; the Daily Worker, a communist newspaper, and Action, the paper of Sir Oswald Mosley, Fascist.

It may be that these vendors of antiwar periodicals were practicing a form of soliciting money, but the press here carefully explains that the vendors of peanuts and sweets are not interfered with. Begging is prohibited in Hyde Park and the distributors of the leaflets may be prosecuted technically on the money transactions.

Bulgaria, 62 Years Free, Celebrates; Lauds Russia

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 3.—The 62d anniversary of the liberation of Bulgaria from Turkish rule was celebrated today with a parade in Sofia and the singing of the Te Deum in the country's churches. The press devoted much space to the rôle Russia played in driving out the Turks in 1878. Church sermons emphasized the traditional friendship between Bulgaria and Russia.

WELLES TO STUDY GERMAN VIEWS ON WAY TO PARIS

Leaves Berlin for Two Day Stop in Switzerland.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON BOARD THE BASEL EXPRESS EN ROUTE TO LAUSANNE, SWITZERLAND, March 3. — The Roosevelt peace mission was backtracking tonight to neutral Switzerland where two days are to be spent in digesting the information gathered from the chiefs of the German state before conversations are begun with the leaders of France and Great Britain.

Hermann Wilhelm Goering [top] and Rudolf Hess.

From Lausanne Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, who heads the mission, will cable brief résumés to the White House of the German phase of the peace offensive.

He will ponder his conferences with Chancellor Hitler, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, potential heir of the Fuehrer, and Rudolf Hess, Hitler's second choice as his successor.

Luncheon with Schacht.

The cables also will carry an account of what transpired at Welles' luncheon yesterday with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former finance minister now without portfolio in the Nazi setup.

As he boarded the train for Switzerland in Berlin, Welles appeared to be tired. His face, altho his muscles are controled by years of diplomatic training, bore lines of wear.

Today Welles motored to Karin hall, the residence of Field Marshal Goering named for his first wife, who was Swedish. Welles spent two hours with Goering.

It was reported that the two men discussed economic matters of interest to German-American relations and world peace. In another conference, Welles met with Hess, deputy party leader.

More Economic Discussions.

This conference also was reported to have centered on economic questions, even tho Hess is not considered an expert in that field. There was no hint given as to the nature of the conversations with Financier Schacht.

In returning to Lausanne, Welles will pick up a member of his party stranded in Switzerland for the duration of the German visit—his English valet. For the three days of his stay in Berlin Welles had to be a valet to himself.

Before he boarded his train in Berlin Welles dined with Alexander C. Kirk, American chargé de'affaires. The train will carry Welles along 100 miles of the Siegfried line tomorrow morning. For the last 50 miles of the trip he will ride between the Siegfried and Maginot lines from Freiburg, Germany, to Basel, Switzerland.

SEES GERMAN ENVOY

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 3.—Just before leaving Berlin for Switzerland tonight, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles had a long chat with Germany's ambassador to Washington, D. C., Dr. Hans Dieckhoff. The German envoy has not been at his post in America since late in 1938, when he was recalled in retaliation for President Roosevelt's withdrawal of Hugh R. Wilson from Berlin to report on conditions in Germany.

Tho diplomats believe Welles' visit will not hasten the return of peace in Europe, they are hopeful that the conversations may pave the way for resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Berlin and Washington.

Germans declared that Fuehrer Hitler and Welles both felt keenly that Germany was the only big country where there was no regular American ambassador and that "relations between the two big powers could be improved quickly if the ambassadorial posts were filled."

A Popular Person.

The cordiality displayed by Welles and the other Americans in their conversations with Dr. Dieckhoff emphasized his personal popularity.

A German spokesman belittled the prospects of peace in the near future, declaring most emphatically that "England must first be taught a severe lesson." Editorials in the German papers referred to this "necessary lesson" and indorsed the claims of Germany's Italian and Spanish friends. The Frankfurter Zeitung, for instance, insisted that "Italy and Spain will continue to consider themselves prisoners in the Mediterranean as long as England controls Gibraltar."

INDIA'S MOSLEMS ASK AMERICANS TO CHECK HINDUS

NEW DELHI, India, March 3.—An appeal to Americans to intercede with the All-India congress in behalf of Indian Moslems was made today by Sir Abdoola Maroon, chairman of the foreign committee of the All-India Moslem league.

Sir Abdoola said the congress seeks to establish the domination of Hindus over India's 90,000,000 Moslems. After charging that the congress refuses to face the question of the Moslems' future, he added:

"There are only two alternates for Britain: Either she should insist on the congress coming to terms with the Moslems and other minorities, whose combined strength exceeds that of the Hindu community which the congress represents, or she should concede the congress demands and thus throw the whole Indian peninsula into civil war."

MRS. ROOSEVELT ON PLANE FORCED BACK BY A FOG

Raleigh, N. C., March 3 (AP).—An Eastern Airlines plane with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt aboard which was prevented by heavy fog from stopping tonight at Richmond, Va., turned back and landed at the Raleigh airport 45 minutes later.

Mrs. Roosevelt boarded the plane at Miami, Fla., at 2 p. m., for a flight to Washington. A White House automobile had been sent to Richmond for Mrs. Roosevelt after fog also had caused cancelation of a scheduled landing at a Washington airport.

Mrs. Roosevelt was brought from the airport to the city in a state highway patrol car. She planned to proceed to Washington by a train leaving at 12:45 a. m. tomorrow.

FINNS DENY ARMY HAS ABANDONED CITY OF VIIPURI

Claim Troops Still Hold Fortified Positions.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 3.—Finnish public opinion has become indignant about false reports spread abroad alleging that the Finns have abandoned Viipuri and burned much of the city before the advance of the Red army.

After interviewing important government officials here, THE TRIBUNE correspondent can state that despite the soviet advance into the Finnish lines toward Viipuri, the Red army still is far from breaking the Mannerheim defense zone, the prepared positions of which, both before and behind Viipuri, still are in the hands of the Finns.

Altho the fourth month of the war finds Finland still fighting alone against Russia I have not seen the slightest evidence of discouragement among the Finns. Even in the heavily bombed cities of Turku, Tampere, Porvoo, or in the small towns of Kauvola, Lahti, and Riihimaki, some of which have lost one-third of their buildings under the persistent raids of the soviet bombers, there is none.

Confident of Ability.

Strengthened and hardened by three months of warfare, Finland is awaiting with calm fresh soviet attacks. The Finns are confident of their ability to defeat communism's plans to overrun Finland.

This opinion was voiced today by a general staff officer who asserted that the withdrawal of the Finnish troops in the western [Viipuri] sector of the Mannerheim defense zone on the Karelian isthmus had no decisive significance.

"The Summa battles [in mid-February] were fought on a large scale," he said. "Many foreign observers compared them with the large battles of the world war. Our armed forces held out for a long time against a numerically superior enemy with all honors. The enemy has gained possession of a relatively small area which has cost him dearly.

Question Value of Gains.

"We question whether or not the results compensate him for the sacrifice of power which was their price.

"The entire military history of soviet Russia and the years of civil war in Russia after the bolsheviks came to power give evidence of the ruthlessness with which the communist party sacrifices hordes of men in attacks and in pressing these attacks home," the officer continued.

"The present rulers of Russia seem to have no fear that they must spare their human material. They place no value whatever on human life. New divisions constantly have been thrown into each attack on the isthmus to take the place of the fallen. In the offensive against Summa on certain days several divisions participated in the attacks and line after line of attacking troops were driven forward against our positions.

Always More Troops.

"Russian losses in this fight reached enormous figures, yet the soviet trenches constantly were filled with fresh troops and the offensive was continued for an entire fortnight. Our defense was unyielding and tenacious. We repelled attack after attack and hurled back the invaders with counterattacks.

"Soviet tanks also failed. When we finally decided to withdraw on one sector of our front, the other sectors [from Vuoksi lake to Taipale] stood still and are still repelling the Red army. Our withdrawal on the western end was carried out in perfect order and without undue pressure."

Red Center in Sweden Burns; Five Lose Lives

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 3.—Headquarters of the Swedish communist party in the town of Luleaa was destroyed today by fire of mysterious origin. Five persons perished. In view of anticommunist feeling spreading as a result of the Russo-Finnish war the police said the fire may have been started by persons antagonistic toward the local party's attitude. The bodies of Arthur Hellberg, manager of the communist daily, Norskensflammen [Northern Light], and his wife were found in the ruins.

T. R.'S SON TELLS PLANS TO FIGHT WITH FINN ARMY

Expects to Sail from England Soon.

LONDON, March 3 (AP).—Kermit Roosevelt, second son of President Theodore Roosevelt, said today he expected to reach Finland soon as leader of an international brigade to fight Russia.

Kermit Roosevelt.

Clad in the uniform of a colonel of the British contingent of the international expeditionary force," Roosevelt told a press conference at his Ritz hotel suite that his unofficial army has 500 experienced fighters and hopes to have 3,000.

It was the first time he had made any public declaration since the Finnish aid bureau announced his selection to command the force.

Recovering from Flu.

His resignation as a major in the British army, a commission taken soon after the war started last fall, was accepted Saturday by King George VI. An hour later he was sworn in as colonel of the international force.

The change in uniforms involved only some new silver buttons inscribed "in" for international brigade.

Pale from a recent bout with influenza and speaking slowly because some of his teeth were removed recently, Roosevelt explained that he regarded Finland's cause as "part of the war for preservation of ourselves against the Gestapo and Ogpu" [German and Russian secret police].

To Fight to American Tune.

His brigade will fight to the tune of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Roosevelt said, adding that his father thought it should have been the American national anthem.

The present force of 500 men will not need much training, he said, because all have had experience—some quite recently—in the British army, in India, and in the world war.

They include Englishmen, Canadians, and some Americans, and "we could use 2,000 more Americans," Roosevelt said.

FINNISH RELIEF DRIVE TO END IN CITY TODAY; FUND EXCEEDS $125,000

The Chicago committee of the Finnish relief fund, which raised an estimated $25,000 in excess of its $100,000 quota, will end its campaign and close its headquarters at 200 South La Salle street today. Philip R. Clarke, chairman, said $100,000 already had been sent to Finland, and that any one wishing to contribute further to the Finnish cause may send donations either to Elmer A. Forsberg, Finnish consul general, at 160 North La Salle street, or to the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., 420 Lexington avenue, New York City.

OPEN SEAS FOR GERMAN COAL ON 16 ITALIAN SHIPS

ROTTERDAM, the Netherlands, March 3 (AP).—Britain has agreed to let 16 Italian ships now in port here pass thru the British-French contraband blockade with German coal, well informed sources reported today.

Four of the vessels, which returned to Rotterdam after failing to beat the Friday deadline set by the British for seizure of German coal on Italian ships, were said to be preparing to sail for home tomorrow. Two other vessels also are expected to sail.

It was understood the British agreed to make an exception in the case of ships which were loading coal when the seizure order became effective. Many of the vessels experienced delays in loading because ice in the river Rhine, by which German coal reaches the Netherlands, held up traffic.

ARCHDUKE OTTO FLYING FROM LISBON TO U. S.

LISBON, Portugal, March 3 (AP).—Archduke Otto left by Clipper plane for the United States today for a visit believed to be for the purpose of enlisting aid of American Catholics in his claims to the nonexistent throne of Austria. His father, Emperor Karl, was the last Austrian monarch.

The American Clipper, which the archduke boarded here, is scheduled to reach Baltimore early tomorrow afternoon by way of the Azores. There were 17 other passengers aboard.

Traveling "incognito," Otto was accompanied by his secretary, Count Trauttmansdarff. Both were strongly protected.

POPE PRAYS ANEW FOR PEACE AT 1ST MASS FOR ROME

Thousands Fill St. Peter's for Benediction.

VATICAN CITY, March 3 (AP).—Pope Pius XII. prayed anew for peace today at a pontifical mass celebrated in St. Peter's for the inhabitants of his native city, Rome, where he was born 64 years ago yesterday.

The pontiff beseeched Jesus Christ "to summon the holy concord of all Christian nations in a common universal homage of faith and adoration of love and prayer for the tranquility and the peace of peoples."

"When empires of the world quake and clash like ocean waves," he said, "when the earth trembles under the roar of cannon, when the seas open up their jaws to swallow men and riches, when in the skies tempests more terrible than those of nature clash over peoples it only remains for us to turn our eyes toward the king of our tabernacles."

Marks New Celebration.

The mass was a new way to celebrate publicly both the pope's birthday and his election to the throne of St. Peter a year ago yesterday. Popes ordinarily celebrate their coronation anniversary not their election. Pius XII will appear again in the church on his coronation anniversary March 12.

Prelates said today's service was the first special mass ever said by a pope for the Romans, altho 103 of the 262 pontiffs were born in Rome. They added that Pius XII, the first Roman born pope in 215 years, probably would make it an annual service.

Speaks 25 Minutes.

Thousands of Romans filled the vast church to cheer wildly for the pontiff and to kneel for his benediction as he was carried thru the aisles.

He spoke in Italian in a clear and forceful voice for nearly 25 minutes. Microphones beside the throne amplified his words for the vastness of the basilica and also for broadcast.

ITALY PROTESTS AGAINST BRITISH COAL BLOCKADE

Complaint Accompanied by Sharp Press Attack.

ROME, March 3 (AP).—Aroused by Britain's newly enforced blockade against German coal shipments to Italy, Premier Mussolini's government today presented a strongly worded protest to the British embassy.

Roberto Farinacci.

The government's prompt action, which came within 36 hours after the British clamped on the blockade, was accompanied by a bitter press attack by Roberto Farinacci, outspoken member of the Fascist grand council, who termed Britain's move "an act of arrogance and insolence."

Writing in his Il Regime Fascista, the only newspaper to comment on the coal controversy, Farinacci said the blockade was "the reaction to our refusal to sell arms to England."

Unarmed Populations.

"Besides it was hoped to oblige our country to buy coal from Welsh mines and put our ships in peril in the North sea," he said. "When a fight is waged against unarmed populations and not against armies, any reaction is legitimate."

Farinacci's words gave a hint as to the tone of the Italian note, the text of which was not expected to be made public until its transmission to London.

The British are prepared to provide Italy with coal in return for certain products of Italian heavy industry. But Italy prefers to pay in agricultural products since her own armament program already imposes a heavy load on her factories.

From the economic standpoint the foreign coal supply is a major issue for this country. Italy's annual coal consumption roughly is 14,000,000 tons, of which domestic production furnished about 2,000,000 tons.

Available Stocks Rationed.

In 1939 Germany supplied a little less than 7,000,000 tons, of which about one-third was water borne, while England's quota was about 4,500,000 tons. In recent months Italy has been passing thru a coal crisis, due partly to transportation difficulties arising from severe winter and wartime conditions.

Consequently the government monopoly has been compelled to ration available coal stocks rather strictly.

Nearly 150 train schedules have been eliminated to conserve coal and the advisability of halting all passenger traffic one or two days a week has been discussed.

Seeking relief from the situation, Italy has three main possibilities—increased imports from Germany by rail, increased imports from England or obtaining supplies from the United States.

Rail Facilities Limited.

Railroad facilities limit the possibility of obtaining more German coal. The hazards of carrying coal by vessel thru the war zone from Wales and increased expense resulting from war risk insurance and delays, quite aside from political considerations, affect the desirability of increasing British imports.

The long ocean haul from the United States and the present lack of credit facilities there must be considered in connection with American imports. Trade experts say a thoro revision of American-Italian trade relations probably would be necessary to enable gold-starved Italy to buy in the United States.

Complications such as these cause political circles to wonder how the coal blockade may weigh Italy's delicately balanced attitude toward the war.

Rothermere Will Dispose of His Collection of Art

LONDON, March 3. — Viscount Rothermere, British press lord who has retired from active control of his chain of newspapers, has decided to dispose of his art collection. He cabled his decision from Egypt and offered to give three pictures to the national gallery. The collection, built up over 40 years, is notable in its representation of Italian old masters.

Snowfall and Precipitation in Chicago by Years Since 1900

extends now 8 to 18 inches below the surface, and that there is no indication any wheat that got a fair start in the fall has been damaged. Truck farmers, however, are hoping for heavy rains in the later spring, before they plant their fields.

Carl M. Bormet of Tinley Park says the ground on his farm has begun to thaw a little at the top, but that there's 16 inches of frost below. He believes wheat in his vicinity is in fair condition. Michael F. Lies, who lives near the Du Page farm, is of the same opinion.

Wells and Ponds Low.

One of the surest signs of abnormally low subsoil moisture is the low level of wells and ponds. This helps to convince the farmers that the weather bureau's diagnosis of unusual drouth is correct.

The Chicago area isn't the only section that has suffered. All northern Illinois, northern Indiana, and most of Iowa need moisture. In fact, the whole territory between the Alleghenies and the Rockies is dry.

Up to 6:30 a. m. yesterday the total precipitation since Jan. 1 was 3.13 inches, or about three-quarters the normal precipitation for the period. And of this less-than-normal figure nearly a third [.99 inches] was registered in the 24 hours ending yesterday morning. Weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel has an explanation for the low precipitation readings despite the plentiful snowfalls in February.

A Difference in Flakes.

"Low temperatures and dry atmosphere when snow falls make the flakes light," he said. "There's no standard for saying how much water a given depth of snow will make when it melts. Sometimes seven inches of snow equal an inch of rain; sometimes it takes 20 inches.

"It's all a matter of humidity and temperature. The cooler and drier the air the less moisure in the snow. This year we've had comparatively dry snowfalls."

Thus there is no direct relation between the amount of snowfall and the amount of precipitation over any period. For instance, in the winter of 1919-'20, 21.9 inches of snow was reported, but the precipitation, which includes both snow and rain, totaled only 1.94 inches.

On the other hand, there was 5.5 inches of precipitation, but only 6.3 inches of snowfall in 1936-'37. That was the second lightest snowfall for any winter on record. The lightest snowfall was 1930-'31, with 5.7 inches, when the total precipitation amounted to only 1.6 inches, which was the lowest for any winter. The 3.04 inches of precipitation recorded for the three months ended last Thursday includes 22 inches of snow.

Deepest Snow in 1930.

The deepest single snowfall in Chicago's history was on March 25-26, 1930, when 19.2 inches fell in 43 hours and 45 minutes. The record for a deep, swift fall of snow was set on Jan. 30 last year, when 14.9 inches fell in 12 hours and 40 minutes.

The wettest winter was 1895-'96, when a total precipitation of 11.36 inches was noted. Most of it was in the form of rain, the snowfall being only 33 inches. In 1917-'18 there was 59.9 inches of snowfall, but the precipitation for that period totaled only 7.81 inches.

Generally, farmers prefer early snows. These form a protective covering for the ground as well as for grains, and help prevent deep freezing. This year the snowfall was late.

STOCK FARMERS 3 TO 1 AGAINST U. S. CROP RULE

America's live stock farmers stand 3 to 1 against government control of production and any form of federal subsidy, according to a survey reported yesterday by Breeder's Gazette, magazine of the live stock industry.

In reply to a questionnaire covering four major phases of government policy, 200,000 stock breeders voted as follows:

	YES.	NO.
Should production be controled?	26%	74%
Should payments be made for soil conservation?	27%	73%
Should United States make "parity payments" to farmers?	22%	78%
Would you give up all farm benefit payments in the interest of a balanced budget?	77%	23%

"The live stock farmers of America stand 3 to 1 in favor of an independent agriculture," commented Samuel R. Guard, editor of Breeder's Gazette.

"Our farmers, 3 to 1, would give up all subsidies whatsoever if that billion were entered in the national ledger as agriculture's contribution to a balanced budget. Replies to the questionnaire express a stout faith in the future of agriculture and of America. The stock farmer has faith in his business and in himself to institute adequate recovery."

TIRES OF SEEING REWARD OFFERS, SO SURRENDERS

Danville, Ill., March 3 [Special].—John Blackwell, alias Wellman, 41 years old, sought as the third of the Illinois Central railroad mail robber gang, surrendered here today. He said he could no longer endure seeing his picture on government reward circulars in post-offices thruout the nation. He traveled here from San Francisco to give himself up.

John Blackwell.

He was named as the third robber by James A. Tracy, who was sentenced Feb. 6 to 25 years in prison for the attempted robbery. John Frank Waldon was sentenced to 50 years.

Three men tried to take a $75,000 pay roll from an Illinois Central mail car near Onarga in Iroquois county last July 31. Mail clerks shot and captured Waldon. Tracy escaped to an automobile driven by the third man, but was captured a few days later.

WATERLOO MAN CHOKES TO DEATH.

Waterloo, Ia., March 3 [Special].—Edward Twedell, 57 years old, an employe of a Waterloo packing company, choked to death last night when eating a midnight lunch.

RESUME INQUEST IN GOON DEATH OF HVID TOMORROW

No Suspects Held After Two Months.

Sixty-nine days after labor terrorists wielded the baseball bats that killed Marinus Hvid, the coroner's inquest into his murder will be resumed tomorrow.

No suspects are in custody. Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall police said yesterday that he would ask that the inquest be concluded, altho the police investigation is to go on.

Hvid was the owner of a strike picketed garage at 3514 North Halsted street. The strike was called last March, shortly after he had been expelled from the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, an employers' organization, by the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers and Garage Helpers' union.

No Dispute with Employés.

Hvid complained that he believed the garage organization and the union were working together, since there was no dispute between him and his employés. But the strike went on.

Labor goons lay in wait for him on Dec. 27 and beat him into unconsciousness with their baseball bats. Hvid, the father of four children, died three days later.

Business and civic leaders demanded that the killers be tracked down, but they are still at large. Hvid's murder was the 32d Chicago labor killing of the last nine years. Convictions have been obtained in only one case.

Grand Jury Investigating.

While the police searched for the killers, a grand jury investigation was begun by William Crawford, assistant state's attorney. The inquiry is still pending.

Six candidates for the office of state's attorney have pledged themselves to attempt to stamp out labor goon killings if they are elected.

The All-Chicago Council of the Chicago Association of Commerce is cooperating with law enforcement officials in an effort to solve the mystery of the Hvid murder. The council is headed by Frank A. Hecht.

4 Slain in Argentine Vote Disorders; One a Senator

BUENOS AIRES, March 3 (AP).—Four men, including one provincial senator, were killed in election disorders today as voters in nine of Argentina's 14 provinces voted on 65 deputies to the national congress. In Buenos Aires province Senator Luis Guerci was shot to death during a dispute at the polls. In Santa Fe province three members of the radical Civil Union were killed during a riot.

SENATOR BRIDGES ASSAILS FOREIGN TRADE POLICIES

Washington, D. C., March 3 (AP).—Senator Styles Bridges [R., N. H.], declaring that the trade agreements program was subjecting American farmers and workmen to ruinous foreign competition, said tonight that congress should reassert its power to make tariffs.

"Six years of secret trade agreement bargaining by state department burocrats," Bridges said in a statement, "have resulted in destroying one-third the protection that formerly safeguarded the American market for Americans.

"Burocracy, bargaining secretly with foreign negotiators, has made a mess of our farm export trade and is sacrificing the American market. Extension of the trade agreement program will subject the United States to ruinous competition when the millions of men now at war become producers again."

GIRL INJURED, CLOTHING TORN, FOUND IN AUTO

A young woman was found unconscious early today in an abandoned automobile at 66th street and Western avenue. Her clothing was torn and her body was bruised. Chicago Lawn police took her to the County hospital.

During momentary consciousness she identified herself as Miss Peggy Granstrom, 21 years old, of Zion, in Lake county. She did not say how she got into the abandoned car.

Medical examination indicated that she had taken an overdose of sleep inducing medicine. Doctors said she would recover. Police hope to trace the automobile in which she was found.

MONEY, JEWELRY, GUN STOLEN.

Burglars entered the home of Frank Sus, 5017 South Wood street, last evening and took $90, a revolver, and two rings.

GERMANS REGRET THEY SHOT DOWN BELGIAN PLANES

Flyers Fired by Mistake, Ambassador Told.

BERLIN, March 3 (AP).—Germany today expressed regret when the Belgian ambassador, Vicomte Davignon, protested to the foreign office against the shooting down of two Belgian planes by a German bomber in an air combat over Belgian soil on Saturday.

Vicomte Davignon.

The following official version of the incident was given by the Germans:

"A German scouter returning from the north of France was attacked by seven planes of the English Hurricane type.

"Because of this and the impression he was flying over French soil, the German pilot held the attackers [Belgians] to be English pursuiters.

"In the air fight one plane was shot down. The German reached home safely. Later it was established that the fight occurred a few minutes' flying time from the French border over Belgian soil, and the plane shot down was Belgian."

Belgians Fire at More Craft.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 3 (AP).—Unidentified foreign planes sighted high over a Brussels suburb drew the fire of Belgian antiaircraft batteries again today. The government meanwhile awaited Berlin's reply to a protest provoked by a German bomber that yesterday shot down two Belgian army planes, killing the pilot of one.

Belgian newspapers commented sharply on the incident, and the Antwerp Metropole expressed hope that "this most serious and regrettable violation of our neutrality is not the beginning of a new German policy."

The public, while indignant, showed no signs of unusual alarm.

Called "Deliberate Aggression."

The Brussels newspaper Nation Belge said the action of the German bomber, reported to have opened fire when surrounded by three Belgian planes over Belgium's Luxemburg province, was "deliberate aggression, and no other words can explain the odious act." It added:

"This intolerable aggression amply justified the government's strong protest that such an act of force cannot be repeated."

The protest was delivered yesterday by Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak to the German ambassador, Vicco Karl von Buelow-Schwante.

With Film Award

[Acme Photo.]

Vivien Leigh with statuette awarded her for her performance in "Gone with the Wind."

Hollywood, Cal., March 3 [Special].—Fresh from crowning her initial attempt at Hollywood stardom with a coveted gold statuette for what the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences termed the outstanding performance by an actress for films released in 1939, Vivien Leigh, the Scarlett of David Selznick's "Gone With the Wind," was reported in seclusion at her Hollywood home today.

Miss Leigh, who less than a year ago was brought from relative obscurity, as far as the American film public was concerned, to enact the title rôle for which virtually every actress in Hollywood had been considered, was awarded the prized "Oscar" at the academy's annual banquet at the Cocoanut Grove. Recently sued for divorce by Herbert Leigh Holman of London, she is expected to wed Laurence Olivier of the films in New York this fall.

Mine in River Destroys Jap Warship, Chinese Say

HONGKONG, March 3 (AP).—The Chinese Central news agency reported today that a mine destroyed a Japanese destroyer Feb. 24 on the Yangtze river in northern Kiangsi province. It reported more than 100 Japanese killed. The mine was reported one of a large number laid in the Yangtze by Chinese guerrillas.

PROHIBITION ERA MAKES FRENCH BOW TOMORROW

Government Speeds Up Curb on Cafe Menus.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 3.—One experience that the ordinary Frenchman never dreamed he would ever have to undergo—that of government imposed prohibition—will begin on Tuesday, it was officially announced today.

A decree banning the sale or public consumption on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays of aperitifs, cordials, and fortified spirits will go into effect then. The thirsty ones who can't get along without a tipple on those three days will have only light wines and beer with which to regale themselves unless they stock up in advance and drink in privacy.

Speed Curb on Café Food.

It was also announced that new regulations forbidding restaurants to serve more than two principal plates, or more than 100 grams of meat [about 3½ ounces], and limiting the choice of hors d'oeuvres and desserts will go into effect on March 11. This is the day meat rationing is to begin in England.

A decree closing pastry shops and candy and chocolate stores on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays will go into effect for the first time on March 12.

The speed with which the new regulations are being put in force has surprised the population. There is little serious grumbling, but most people are now expecting to get their ration cards and to face bread restrictions in the near future.

Soldiers to Get Hot Wine.

While restricting civilian liquor consumption, the government is making sure the soldier will have all he wants of his favorite drink—hot wine.

Today was national Soldiers' Hot Wine day. Troops of uniformed young girls invaded cafés, night clubs, and theaters and movies at intermissions and distributed little badges to persons who dropped a few francs into their collection boxes.

The drive was expected to net about 16,000,000 francs [about $350,000], which will be used to supply the steaming drink free to the poilus at the front and in railway stations.

STEEL WORKERS' UNION WILL MEET IN CITY ON MAY 14

Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, announced in Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday that the second international convention of the S. W. O. C. will open in Chicago May 14. Murray said about 1,000 delegates from the United States and Canada will attend. His announcement was made at a meeting of district lodges, at which 400 delegates adopted a resolution urging peace between the Congress of Industrial Organizations, with which the S. W. O. C. is affiliated, and the American Federation of Labor.

Former Chicagoans Die When Auto Hits Train

Sturgis, Mich., March 3 [Special].—Elridge M. Simpson, 55 years old and his wife, Willa, 43, who lived near Centerville, were killed early today when their car crashed into a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train in Nottawa, eight miles north of Sturgis. They were former residents of Chicago.

FALL KILLS AMERICAN SAILOR.

Gibraltar, March 3 (AP).—Seaman Anthony Dekker, 26 years old, of Seattle was killed today in a fall from the mast of the American export liner Exeter.

WOMAN CROSSING BRIDGE CRUSHED TO DEATH BY CAR

Driver Loses Control as Wheel Hits Hole.

A young woman was crushed to death and another was slightly injured last night when they were struck by an automobile on the narrow Wilson avenue bridge at the north branch of the Chicago river west of Western avenue.

The victim was Miss Arline Rhode, 27 years old, 4728 North Maplewood avenue. The young woman injured was Miss Olive Monahan, 24, of 2503 Eastwood avenue.

They were walking across the bridge when Stanley Kempner, 20, of 7053 Ridge avenue, a salesamn, lost control of the automobile he was driving. It brushed Miss Monahan to one side, but pinned Miss Rhode against the bridge wall. Her legs were mangled and she died a few minutes later. Miss Monahan escaped with bruises. Kempner told police that his car hit a hole in the bridge surface, causing him to lose control of the machine.

Chinese Fatally Injured.

Joseph Linden, 60, of 4908 Congress street, a street car conductor, was killed last night when he was run down by a motor truck in front of 4814 Harrison street. The driver was Peter Klomans, 32, of 5242 Adams street.

Police yesterday sought the hit and run driver whose car earlier in the day fatally injured Edward O. Miller, 40, of 1583 Maple avenue, Evanston, at Pitner avenue and Church street in the suburb. Miller was struck as he was carrying gasoline to his car, which had run out of fuel.

In another hit and run case, Frank Rusin, 57, of 1304 West 13th avenue, Gary, was killed at 13th avenue and Lincoln street in Gary.

Pedestrian Killed by Truck.

Gime Lee, 30 years old, a Chinese, of 22 West Cermak road, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile at Cermak road and Wentworth avenue. Raymond Bolda, 4073 Oakland crescent, was the driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 168 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 125 were killed in Chicago, where 3,559 were injured in traffic accidents in the same period.

STRAUSSIANA

By CALEB

VIENNA in 1825 was the luring and laughterful city of all its legends—and in that year was born Johann Strauss the Younger. Breathing and feeling music from his childhood, he began composing when other lads were loitering into adolescence—gave the world Die Fledermaus, the Blue Danube, and countless other waltzes—lived to become the melody king of his time—and died at 74, just as the Nineteenth Century was ending.

Here in America, the mature Strauss has been long and well known. But what of his earliest work, the revelatory musical creations of his boyhood? These we would gladly know, too, if we could. But could we? . . .

Thereby hangs the tale of an interesting transaction, consummated between Dr. Harold Spivacke, Chief of the Music Division in the Library of Congress, and the late Paul Lowenberg, of Vienna. This latter gentleman was an Austrian railroad man, not a musical authority; a music lover who had devoted his spare moments to the monumental task of collecting all the sheet-music and information available regarding the two illustrious Viennese families of Lanner and Strauss.

This collection, completely systemstized and indexed, ran to 1,644 pieces, comprising four large folio volumes—and by a stroke of luck, its treasure-trove arrived in Washington as a single shipment, just after the appearance of German troops in Vienna. In the spring of 1939, arrangement was made for James H. Fassett to examine the collection, and select typical Strauss waltzes, quadrilles, polkas and marches for first-time-in-America rendition by the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

In a trio of new records, this "Rediscovered Music" of Strauss is now one of the features of our fourth-floor record section. And with what delightful wonder have I listened to this Viennese virtuoso's compositions while still a boy! Judge for yourself his Dances of the Harem, written at 19, and you will marvel, too. As for the combination recording of Explosions Polka and Electrofor Polka, composed when Strauss was but 22, and first played at a students' ball of the Vienna Hoch-Schüle in 1865—I have no words for their buoyant brilliancy. "Gay and brief as champagne bubbles"—"lyric as Spring breezes"—are phrases that accompany such music through the hearer's mind.

Today, as it has never needed it before, the world needs music—humanity's anodyne. And from these earliest, long unknown examples of his work, devotees of Johann Strauss can imbibe again all the melodic joie de vivre that filled his own youth, in the vivacious Vienna of a full century ago.

GUTKNECHT RIPS INTO A CERTAIN DEMOCRATIC FOE

Assails Courtney Record Without Naming Him.

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht assailed State's Attorney Courtney in a radio speech yesterday without mentioning the prosecutor's name.

Courtney has been indorsed by the Cook county Democratic central committee for renomination in the primary of April 9. Judge Gutknecht, sponsored by an independent committee, filed against him and has begun an aggressive campaign on the air and the billboards. His chief plea has been that members of the regular organization should help nominate him.

State's Attorney Courtney is expected to return from Florida early this week and swing forcibly into the campaign of the regular organization when it is opened next week. He was unopposed in the 1936 primary and was not forced to make any campaign for his first renomination.

Seeks Regulars' Support.

Judge Gutknecht opened his plea for support from within the regular organization by saying that he has the open or secret good wishes of at least four-fifths of the members of the party.

Then he began his indirect discussion of his opponent.

"For various reasons of policy, today at least," he said, "the leaders of the party are giving their support to a candidate for this office who does not represent the spirit of the Democratic party today—who does not have the respect and support of the rank and file of the party membership. Those leaders, if quoted correctly, admit they have made a mistake."

Appeals to Precinct Captains.

Judge Gutknecht stated his own qualifications in terms of praise and continued:

"The public can nominate such a man or his exact opposite. Unless the public evinces its interest, the exact opposite will be nominated. You have a chance to reverse a tentative decision that is not to the interests of Cook county, the Democratic party, or the future of the democracy in our locality.

"Every precinct captain and every inquiring voter knows that the leading Republican candidates for the office are hoping that my opponent will win the Democratic nomination."

After discussing his personal history, Judge Gutknecht returned to the attack.

Assails Prosecutor's Record.

"What is it you want in a state's attorney?" he asked. "Do you want a candidate whose whole adult life has been devoted to public job holding, who has drawn as many as four public salaries at one and the same time, whose career as a lawyer has been so limited that he has yet to try a complete case?

"Do you object to brains and scholarship in public office or do you prefer that a state's attorney should ignore the teachings of constitutional law and be unacquainted with the answers that American history has given to its economic and social problems?"

Near the close of his talk, Judge Gutknecht said that if he is nominated there will be no "mass desertions" to the other side. This was understood as a prediction that some of the regulars will knife State's Attorney Courtney if he is renominated.

WPA WORKER TO FACE ARSON CHARGE TODAY

Gustave Kostman, a WPA worker, who confessed setting fire to his home to collect $2,000 on a fire insurance policy, will be arraigned in the Felony court today on a charge of arson. Kostman, an ex-convict, lived with his wife and two children at 5620 Ozark avenue.

Kostman, who has been a WPA worker for three years, said he purchased expensive furniture with his army bonus and money he earned while formerly working as bricklayer. On Feb. 24 he set fire to the home, causing $1,000 damage.

Kostman served a year in Joliet penitentiary in 1930 for larceny and four months in the Bridewell before that for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. In 1933 he was charged with tampering with the mails and fined $100.

Moves to Acquire Foreign Islands

Island possessions of Britain and France in the Caribbean and near Newfoundland (inset). Senator R. R. Reynolds yesterday announced he would introduce resolutions in the senate to ask the President to acquire Bermuda (1), Bimini (2) and New Providence (3) islands in the Bahamas, and other British and French islands in the Caribbean and other areas near North and Central America. He would also make Puerto Rico (4) defense headquarters in the Caribbean. The senator did not specify the Caribbean islands which should be acquired.

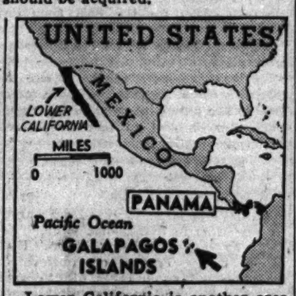
official circles were informed after his return that he had seen ranking representatives of two other nations.

That Colombia should give assurances about use of air fields in case of war was considered particularly interesting in view of the earlier difficulties about the presence in Colombia of German pilots working for the Scadta commercial air lines. The Germans among these flyers are understood to have been eliminated.

The President in a press conference yesterday said that, as an outcome of the Lima and Panama declarations, complete understanding existed among all American republics on joint defense of the canal. Mr. Roosevelt denied that the use of land adjacent to that now under United States jurisdiction would be necessary in strengthening the canal's defenses.

President Boyd of Panama is understood to have assured Mr. Roosevelt that Panama regards its interests as identical with those of the United States as far as defense of the canal is concerned. The President, it was pointed out today, could have seen the representatives of two other countries on Feb. 27 when he inspected the Pacific defenses of the canal.



Lower California is another area that would be sought under Reynolds' plan, and the Galapagos Islands have been mentioned as vital to national defense.

COUNTY IS SAFE FOR LYONS, SAYS CAMPAIGN CHIEF

Green's Claims in City and Suburbs Denied.

BY PARKE BROWN.

James E. Hill of Streator, downstate campaign manager for the Brooks-Lyons Republican primary team, sent to county chairmen and other county leaders supporting those candidates a letter of good cheer yesterday concerning the situation in Cook county.

James E. Hill.

He predicted that Wayland Brooks will win the senatorship nomination and that Richard J. Lyons will be nominated for governor.

"Brooks and Lyons," he wrote, "will sweep Cook county on April 9! We are so enthused about the situation that we are pointing toward the November battle because we consider this primary contest as good as won now."

Hill told the downstaters that since he had been requiring them to submit reports concerning conditions in their areas he would reciprocate by telling them of the situation in Cook county as he has learned it during his stay at Chicago headquarters in the Hotel Sherman. It was construed as a denial of claims to support in Chicago and its suburbs made recently by backers of Dwight H. Green, Lyons' opponent.

The letter opened with an explanation that altho downstate counties elect their precinct committeemen, Cook county elects ward and township committeemen who appoint precinct captains to handle the detailed organization work. Therefore, it said, organization support in the metropolitan area is determined by the ward and township committeemen.

"The very Republican organizations which have been faithful thru the years, which got out the big vote in 1938 and supported Mr. Lyons' [present] opponent in his maiden campaign of 1939 are now with Lyons," wrote Manager Hill.

80 Per Cent Working for Lyons.

"Better than 80 per cent of the ward organizations in the city of Chicago are hard at work for him. Only one of the 30 township organizations has declared for his lone opponent, and of the 29 that remain, 27 are aggressively campaigning for Lyons.

"Already 3,477 precinct captains in Cook county are with Lyons and 606 are supposed to be with his opponent. However, there is some question whether there are even 606 for him. Many of these captains desire to support Lyons as was evidenced the other evening when 62 of the 80 precinct captains of the 38th ward held a meeting to protest against the action of their ward committeeman who had announced for the opposition."

Green headquarters issued a statement that the campaign manager there, Deneen Watson, also had sent a letter to local and county managers in which he said:

"Mr. Green continues to ride the crest of a triumphant ground swell in his downstate campaign and it has now become a contest between Cook county and downstate as to which will give Green the biggest plurality, with the nomination no longer in doubt."

Brooks and Lyons resume their downstate touring this morning, the former's managers referring to the journey this time as Brooks' "birthday week" celebration because he will be 43 years old next Friday.

Green will deliver two radio talks tonight and will attend a messkit dinner and the second weekly rally of supporters in the La Salle hotel, where his headquarters are located. Tomorrow he will take up his last week of downstate touring.

All Brightened, Ready!

WE GREET this spring of 1940 with a newness, both physical and spiritual, that you'll surely notice.

The Homestead has been doing just that for a hundred and fifty years—a hundred and fifty springs.

Now, in March of 1940, you'll witness another renewal of our youth—and you'll think again that it is surely more than physical, more than the work of plasterers and painters and decorators. You'll be right; it is. For The Homestead has the long habit of being new every spring—and the habit, too, of communicating that feel of its newness, its renewed youth, to its guests.

The Hasty Pudding's show, from Harvard, comes this year on Tuesday evening, April second. Will you be here then?

"You know, Bill . . . the longer I stay in railroading, the more kick I get out of it. Why, we're feeding the world! Take this lunch. If it weren't for the trains to haul our food, I wouldn't have this banana and you wouldn't be drinking that coffee. And those kids you're so proud of—would they be half so full of pep if they didn't get their cereal and fresh fruit every day?

"Right here on this freight train you'll find nearly everything anybody'd need for living. Look at those carloads of lumber, and fuel, and those shipments of clothing, shoes and machinery. We're bringing all these things from where they can be produced cheapest, to be sold some place else at prices people can afford.

"I guess that's what they mean by keeping up the American standard of living. It depends pretty much on good shipping . . . the kind we're responsible for as conductor and brakeman on this Illinois Central train."

JEWELER TELLS HOW HE KILLED 2 YOUNG BURGLARS

Fires 3 Shots from Big Game Rifle.

Robert A. Thomas, whose fingers have a genius in precision work with watches and minute machinery parts, went back to work at his delicate craft yesterday in the workshop behind his home at 25 West Maple street, Lombard.

Robert M. McWilliams.

A few hours earlier, with a touch as sure as if he were adjusting the cogwheel of a watch, he had pressed the trigger of a rifle three times. With those three shots he killed two schoolboys who had broken into the shop.

Inquest to Be Today.

The boys, neither of whom ever had been in trouble before, were John McKenna, 14 years old, of 318 South Grace street, Lombard, an eighth grade student in Lincoln school, and Robert M. McWilliams, 16, of 222 South Grace street, a sophomore in Glenbard High school, Glen Ellyn.

The inquest into the death of the boys will be conducted at 11 a. m. today in a Lombard mortuary by Dr. Paul A. Isherwood, coroner of Du Page county. Meanwhile, Thomas gave his statement to Chief of Police Richard Groote of Lombard.

Thomas is 59 years old. He has lived in Lombard for 30 years. He retired 15 years ago from his trade as a tool and die maker, and since then has worked in his shop, repairing watches and making precision machinery.

All his life he has tinkered with watches. He also is an inventor. He is a specialist on burglar alarms, and his shop, stocked with delicate tools and machinery, is well protected.

Tells Story of Slaying.

Thomas sat in this shop, the scene of the shooting, and puffed leisurely at a pipe as he told his story to police. He spoke calmly.

He has two sons, but they are married and live away from home. His wife is visiting in the east. So Thomas confronted the police alone.

"My shop is protected by burglar alarms not only on the doors and on the windows, but also by hidden alarms in the floor and in the ceiling," he said.

"When I am working in the shop, I always have a .38 caliber pistol on the bench beside me. When anybody comes in, they can see the gun lying there. When they see it, I tell them it's there because somebody might hold me up. That's why I surrounded my place with burglar alarms—to protect myself.

"All of these burglar alarms are connected with a buzzer on the wall of my bedroom which I turn on when I go to bed. Last night at 10:45 the buzzer rang. I was asleep.

Grabs Big Game Rifle.

"I put on my slippers and dressed hurriedly. I grabbed my rifle, a .32-20 Marlin piece for shooting big game, and I also put the .38 caliber automatic in my pocket.

"As I opened the back door I saw the door of my shop ajar.

"I approached and saw flashes in the shop. I knew that I'd got my men. I went back to the house and tried to call the police, but I couldn't get the operator to answer. I knew then that I was on my own. I hustled back to the shop and kicked the door open and jumped inside.

"Ten feet away, across the shop, a shadow moved. There were no words spoken. I fired one shot from the rifle and the form dropped."

The bullet struck the McKenna boy in the heart.

"Another shadow beside the first one ducked," Thomas continued. "I fired as he went down. He apparently crawled under a work bench. I jumped around the end of the bench and saw his head. I fired again and hit him in the head."

This was the McWilliams boy.

Calls the Police.

"The boys were lying there moaning," Thomas resumed. "I went back into the house and called the police department. I told the officer I had a couple of dead ones for them to take away."

At this point a Lombard man came into the shop with a broken watch. Thomas broke off his narrative and went to a work bench. Ten minutes later he handed the watch back in perfect repair to its owner. Then he said:

"I didn't want to touch anything after the shooting. I wanted to leave everything just as it was for the police. I always thought I was a poor shot, but, now that I come to think of it, I've always been very good at rabbits."

Police found that the two boys had broken the door of the shop, jimmying the lock. In their pockets were three wrist watch straps, valued at 50 cents apiece.

McKenna's father, William, a tile setter, and his mother, Ruth, said they went to the Du Page theater in Lombard Saturday night. Their son and young McWilliams sat ahead of them with a school girl friend.

Boys Walk to Girl's Home.

At 10:25 the parents left the theater, expecting the boys to follow them home. The three youngsters left the theater about 10:30. The two boys escorted the girl home. Then they apparently went directly to to Thomas' shop.

Mrs. McKenna, sobbing, cried:

"I don't know what possessed the boys to prowl there. They were innocent children. Just think—two boys killed for $1.50."

Her son was active in Lincoln school, a member of the camera and glee clubs. He has two older brothers, 19 and 22.

"My boy never was in trouble," Mrs. Esther McWilliams said. Her husband, John, is a janitor in Glenbard High school, which Robert attended. They are the parents of a girl, 11, and another boy, 17.

Chief Groote said Thomas was within his rights protecting his property against burglars, that in the darkness he did not know whether he was confronted by boys or by armed criminals.

RESCUERS REACH DISABLED SHIP FAR IN ATLANTIC

Rockland, Me., March 3 (AP).—The 3,456 ton Greek freighter Makis, leaking in tempestuous weather 1,000 miles east of New York, has advised ships proceeding to her assistance to resume their courses, Mackay radio reported today. The ship's master said the Iceland steamer Godafoss was standing by to lend assistance if it should be required during the night. Altho the Makis had a broken rudder, chain, and hatch, and water in her engine room, the captain was unwilling to abandon ship.

En route from Gulf of Mexico ports to Liverpool or Havre, the 340 foot steamer sent out an SOS call yesterday afternoon asking for immediate assistance. At least seven ships swerved off their courses to go to her aid.

Aground Off Mexico.

New York, March 3 (AP).—Mackay radio picked up a message at 5:55 a. m. [Chicago time] today from the steamer Timber Rush reporting she was aground off the western coast of Mexico and needed assistance. The Timber Rush, a 5,542 ton freighter owned by the Shepard Steamship company of Portland, Me., was en route to California ports by way of the Panama canal, Mackay said. Her location was given as 17 miles southeast of Tartar shoal, which is about 85 miles southeast of Acapulco.

DANISH FLYERS ACTIVE—FEED ISOLATED BIRDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 3.—Denmark's royal air force is seeing activity daily, but in a peaceful way. On a reconnoitering flight over the country's icelocked North sea coast where shipping now is at a standstill, one of the flyers discovered a flock of 2,000 wild swans stranded near the island of Zealand. Without food, the birds were doomed to death by starvation on the mass of ice. The flyer reported his discovery. Soon a number of royal air force planes were loaded with bread which the pilots dropped to the exhausted swans.

PALESTINE JEWS RIOT AGAINST BRITISH LAW LIMITING LAND SALES

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 3.—As a result of the Jewish demonstrations yesterday against a British law limiting land sales to Jews, a curfew was imposed today in the Aviv and the Jewish quarter of Haifa.

In Tel Aviv four processions were formed yesterday by worshipers as they came out of synagogues. Some of the marchers dispersed on police order, but others erected a barricade and threw stones. Several policemen and some of the demonstrators were injured.

In Haifa the demonstrators threw stones at the police station and broke the windows of the Jewish district officer's car.

DEMANDS ACTION ON BILL TO CURB BUREAU POWERS

Left Wingers Blamed for Opposition.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Representative Francis E. Walter [D., Pa], high ranking member of the house judiciary committee, announced today that he would demand early action in the house on his bill to curb New Deal burocracies.

The bill was given the right of way in the house by the rules committee more than three weeks ago. The house leadership, however, has delayed its consideration. The measure has aroused vehement opposition from the administration.

"The constitution of the United States," Walter declared, "has no place for arbitrary despotism and oppressive action in the administration of law. This bill will regulate the regulators and govern the burocrats who today have mushroomed in the network of federal administration until their rules and edicts in many instances have become oppressive and wholly unreasonable.

Finds System is Spreading.

"Many citizens have been deprived of their rights without the privilege of any appeal to courts of justice. The system whereby such boards, commissions and other governmental agencies have become prosecutors, judges and executioners of arbitrary decisions is spreading thruout practically all administrative departments."

Walter acknowledged that there has been an attempt to sidetrack the measure, but asserted emphatically that the effort would not be successful. A similar measure passed the senate last session but was brought back for reconsideration at the request of Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.] and other administration supporters. It has been approved by the judiciary committees of both houses of congress.

Blames Left Wingers.

President Roosevelt has recognized the menace of the present system, Walter said, by telling the agencies to use horse sense in administering the new laws and stop trying to be prosecutors, juries, judges, and executioners. The President, however, is opposed to passage of a law preventing such practices, Walter added.

Opposition to the bill comes largely from left wing elements both within and without the federal service, many of them holding key positions in the federal departments and agencies, the representative asserted.

"These men," he said, "have prepared reports, in many instances for the heads of such agencies, condemning the bill. We cannot take too seriously the opposition of these so-called liberals. Stalin and Hitler are liberals if these men are, because in Russia and in Germany the courts have no power to review the decisions of the Hitlerites and the Stalinites. We are determined to have no such system in this country.

Demands Control Now.

"Congress has too long neglected to provide control by law of federal burocrats. Such control must be provided now or the vast group of agency administrators would become masters of congress, the courts and the chief executive.

"As stated in the conclusions of the judiciary committee: 'Not only are there a great many agencies of government but there are a great many officers and employés thereof located in Washington and at various places thru the United States and in foreign countries. The latest statistics show that there are approximately 850,000 civilian officers and employés in the administrative service and that they are annually deciding many thousands more cases than all the federal courts.'"

Calls for Rules Within Year.

Walter's measure provides: That administrative rules must be issued within one year after enactment of the statute upon which they are based; that they may be issued only after public notice and hearings; that substantially interested persons may obtain hearings upon requests for reconsideration of any rule; and that the Federal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia shall have authority to determine whether any rule is in conflict with the constitution or the statute under which it was issued.

In addition, the measure provides uniform procedure for appealing decisions or orders of federal agencies to Federal Courts of Appeals.

FARM INCOME CUT UNDER NEW DEAL, SURVEY REVEALS

Won't Equal '29 Level Till 1948: G. O. P.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Under the New Deal program the American farmer cannot expect to regain his 1929 level of income until 1948, Representative Clifford R. Hope [R., Kas.], chairman of the special committee of house Republicans on agricultural problems, said today in announcing results of the committee's study to date.

Farmers generally, under the New Deal formulas, cannot expect an annual income of 15 billion dollars until at least 1948, he added. With the New Deal panaceas it will be 11 years before farmers' cash income from wheat gets back to the 1929 level, and 43 years before cotton growers will get as much as they did in 1929.

Mr. Hope also asserted that if the New Deal continues to spend in excess of receipts at its 1933-'39 rate, the gross public debt in another 10 years will be between 70 billion dollars and 75 billion dollars.

Based on Federal Figures.

"Conceding that the drafters of the New Deal farm program were motivated by the best of intentions," he said, "a study of the facts, based on the department of agriculture's own statistics, demonstrates conclusively that the program has failed even to approach its objectives.

"It becomes immediately evident that United States farmers are not as well off under the New Deal as formerly, if we compare farm income during the seven years 1926-'32 with the seven years 1933-'39. The seven Republican years include three years of world depression and the seven New Deal years include five years of recovery and two of depression."

Average Income Put at $1,062.

Cash farm income for the seven Republican years averaged 9 billion, 46 million dollars a year, compared with 7 billion, 247 millions a year for the New Deal period. Annual average income per farm for the period 1926-'32 was $1,432, compared with $1,062 for the period 1933-'39. Average annual income per farm person for the Republican period was $298, compared with $228 for the New Deal years, as shown in the following table computed from data in "The Agricultural Situation," a department of agriculture publication dated December, 1939, page 17:

	Republican years, 1926-'32.	Democratic years, 1933-'39*.
Yearly average:
Total farm Income	$9,046,000,000	$7,247,000,000
Income per farm	1,432	1,062
Income per farm person	298	228

*Including benefit payments: Average total farm income 7 billion, 670 millions; average income per farm, $1,124, and average income per farm person, $271.

"Nor have New Deal production and marketing controls, commodity loans, and ever-normal granaries succeeded in stabilizing farm income," said Mr. Hope. "Cash income per farm and per farm person in 1939 was approximately the same as in 1935. In the two years, 1938 and 1939, farmers lost everything they gained between 1935 and 1937.

Table Shows Drop Since 1937.

"In a table, based also on the department of agriculture's publication, 'The Agricultural Situation,' our statisticians have condensed 30 years of American farm history.

"The table shows the marked upswing in farm income during the world war years, the precipitous postwar drop, the slow but steady rise during the 1920s, the impact of world depression on American agriculture, the temporary increase in income during the first five New Deal years, and the drop since 1937.

[In adjoining columns, the table for the years 1929, 1933, and 1939 is reproduced.]

Trends Are Indicated.

"Column 1 shows the trend in total United States cash farm income. Total farm income, including benefit payments, in 1939, the last New Deal year, was 7 billion 625 million dollars, compared with 5 billion, 278 millions in 1933, the first New Deal year. Total farm income was 11 billion 221 millions in 1929.

"Column 3 shows the trend in cash income per farm. Cash income per farm was $1,102 in 1939 and $785 in 1933. This compared with $1,784 in 1929.

"Column 5 indicates the trend in cash income per farm person. Per capita farm income was $238 in 1939 and $167 in 1933. Cash income per farm person in 1929 was $371."

Farmers' Return Shows Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—The economic decline of agriculture under the New Deal is graphically presented in the following table referred to by Congressman Clifford R. Hope [R., Kas.], in an adjoining dispatch:

Reveal Tax Woes of Three Villages Duluth Takes In

Duluth, Minn., March 3 (AP).—In 1896, when three villages were merged with the city of Duluth, a debt of $694,225 was acquired. By 1901 the city found it necessary to refund $500,000 of it and 13 years later it had to refund $400,000 of the original debt. Still unpaid, the debt by 1944 when it is due, will have eaten up $882,000 in interest.

SURVEY SHOWS ECONOMIC LAG OF GOVERNMENT

Only One of 7 State Groups Operating at Loss.

Government made the poorest business showing in 1935 of the seven groups in the economic system in Illinois. It was the third largest of the groups on the basis of possessions and income, yet it was the only one of the seven which spent more than it received.

These conclusions were made public yesterday in a survey completed by Prof. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois department of economics and Franzy Eakin of Decatur, a public accountant. The study, made possible by a grant from the university research board, was confined to 1935 because that is the most recent year for which adequate data are available.

It is one of recent surveys bearing on income and expenditures of economic groups in regional areas of the United States. A study completed in December by a state commission in New Hampshire showed that in 1936 the people of that state grew collectively poorer by nearly 4 million dollars thru losses in government and business.

Income and Outgo Studied.

The Illinois survey tabulated assets, liabilities, income, and costs for the following economic groups in the state: Agriculture, industry [including commerce and privately owned utilities], finance [excluding banking], banking, tax exempt institutions, government, and individuals.

The total of the physical assets [or all forms of wealth as represented by property, etc.] in the state was placed at $20,902,515,000 in the survey. The government's share—including local and state governments and the portion of the federal government applicable to Illinois—was found to be 15 per cent of the total, as shown in the following table:

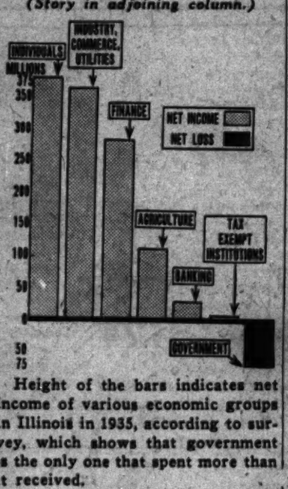
Group.	Amount of Physical Assets.	Percentage of Total.
Individuals	$ 8,331,705,000	39.9
Industry	5,773,544,000	27.6
Government	3,135,504,000	15.0
Agriculture	2,610,274,000	12.5
Tax exempt institutions	528,633,000	2.5
Finance	480,400,000	2.3
Banking	82,455,000	.3
Totals	$20,902,515,000	100.0

Another table in the survey shows how these groups fared in the classifications of gross income, expenses, and net income. [The figures given are in millions of dollars, with 000,000 omitted in each case, and the order of listing is based on net income]:

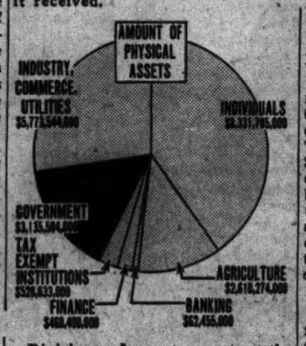
Group.	Gross Income.	Expenses.	Net Income.
Individuals	$ 4,824	$ 3,646	$378
Industry, commerce, utilities	11,824	11,162	362
Finance	746	465	281
Agriculture	477	368	109

Government in Red

(Story in adjoining column.)



Height of the bars indicates net income of various economic groups in Illinois in 1935, according to survey, which shows that government is the only one that spent more than it received.



Division of assets among the seven classifications taken for the survey.

Banking	133	106	27
Tax exempt institutions	106	103	3
Government	870	941	—71
Totals	$17,880	$16,791	$1,089

Withheld Income Shown.

The survey shows that $377,000,000 might be added to the net income of individuals. This is income produced but withheld in enterprises, such as industry, commerce, utilities, finance, banking, and tax exempt organizations and listed in their income. If this additional income were credited to individuals, their total would be $755,000,000.

On this basis, however, the governmental deficit of $71,000,000 also would be chargeable against individuals, because ultimately they must make up the deficit. Subtracting this $71,000,000 from the $755,000,000, the survey shows $684,000,000, which may be regarded as the "net savings" of individuals for 1935.

Another tabulation in the survey shows the government's total assets are $4,300,727,000 and its liabilities [governmental debt] are $3,616,730,000, or 81 per cent of assets. On the other hand, the total assets of individuals were placed at $24,002,973,000, with liabilities of $2,806,969,000, or only 11.7 per cent of assets.

PROPERTY LEVY IN CHICAGO PUT AT 186 MILLION

Tax Increases 4.8 Pct. Over 1938 Total.

The 1939 tax bill for Chicago property owners will total approximately $186,172,000, an increase of 4.8 per cent over the 1938 bill of $177,674,003. This was shown yesterday by a preliminary computation based on property valuations as announced by county assessment officials.

The increase results from higher appropriations in 1939 by all six major governments supported by Chicago taxpayers—city, school board, parks, sanitary district, county, and forest preserve district. The tax bill decreased in the two previous tax years, 1938 and 1937. The 1937 bill was $181,067,318.

For Chicago taxpayers, who will receive their 1939 tax bills in about 60 days, a tax rate of $9.11 per $100 of assessed valuation is indicated. This is just below the 1938 rate of $9.12. A lower tax rate in the face of a boost in total taxes is explained by an increase in 1939 assessed valuations of nearly 5 per cent over 1938 assessments. Thus the rate of $9.11 on 1939 valuations will bring higher total tax revenues than did the rate of $9.12 on 1938 values.

Property Assessments Rise.

Property assessments in Chicago for 1939 increased to $2,043,601,000 from $1,948,180,000 in 1938.

The final rate may vary slightly from the $9.11 figure as a result of possible late revisions of assessments. County Clerk Michael J. Flynn's staff is completing its survey of assessment rolls and 1939 appropriations submitted by government units in the county. The official rate probably will be announced in 30 days.

The largest proportionate increase in 1939 taxes levied by the six major Cook county governments is shown by the park district. Its operating levy was pegged by the state assembly for 1939 at $10,500,000, compared with $7,600,000 in 1938. The legislature also boosted the school board's operating fund $3,000,000 to a pegged levy of $48,000,000, and raised the levy of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium $150,000 to $3,000,000 for 1939.

These increases by the assembly, totaling $6,050,000, account for most of the $8,500,000 estimated increase in the city's total 1939 tax bill. Following are the estimated 1939 tax billings for each unit of government, compared with actual amounts billed for 1938:

	1939	1938.
City	$ 71,546,000	$ 70,134,475
Schools	65,191,000	61,952,120
Park district	22,275,000	19,092,162
Sanitary district	13,488,000	13,052,805
County	11,853,000	11,689,079
Forest preserve	1,839,000	1,753,362
Total	$186,172,000	177,674,003

The estimated 1939 rates per $100 of assessed valuations for each government, compared with 1938 rates, follow:

	1939.	1938.
City	$3.50	$3.60
Schools	3.19	3.18
Park district	1.09	.94
Sanitary district	.66	.67
County	.58	.60
Forest preserve	.09	.09
Total	$9.11	$9.12

Tax levies for some funds of several government units for 1939 will rise automatically with the increase in assessments. This results because total taxes for these funds are limited by law to maximum rates per $100 of assessed values. For example, the top rate that can be levied for police pension fund of the city government is 13 cents per $100, and the city in recent years has levied the maximum. The 13 cent rate will mean a 1939 tax levy of $2,657,000. The rate produced only $2,533,000 on the 1938 valuation.

Three Borne by City.

The expenses of the city, the school board, and the park district are borne entirely by taxpayers within the city of Chicago. The other three government units levy taxes on property owners outside the city in Cook county.

The sanitary district, in addition to its 1939 tax extension within the city, will levy approximately $2,549,000 on property holders in the district's boundaries outside the city. The county government's taxes outside the city for 1939 are expected to amount to $2,620,000 and the forest preserve's corresponding levy is estimated at $407,000.

CHUNK OF GLASS, EH? NO, SIR; IT'S A PADPARADASCHA

Gemologists Place Rare Jewel on Display.

Emeralds are green. Sapphires are blue. Rubies are red. A topaz is amber. An opal is opalescent. A diamond scintillates. An amethyst prevents drunkenness.

This is about the extent of the average layman's knowledge of jewels. He knows little of the science of gemology.

If he did—as do some 150 jewelers and gemologists attending an educational meeting of the American Gem society in the Stevens hotel—he would know that each of his beliefs, taken as a generalization, is wrong.

Ah! A Padparadascha!

The average layman probably never has heard of a padparadascha. It's rare, but it is included in the $100,000 worth of gems being studied at the meeting. It is an orange sapphire, but unless you're a gemologist you might easily mistake it for an opal, a topaz, a zircon, or a little rectangle of orange glass.

The Burma ruby, most valuable of all rubies, is a soft red, but so are the fire opal [which is not opalescent at all], the rubellite, the red tourmaline, and the spinel. Not until recent years was it discovered that the so-called Black Prince's ruby in the British crown jewels really is a spinel. The science of gemology detected that.

Gems Are Where You Find 'Em.

The gemologists have 22 little trays set up, each containing 12 stones of a similar color. One, for example, contains 12 colorless stones. All resemble diamonds, but only one is. Others are spodumene, sapphire, quartz, topaz, synthetic corundum, goshenite [white beryl], and zircon.

The finest emerald is the Muzo, a velvety grass green, but two trays are filled with confusingly green stones—tourmaline, zircon, peridot [found only on the Island of St. John in the Red sea], a green diamond, a Ceylon sapphire, and a demantoid garnet.

The colors of the rainbow sparkle and shine in the 22 little trays—the sphene, which breaks into rainbow colors when light hits it, is one of the few precious stones not shown—but to the gemologists studying them the color is of no value in determining identity. The colors are segregated merely to show that color is of all value in determining price.

MR. ROOSEVELT IN THE CARIBBEAN.

Mr. Roosevelt is home again from his 15 day midwinter cruise, having fished the Caribbean and inspected the defenses in the Canal Zone. His inspections convinced him that the canal needs more protection and that it should have a longer range. He would include parts of Central and South America in the defense zone. He also wants a spare set of locks for the canal at an estimated cost of 277 million dollars.

In Washington the house appropriations committee has refused to grant the request for this sum, holding that it isn't an urgent need and that preliminary work is required before building appropriations are made. The committee was willing to give money for plans and specifications for a new set of locks, allowing $850,000 for this purpose. When the plans are drawn congress will be willing to examine them, but is unwilling to set aside a sum for the whole undertaking until it had been studied. In asking for money Mr. Roosevelt is nearly always a man in a hurry.

If Mr. Roosevelt's study of national defense in southern waters brought him to the conclusion that a longer range was required, logic, then, will lead him on to the other consistent conclusion that national defense requires the possession of the islands occupied by the British and the French on the Atlantic side, and also possession of the Galapagos on the Pacific. The problems of transfer are different on the two sides and, indeed, simpler on the Atlantic.

When Mr. Hull has trouble with the British blockade and censorship of mails in the nearby British island of Bermuda, he is stumbling into more than a question of the interpretation of international law. He is confronted by the weighty influence of sea power with a station off the American coast. He and Mr. Roosevelt are learning the military importance of that particular island because the American Clippers carrying mail for Europe have been making it a port of call and have had their mails removed.

Mr. Hull may not know precisely what to say when he is told that America at war in 1917 and 1918 laid down a rule of censorship of mails from neutral ports and declined to acknowledge the inviolability of sacks which might contain material useful to the enemy. What a nation does in war often arises to embarrass it when it is on the other side of the fence. But Bermuda is pointing a finger at America to reemphasize the potential military value of the French and British American possessions lying within the zone of American defense.

Even if the question of ownership be lightly dismissed with the foolish assertion that the present owners are friendly, this bit of heedlessness and disregard of possible consequences is attended by no guarantee that the ownership will remain as now. We are told by our interventionists that one of our dangers is a Nazi victory which would sweep Great Britain away as a sea power and open the Americas to aggression by governments hostile in ideas and vigorous in their expansion. Mr. Roosevelt himself indorses that view.

If a peace treaty did to Britain and France what Versailles did to republican Germany, Mr. Hitler's flag would be raised on all the British and French possessions on this side of the water. There are hints in Washington that if such a thing impended we'd have to do something about it. That is, we'd have to use force to prevent such a transfer. We'd have to say that these possessions were not spoils of war. We'd have to try at the possible cost of a war then to do what we are so foolish as not to undertake peaceably now.

If Mr. Roosevelt's cruise and his study of defenses have led him to doubt the wisdom of doing nothing to acquire possessions of military value, then he has spent his time on the Tuscaloosa to better national advantage than came from any of the other fishing expeditions. If he has landed this idea, he has really got something.

NO SALE OF THE WHITE SOX.

Mr. Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National bank, remains in the baseball business but he can go thru the spring training and into the season without much loss of sleep. The Probate court denied the bank's petition for permission to advertise the White Sox for sale. The Sox remain in the Comiskey family, as the family desired. Mr. Brown had his judgment set aside. He can look at box scores now without getting gooseflesh.

If the Comiskey estate assets, which are mainly talented human chattels, lose value on the market because the chattels begin to lose their talent, the bank cannot be accused of not using due prudence in managing the business. And, if Mr. Brown knows what due prudence in this business is, Mr. Wrigley would like to call around at the bank and have a talk with him. Mr. Brown probably would say that all he knows is the business is too much Dizzy for a banker.

No doubt every one is very well pleased with the Probate court decision, and no one more so than Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. A probate judge does not get out of the dugout so very often, and here was an opportunity to step up to the plate, take a bow, and wham the ball over the fence. Judge O'Connell can now high hat Judge Landis at any baseball game.

WAGNER ACT AMENDMENTS.

The Smith committee which has been investigating the labor board has decided to devote its attention for the present to the preparation of its report and amendments of the Wagner act. The committee intends to place its bill before the house in time for action at this session of congress.

Intimations have already been given of some of the recommendations which will be forthcoming. The board's personnel and procedure will be greatly altered. The present board of three will be replaced by another whose membership may be increased to five, and the board will no longer combine in itself the functions of prosecutor, judge, and jury. Instead, the rôle of investigator will be assigned to an independent official who will be charged with the duty of receiving complaints and prosecuting them, if he believes they have merit. The new board will merely sit in judgment. It will be bound by stricter rules of evidence than are now in force, and the right of appeal to the courts from decisions of the board will be broadened.

The employer will be empowered in the law to petition the board for an election to determine the proper bargaining agency; and the right of the employer to free speech in presenting his side of a labor dispute will be affirmed without ambiguity.

These proposals are intended to correct notorious abuses which have been exposed not only in the hearings before the Smith committee but also in the records of the various appellate courts. There is one suggestion for amendment which is not so clear. It calls for a hands-off policy in the dispute between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. until the two wings of the labor movement can come to an agreement.

It is not easy to see just what is intended. Does a hands-off policy mean a refusal to consider cases in which the union rivalry is an element? If so, the probability is that strife will be promoted and the certainty is that it will not be averted. If it is intended merely that the labor board and its functionaries are to cease promoting the C. I. O., it is not easy to see how any such attitude could be imposed by legislation.

What is needed is a broadening of the underlying purpose of the Wagner act. As it stands, the law is intended to enable employés to organize freely for purposes of collective bargaining, without coercion from employers. That is good as far as it goes. The events of recent years emphasize that the guarantee should be expanded. Individual employés should be assured the right to organize as they choose, and if they choose, without coercion from any one in particular, without coercion from the labor board.

The law should base itself upon the premise that a labor union is essentially a bargaining agency for those who choose to avail themselves of its services. No man can regard himself as free who is denied the right to join with others in naming an agent to act for him if he wants one; and no man is free who is obliged to accept as his agent a person he does not want or trust.

If this principle is adopted, the rôle of the labor board is not difficult to define. It should be the board's business to see that no one exercises coercion, physical or economic, over an employé to choose an agent or in the choice of his agent. Just as it is now the duty of the board to prevent an employer from interfering with the organization of a trade union, so it should become the duty of the board to prevent trade unions from terrorizing individuals into joining the organization or from acting in the name of individuals who do not wish to be so represented.

THE MUTTON STRIKE.

London's butchers the other day refused to buy mutton offered by the government's food control on the ground that the government was misrepresenting the quality of the meat. The tradesmen were being asked to sell to the public at 20 cents a pound a product which was worth about half that much. The protest of the butchers was sufficiently vigorous to induce the food ministry to regrade the carcasses in question and authorize the lower price.

The incident provides another illustration, tho none was needed, of the ineptitude of government management of business. The burocrats can be counted upon to throw the economic machine out of gear. They will do so because power has been given them but somebody else bears the losses when misfakes are made. In this instance the food ministry issued the order, but the butchers were going to take the loss on meat which they knew to be unsalable at the price fixed by the burocrats.

The burocrats can be counted upon to know all the answers. They think they know more about the quality of mutton than butchers do and more about housewives' ideas of fair value than the women themselves.

It is the combination of irresponsibility and arrogance, well illustrated by the incident in London, which makes for trouble almost every time a government undertakes to interfere in the markets.

Editorial of the Day

COMMON SENSE CURB ON DRUNKEN DRIVING.

[San Francsco Chronicle.]

The sidewalk patrol that Capt. Munn is detailing to night club neighborhoods, to advise hilarious or sodden citizens upon emerging not to drive their cars, is a practical way to deal with drunken driving.

The captain reasons that drunken drivers must have been drinking where there is something to drink. They may, of course, sortie after tanking up in their homes. They may carry the stuff on the hip. Or they perhaps leave the residences of convivial friends with the intention of giving the old bus its head and letting it find the way home. But the captain, because the hours after midnight are when drunken drivers seem most in evidence, believes that a great many of them have spent the evening in night clubs, building up self-confidence at the wheel. If a large proportion of these can be eliminated from traffic, the drunken driver will be a less numerous problem.

An indignant tho plastered citizen who disdains good advice to taxi, street car, run, walk or roll home and insists on driving will be taken to the clink. He will wake up charged only with simple swacko and not half a dozen felonies, as might otherwise be the case. Also, his potential victims will be alive.

This is a common sense way to promote public safety and far better than wholesale breath sniffing like the motor patrol experiment that has held up thousands of motorists on the highways. It is at least kinder to the traffic officers who would have to do the sniffing.

MUTTERINGS ON MONDAY.

When Picasso set himself up in the art business as a cubist, he had a running mate named Picabia [honest, he did]. We regret that the latter seems to have dropped out of competition, for the combination of those names, Picasso and Picabia, has always reminded us of Potash and Perlmutter.

* * *

The above reflections on Picasso and Picabia have reminded us that Picasso has a new follower named Pruna. [This is a statement of fact; let the quips fall where they may.]

We have already mentioned "sisu," the Finnish racial spirit that aids them when the going is rough, as it is at present. Here is a new definition of it, in the words of Paavo Nurmi, their famous distance runner: "Sisu is patience and strong will without passion; it comes to men miraculously in times of stress." Apparently, it's a sort of spiritual second wind.

* * *

Burton Holmes has "sisu," for he is jumping from one lecture hall to another with his customary speed in defiance of an unknitted fracture of a leg bone. Furthermore, he may be praised for not saying, when he faces his audiences in a wheelchair, "I am the man who came to dinner."

This year marks the 500th anniversary of the invention of printing in Europe, but the human race is still asking, "What are incunabula?"

OPEN LETTER TO LADY LUCK.

Many years I've been attendant
To a lady, gay, resplendent,
Who could make me independent
If positions were reversed.

So I'd like a proposition,
Wouldn't offer opposition,
Weary of the flop-position
I've repeatedly rehearsed.

Please remember this is leap year,
And it will not be a cheap year,
But an always-in-too-deep year
When the pennies must be nursed.

So, my Lady Luck, I'm willing—
Chase me, kid, and make a killing!
Fill my cup to overspilling
While I gratify my thirst!

The Bakraks Go to a Concert.

Now that tha Mama has got her first taste of hi-society, she's gone an joined every darn thing in the nayborhood from Kaffe-Klotches to Literary clubs. Woodn' surprise me if she went an bought herself a book some day. Lass nite I gets home an I'm told to eat fast cause we're gonna attend a piano recital given by the P. G. A.s. I never heard of such a click; closest I can remember is tha A. P. A.s, but it seems that aint the same gang.

Generally when I hear some goof banging a piano I ups and slams the window shut—now I gotta shave, put on my other shirt, an burn up a cupple gallons of gas so's I can inhale a cupple hrs. of ivory-thumping tripe. When we gets to tha dump, we gets put on a cupple of those hard-wood folding chairs. Believe me, if factories used them it would cure tha sit-down strike racket so fast that C. I. O. would spell "Cut it out." After two hrs. I got hard and calloused both in mind and hind.

Instead of havin programs, a female M. C. announced the name of tha piece that wood be played next. First number, she says, is "Blue Danube," and boy am I fed up with those Blues numbers. Second spasm is tha "Spring Song" by Meddle-some [very timely with 6 inches of snow outside]. Next comes what they call a Spanish Fandango—a Fan-Dance-O wooda suited me better. Number 4 is Chopin's "Funeral March"—the way I was feeling I'da just as soon that they were playing mine. Then came a pleasant surprise—a song was gonna be sung. I figgered this would break tha monotony, but it didn't—just bent it a little. Tha battle-axe that rendered this act was in her early 50's and must of weighed 210 lbs. on tha hoof. She was introduced as the town's greatest living Virtue-orso [whatever that is]. If it's what I think they mean, she's gonna die that way too.

One more piano number ended the agony; it was called "Cheery Beery Beer." By this time I cood'a heisted 6 without batting an eye.

They tell me that if all tha pianos in the U. S. were piled on top of each other, they would be as high as Mount Vesuvius. That suits me swell.

Literary Footnote to Lincoln Lore.

Calvin Thomas, who plays the rôle of Joshua Speed in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," says the following information is authentic: The poet, John Keats, had a brother, George, who immigrated to America. Eventually, he found his way to Kentucky, where he married and made his home. The daughter of George Keats became the wife of Joshua Speed. Therefore, even if John Keats' poems had not reached Illinois at the time of the first scene in this play, at least there was an association, via Speed, between Keats and Lincoln.

HEAD BUMPS—WISE PRECAUTIONS.

TO what extent may behavior difficulties be attributed to a blow or a fall? In some instances, with a substantial compensation in the offing—for supposed permanent disability—the individual may exhibit a warped mentality. Convalescence may come speedily after payment is made.

In a recent study, Thomas H. Fox of the Veterans administration contends that a direct traumatic psychosis cannot occur without some disturbance of the brain. He cites the report of Bonner and Taylor who encountered 50 such patients over a period of 16 years. Half of this number originated as a result of automobile smashes and less than one-third were due to other mishaps. A careful study showed that in 12 of this series personality defects were present prior to the catastrophe. Inasmuch as 9 had used alcohol to excess this drug was held responsible for the collisions as well as the after effects.

What happens when the head is struck? As most of us know, a whack on the skull can cause hemorrhage beneath the covering membranes. Minute pools of blood may collect within the deeper portions. Swelling nearly always develops and if it is not relieved there may ensue a type of softening which is similar to the results of poor circulation; for example, in hardening of the arteries.

The first symptom is unconsciousness, with the muscles flabby and loose. Later there comes stupor, with a good deal of restlessness—which may continue from a few hours to several days. When the patient "wakes up" he is usually nervous, dazed, and bewildered. He finds fault with everything and everybody, demanding that he be allowed to go home. Sometimes artificial feeding is necessary as he seems to be unable to coördinate his swallowing functions.

Unfortunately this excitement may persist for some little time only to be succeeded by a deep coma for a day or two. With gradual emergence into a normal understanding of his surroundings, speech will become more coherent. No memory of the accident may remain, however, and judgment is quite undependable. Not infrequently there will be spells of elation—all about nothing.

The depth of amnesia [loss of memory] is variable. The victim may not recall events for some weeks prior to the affair and rarely will there be any recollection of what took place at the time.

With some, there appears to arise a typical dementia. In others, however, disordered thinking processes will be observed to increase in severity month after month. This is far more likely with those with an alcoholic tendency. Rarely will dizziness, headaches, and insomnia be exhibited, altho now and then these symptoms will be noticed and the one who has been unstable prior to the trouble may indulge in these complaints. One such victim seemed to go off into a dream state which lasted for a short while and which simulated the early signs of epilepsy. Others act as tho they were "punch drunk" with disrupted equilibrium, unsteadiness of gait, and some mental confusion. Later—unless improvement comes—there may be vertigo, tremors, and hearing complications.

The point to be kept in mind is that every severe impact on the cranium—whether there is evidence of a skull fracture or not—may be followed by enough damage to the brain proper or its coverings to bring on such a condition. For the most part, complete recovery is the rule and only in a few instances will permanent defects remain.

Early management includes transporting the patient to a hospital without adding to the injury and then providing rest and releasing pressure within the skull. Prolonged confinement to bed, with repeated lumbar punctures to drain the spinal canal, and the use of glucose and strong salt solution constitute the ideal healing program. Constant watching—for a few weeks—is essential because an abrupt change from passiveness to great excitement may take place.

Of all the head bumps experienced each year only a few will be serious, but it is always safe to take all possible precautions at the outset; as what is done in the first few hours may be of the greatest importance.

MENOPAUSE.

E. T. writes:
1. When does the menopause begin?
2. How long does it last?
3. What are the symptoms?

REPLY.

1. On the average, 42 to 44 years of age.
2. As a rule, from one to five years.
3. Many women experience no symptoms except cessation of menstruation. Others exhibit hot flashes, nervousness, headache, and mental depression.

MISBEHAVING STOMACH.

D. C. writes: I suffer from continual belching and sometimes a dull pain, nausea, and vomiting. I am 45 years old and my general health is good. Should these symptoms be investigated?

REPLY.

By all means. A test meal and X-ray films are advised. Let us hope that the trouble will yield to some modification of diet.

BONE DISEASE.

F. H. writes: What causes Paget's disease? Is it curable?

REPLY.

TODAY IN HISTORY

March 4, 1791.

Vermont admitted to the Union, the first addition to the original 13 states. Vermonters had played an important part in the revolution, but when they attempted to set up their own state they were opposed by other states. New York, for instance, was opposed because of conflicting land claims. Nevertheless, a state constitution was set up in 1777—the first state constitution to forbid slavery, and 14 years later the Green mountain commonwealth was admitted.

NORTH STATE STREET.

Chicago, March 1.—A short time ago I attended a dinner where a distinguished New Yorker was present. He made the statement that Chicago is probably worse than any other city in the country in permitting a creeping paralysis to spread over the downtown and close-in sections, with no particular effort being made to prevent it. It was further pointed out that if the decay that is now taking place on the near north side is not soon checked, all three sides of the loop [with the lake on the fourth side] will soon be nothing but a solid slum section.

The city is planning to keep intact the dilapidated old buildings on State street north of the river and to provide merely a little wider street space by taking a few feet off the sidewalks on each side. These buildings got in their present bad condition because almost nine years ago the city announced plans to set back the property lines and make State street between the river and Division street approximately 115 feet wide.

Many of the desirable merchants and permanent residents in the neighborhood began to leave as they took the city in earnest and believed that the street would be widened and many buildings torn down. They accordingly moved from the district. Property owners thru lack of income plus high real estate taxes have been forced to let their buildings fall into decay. To make matters worse subway construction on North State street has weakened most of the buildings to such an extent that many of them are now jacked up. They not only are unsightly but, I believe, in some cases may be unsafe.

State street north of the river is classed as an arterial highway. I do not know what that term is supposed to imply excepting that the street is entitled to get certain funds from the state of Illinois under certain conditions. It certainly has no features whatever of a highway. At present it is nothing more than a glorified alley and will remain such if the city carries out its sidewalk narrowing plans.

I am sure that if you would get in an automobile and make two trips, one by day and one by night, to State street between the river and Division street, you would see such intolerable conditions that THE TRIBUNE would lose no time in giving what impetus it could to bring about a widened State street between the river and Division street.

THE HOROWITZ CONCERT.

Chicago, March 1.—I am taking the liberty of telling you how much I resent the opinion expressed in the article by Edward Barry on the Horowitz concert.

Having attended both performances, I can truthfully say that at this afternoon's concert the consensus was not with Mr. Barry. In fact, it was quite the reverse; one felt a greater ovation was accorded Mr. Horowitz because of the unjust review he had received in your paper. People did not hesitate in so expressing themselves, even to strangers.

River Forest, Ill., Feb. 29.—Here's hoping that somebody will arrange it so the next stockholders' meeting of General Motors, U. S. Steel, or A. T. & T. will be held in Washington and urge all of them to attend. Let the legion swamp the railroads, the hotels, and restaurants, and jam every foot of the White House grounds. This will give the President and Mrs. R. a chance to forget about the few hundred National Youthers and to extol the virtues of something that has done something to make this country great—a distinct novelty nowadays.

BLOOD-SWEATING BEHEMOTHS.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Many years ago a scholarly adult after one week of persistent effort and daily reminders finally succeeded in convincing a 10 year old boy that the plural of hippopotamus was, singularly enough, hippopotamon.

Now that boy, some 34 years later, has no recollection of ever having had to write, spell, or utter the word that is the plural of hippopotamus, but a few moments ago he discovered, in Volume 4 of the Oxford Universal dictionary purchased from THE TRIBUNE that the word hippopotamon is not given as the plural of hippopotamus.

Nevertheless, for auld lang syne and in fond memory of a lovable scholarly adult hippopotamon shall remain the plural of hippopotamus, that is, whenever hippopotamus requires a plural, so far as I am concerned.

HOW TO MAKE ROADS SAFE.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—I congratulate your editorial department on the wonderful publicity they have given the Avondale superhighway.

Having been interested in accident prevention work for the last 35 years, I am convinced that if the fast moving traffic would be separated from the local traffic at least 50 per cent of the daily catastrophes resulting in deaths would be eliminated.

About 50 years ago several people were killed in Chicago on railroad crossings. The city council passed ordinances compelling the different railroads to elevate their roadbeds. In the last 15 or 20 years the motor traffic caused from two to four deaths a day and still nothing definite has been accomplished to make our city safer for our pedestrians.

Please keep up the good work.

JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Chicago, Feb. 29.—It was with real regret that many of us read of the last assignment for James O'Donnell Bennett. THE TRIBUNE has written of his life as a reporter. Some of us knew of a different side. We knew him as a friend and as a true gentleman. In his home he was kindly and hospitable. He was always interested in what you were thinking about God and the world. He despised sham and especially when it was found in religious circles. ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, March 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. Could you please tell me how long it takes to probate a will in San Diego, Cal.?

2. Can the executrix sell the household furniture or rent the house furnished without the consent of the heirs?

3. There is a note signed by the deceased, due January, 1940. To whom would it be sent for collection and when?

4. Does the executor have to give the heirs an itemized account of the estate of the deceased?

5. Have the heirs the right to give the deceased's personal belongings and household furnishings to an institution before the will has been probated? M. J. D.

1. The average over the country at large is about a year.

2. The powers of an executrix depend upon the wording of the will.

3. Obviously we are not in a position to determine what attorney or collection agency the holder of the note might select.

4. No.

5. If the estate is solvent, we do not see how any other person would be in a position to question such action, but it would be done at the risk of the donors. The heirs have no right to give away the estate before the period for filing claims has expired if there are creditors.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ATTORNEY'S FEE.

Chicago, March 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—About two years ago I filed suit to recover damages for personal injury and property damage. My attorney agreed to represent me for a stipulated percentage of possible jury award. Before case came to trial defendant filed a counter-claim and jury was instructed to return two verdicts. Never did my attorney, prior to the trial, demand a separate fee for defending me in counter-claims. Nevertheless, he sent me a bill for services rendered in connection with "defending counter-claim."

Is he entitled to such a fee? E. D.

Clearly we would not be justified in saying that in every case where an attorney undertakes to handle a case for his client on a compensation based on the amount recovered from the defendant, that the attorney would not be entitled to compensation for defending a counter-claim. The counter-claim might be totally unexpected and unpredictable and its defense might be much more difficult than the handling of the direct suit. If, however, the filing of a counter-claim was so probable that the attorney ought to have discussed this possibility with his client, then conceivably the attorney might not be permitted to recover. We cannot advise further without knowing the exact wording of the agreement between the attorney and the client and the surrounding circumstances as bearing on the questions above discussed.

MILWAUKEE SAYS A FAREWELL TO ITS ARCHBISHOP

7,000 Attend Ceremonies; Departure Wednesday.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 3.—From the 17 counties comprising the archdiocese of Milwaukee, Catholics came to Milwaukee auditorium tonight to pay their respects and say their farewells to the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, who for nine years has been their archbishop.

The archbishop will leave here on Wednesday for Chicago to be enthroned the following day as archbishop of Chicago. He will be succeeded here by the Most Rev. Moses E. Kiley of Trenton, N. J., who will be elevated at Gesu church on March 28.

A $210,119 Check.

Archbishop Stritch's last material gift from the Catholics of the archdiocese was a check for $210,119, raised in the annual drive of the Archdiocesan Catholic council which ended today. The money will be used for the upkeep of the Catholic charitable insitutions of the diocese and for the aid of Catholic indigents.

Spiritual remembrances of the laity, also presented tonight, included the records of many thousands of communions received and prayers said by the school children for the continuance of Archbishop Stritch's influence here and the success of his work in Chicago.

When Archbishop Stritch announced two weeks ago the charity drive as his last material activity in Milwaukee, he wrote to the clergy and the people, "the greatest gift you can give me is the assurance that you have provided for the Catholic needy in the archdiocese."

Response Is Enthusiastic."

The response came from the parishioners of more than 325 churches, children in the 200 Catholic schools, and from nearly every community in the archdiocese.

Archbishop Stritch, in reply, said the speakers had attributed to him qualities that were in fact their own.

"You call me gracious and kindly, the archbishop of charity, the archbishop of Catholic action, the archbishop of youth," he said. "Would it not be truer to say I am an archbishop of a diocese of charity, of a laity that promoted Catholic action, of fathers and mothers who demanded that we place their boys and girls in an apostolate of youth, as the Catholic Youth organization?"

Tonight was Archbishop Stritch's last public appearance until he leaves at 1:05 p. m. Wednesday at the Union station. A crowd of nearly 7,500 persons filled the auditorium to hear him. The clergy and members of the church orders occupied a considerable portion of the main auditorium. On the platform with the archbishop were selected representatives from the lay units of Catholic activity, the Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Youth organization, the Holy Name society, Catholic Women, and others. The great hall was filled to the doors with men, women, and children.

FIRST OF SPEEDY STRATO LINERS TO BE DELIVERED

New York, March 3 (AP).—The world's first air liner designed to fly at 250 miles an hour at heights of four to five miles will be turned over to Pan-American Airways by the Boeing Aircraft company of Seattle, Wash., on March 11, the transport company announced tonight.

With a maximum of 33 seats, supercharged engines, flight deck, and passenger compartment, the four engine plane will be put in service on one of Pan-American's runs to South America.

Other planes of the same type will follow. Before the start of the war in Europe, at least one of them was intended for trans-Atlantic service, but whether it will be assigned to that run will depend on whether this country continues to designate Ireland as a combat zone.

This type of plane, known as a Strato-Clipper, has a top speed of 300 miles an hour. It is called the new era transport in that it enables the crew to avoid about 95 per cent of the bad weather in the lower levels.

Strike Has Buenos Aires Dancing to Canned Music

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, March 3.—A strike of musicians here has brought canned music to the fore as entertainment for tea room, cabaret, and restaurant patrons. The employers say they have found their patrons quite content with the recordings of American and British dance bands. Musicians, however, claim to hold a strong card in their demands for shorter hours and higher pay. They say that records of fox trots and waltzes may be all right for certain patrons, but that tango dancers want their music played by an orchestra they can see.

CAR PLUNGES OFF VIADUCT AT N. Y.; SIX PERSONS DIE

New York, March 3 [Special].—Six persons were killed today when the automobile in which they were riding crashed thru a heavy iron guard rail on a viaduct in upper Manhattan, somersaulted and landed on its top in the street 40 feet below.

The victims were Herman Unger, 35 years old; his wife, 32, and their daughter, Marilyn, 10; Barney Williams, 33, and Max Bernstein, 40, and his wife, Sarah. All lived in the Bronx. All but Unger were instantly killed. He died in an ambulance taking him to a hospital.

The car, an 8 year old sedan, skidded on a trolley track, slid over the 6 inch curb and crashed thru the guard fence, ripping away 10 feet of the fence and one 6 inch cast iron pillar. It struck the wall of a building, somersaulted and crashed to the street, folding like an accordion as it hit the pavement.

A BUTLER BEGS A PARDON, BUT DOESN'T GET IT

2 Versions of an Incident Reported to Police.

Gustafson, the Charles F. Glores' butler, arched an eyebrow last night when he heard the police version, which was this:

He fell thru a plate glass window at 5232 North Damen avenue at 2 a. m. yesterday. With becoming dignity he arose, stepped into a taxicab, and drove until he struck another car and landed in the Summerdale police station.

Begging the pardon of the bobbies, Gustafson told his version, which was this:

Having no buttling to do Saturday night, he came into town and had a few sodas with friends. He was waiting for a street car to take him to the train that would take him back to the Glores' Lake Forest home at 301 Sheridan road when up popped a bandit.

The Butler Unbends.

"I want your money, Buddy," said the bandit, pushing a gun into Gustafson's ribs.

"Quite right, sir," said Gustafson. "What name, sir?"

And he bowed a bit too much, for the middle of his bow went right thru the aforementioned Damen avenue window, and Gustafson, losing his poise for a moment, followed it inside, backward, but gracefully.

And then, according to Gustafson, the bandit ordered him:

"Jump into that cab, Buddy, and drive."

The Versions Differ.

Gustafson did. But, he said, the bandit didn't get in behind him. Instead, the bandit, as he told the story, followed in another car.

Gustafson—Harry Gustafson when he is not buttling drove until the collision and then wound up in the lockup.

The police said that persons who never indulge in sodas has seen it all and that their version included no bandit. Mr. Glore, the investment banker, said nothing. But Mrs. Glore said she guessed they would have to look for another butler.

PANICKY CHINESE CAPSIZE LAUNCH; 300 ARE DROWNED

SHANGHAI, March 3 (AP).—Three hundred Chinese men, women, and children were reported today to have been drowned off Ningpo when they became panic-stricken and caused their launch to capsize upon hearing cries of "Japanese planes are coming."

The crew of the German coastal vessel Mohlenkof said the Chinese were en route to board their vessel off the Chekiang province port at the time. They said the alarm apparently was false as no Japanese planes were observed.

Only 40 persons were said to have survived in the general rush to the railings aboard the tightly packed launch.

ONE SLAIN, ONE WOUNDED BY MYSTERY SHOTS

Four mystery bullets crashed thru a kitchen window in the cottage of Peter Fricano in the rear of 1510 Mohawk street last night. All four struck Fricano, causing his death soon afterward. One of the four bullets also slightly wounded Mrs. Patrina Marino, 68, of 1534 North Kilpatrick avenue.

Fricano, 45 years old, an ex-foreman for the Work Projects administration, was sitting down to supper with Mrs. Marino, mother of his divorced wife, Sarah, and Frank Lo Bosco, 42, of 1500 Mohawk street. His son, Ignatius, 21, and a daughter, Concetta, 16, were in another room.

Without warning, a burst of shots blasted thru the window. Fricano was struck in the head, left leg, and twice in the right hand. One of the bullets grazed Mrs. Marino's right leg. Fricano and Mrs. Marino were taken to the Augustana hospital where he died. Before he died, Fricano asserted he had no enemies. Police said they hope to question Fricano's ex-wife, whom he divorced eight years ago. He married her after the death of his first wife.

Seize 2 Army Prisoners Who Fled Fort Sheridan

Stanley W. Lasausky, 24 years old, and Leonard Rohloff, 25, who escaped Feb. 19 from Fort Sheridan while they were army prisoners, were captured yesterday in Kent county, Michigan. Lasausky, a private from Lowell, Mich., was awaiting court martial for deserting from Fort Brady, near Detroit. Rohloff was serving a three year sentence for desertion from Fort Snelling, Minn. His home is in Minneapolis, Minn.

NEW DEAL'S 7TH BIRTHDAY CAUSES THIRD TERM TALK

Democrats Hope for Hint from Roosevelt.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Many Democrats of prominence hereabouts are looking forward hopefully, wistfully to the dawning of tomorrow, which will be the seventh anniversary of the birth of the New Deal. President Roosevelt brought the New Deal into being on March 4, 1933.

They are hoping that the President will be moved to some utterance in celebration of that anniversary which will indicate whether he intends, or intends not to be a candidate for a third term.

Conservative Democrats who are convinced that another four years of the New Deal would end the capitalist system of private initiative and establish socialism in the United States of America are hoping that Mr. Roosevelt will remove himself from consideration for renomination as irrevocably as did Gen. Sherman when he said he would not run, if nominated, and would not serve if elected.

New Dealers Also Hopeful.

Hoping, likewise, are many middle of the road Democrats who fear that a third term candidacy would doom their party to death and who complain that the uncertainty of the President's intent is demoralizing the party.

On the other hand, the stanch New Dealers are hoping that the President will not break his silence on his political plans or that, if he does, he will not close the door to being drafted by the Democratic national convention.

Those in closest contact with the President on matters political entertain no notion that he will take himself out of consideration for renomination in any utterance tomorrow or for a long time to come, if at all.

Events to Tell the Tale.

They believe that while Mr. Roosevelt possibly is ambitious to succeed himself, the antithird term tradition to the contrary notwithstanding, he does not know today whether he will accept renomination. Whether he will do so depends upon events taking place before the convention meets on July 15 that will indicate whether he could be reelected.

The failure of the President to withdraw from the Illinois primary by the withdrawal deadline, Feb. 24, generally was accepted by the politicians as evidence that he is awaiting the outcome of events, particularly in the foreign field, to indicate the prospects of breaking down the antithird term tradition. The war in Europe or in Asia might produce a crisis, threatening involvement of the United States, which Mr. Roosevelt could endeavor to capitalize as a situation requiring his continuance in office on the theory that it is unwise to swap horses while crossing a stream.

Welles' Trip a Factor.

Likewise the development of possibilities of peace, which the President is promoting aggressively, might be capitalized with a view to effecting popular repeal of the unwritten law limiting the presidential tenure to eight years. The President might find in the public attitude encouragement to stand for a third term.

In view of these considerations there is little expectation in political circles that the President will thrust aside the crown this time, particularly while the Welles peace prospecting party is in Europe. The irenic purpose of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' expedition would receive far less serious consideration by the belligerents if it were known that Mr. Roosevelt would be out of office next January, by which time a peace scarcely could be concluded, even if initiated.

Every day of continued suspense over the intentions of the President, however, deepens the gloom in large areas of the Democratic party. In the senate, particularly, the restiveness of the Democrats has produced a veritable drive to induce Mr. Roosevelt to declare himself one way or the other and thereby spare his party the embarrassment and demoralization it is now experiencing.

George Initiates Plea.

Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.] initiated this appeal to the President. There followed similar pleas by Senators Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], Pat McCarren [D., Nev.], Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.], and D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho]. Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] constantly deprecates the third term agitation as extremely unfair to the President who, he professes to believe, does not aspire to succeed himself. Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], himself a candidate, professes confidence that Mr. Roosevelt is not.

The long heralded antithird term resolution in the senate is hanging fire. Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] announced months ago that he would introduce the identical resolution adopted by the senate in 1928 which the Democrats and its author, Senator Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] aimed at President Calvin Coolidge.

Garner Is Dubious.

Holt, however, has withheld action, chiefly at the instance of Vice President John N. Garner who is not so sure the resolution would be adopted. If it were defeated, the third term movement would receive a tremendous impetus.

The shoe is on the other foot this time. Senator La Follette, who probably won't be reelected unless Mr. Roosevelt throws him Democratic support, has lost interest in the high principle of his resolution. Some of the Democrats who voted for the antithird term resolution in 1928 would feel compelled to vote against it this time and therefore would prefer to see the measure sidetracked.

Democrats still in the senate who voted for the La Follette resolution in 1928 are:

Henry F. Ashurst [Ariz.], Alben W. Barkley [Ky.], Carter Glass [Va.], Pat Harrison [Miss.], Carl Hayden [Ariz.], William H. King [Utah], Kenneth McKellar [Tenn.], Key Pittman [Nev.], Morris Sheppard [Tex.], Smith [S. C.], Millard E. Tydings [Md.], Robert F. Wagner [N. Y.], and Wheeler [Mont.].

Child Dies in Wrecked House

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Debris strewn brick home in Evansville, Ind., where Josephine Daugherty was killed and her mother and four children injured when it was struck by tornado.

Clear Wreckage

Alton, Ill., March 3 [Special]. —Hardest hit of a half dozen southern Illinois towns damaged by a tornado yesterday, Alton was clearing away the wreckage of 50 homes today preparatory to repairs or rebuilding. Storm damage in the town was estimated at $150,000.

Red Cross relief workers were in Flatwoods, a Johnson county rural community where all houses were destroyed and where Aurtis Abbott, a WPA worker, was killed. Damage in Flatwoods will amount to $75,000.

In Evansville, Ind., where tornado damage was estimated at $250,000, Mrs. Jesse Daugherty and an infant daughter still were in a serious condition. Their house was demolished and another daughter, Josephine, 9 years old, was killed. Three more Daugherty children were injured less seriously. Forty Evansville houses were wrecked and at least 50 more were damaged.

Champaign Woman Will Observe 101st Birthday

Champaign, Ill., March 3 [Special]. —Mrs. Martha Coley will observe her 101st birthday anniversary tomorrow. She is the oldest resident of Urbana and Champaign, and has lost none of her interest in life and her surroundings. Mrs. Coley lives with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Chamberlain, in Champaign. Mrs. Ed D. Glandon, Pittsfield, Ill., another daughter, and two sons, Dr. L. A. Coley, Downers Grove, Ill., and W. L. Coley, Fort Worth, Tex., were here today for a birthday dinner.

KILLS SELF IN LODGING HOUSE.

Miss Mona Bowden, 57 years old, owner of a lodging house at 1226 North State street, killed herself yesterday by opening three gas jets on a kitchen stove. She left notes saying she was in financial difficulties and tired of living.

'Gold Strike' Reported at Mexican 'Ghost Town'

ENSENADA, Mexico, March 3 (AP).—Reports of a gold strike 250 miles south of here, near a "ghost town" where French miners operated 50 years ago, reached Ensenada today. Tom Hussong of Ensenada said he was advised there is no iron or other mineral in the ore, which lies under a stratum of hardpan about seven feet below the surface, at the bottom of a canyon. The "ghost town" sprang up overnight half a century ago and disappeared almost as quickly when an apparent end of the ore made mining operations unprofitable.

BURGLARS EAT SNACK; LOOT POOLHALL.

Burglars broke into a poolhall at 642 North State street yesterday, had a snack of food, and carried out a radio, a typewriter, and the rest of the food, George A. Jacob, the manager, said the value of the articles was $45.

HAMLIN GARLAND, PRAIRIE AUTHOR, IS ILL IN WEST

Hollywood, Cal., March 3 (AP).—Hamlin Garland, 79 years old, novelist and literary chronicler of the midwestern prairies, is critically ill. He was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage Friday.

Hamlin Garland.

At the writer's bedside are his wife, the former Zulime Taft, sister of the late Lorado Taft, Chicago sculptor, and their two daughters, Mrs. Constance Garland Harper and Mrs. Mindret Lord.

Garland, a native of West Salem, Wis., won the Pulitzer prize for biography in 1922. He is the author of numerous novels, many of them depicting pioneer life in Iowa and the Dakotas.

Among those best known are "A Son of the Middle Border," "Prairie Folks," "Crumbling Idols," "Tyranny of the Dark," and "The Long Trail." His most recent works, both nonfiction, were "Forty Years of Psychic Research" and "The Mystery of the Buried Crosses."

Finds Now Isn't the Time to Come to Aid of a Party

Omaha, Neb., March 3 [Special].—Because he was a Republican for 15 minutes, William C. Curry is not a candidate for the county commission. Curry went to the election commissioner's office, changed his registration from Democratic, then announced his intention of filing for office. He was told he couldn't file as a Republican because the law provides that a candidate must be with his party 90 consecutive days before election. After 15 minutes' discussion, he changed back to Democrat, but was informed he couldn't file as a Democrat candidate either because the 15 minutes broke the 90 consecutive days.

YOU DON'T NEED READY MONEY!

Any responsible person who is temporarily short of funds can arrange to be treated for Gonorrhea or Syphilis by this clinic!

NOT only does the Public Health Institute treat venereal diseases at very low fees on a "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" basis, but it even makes it possible for those who lack ready money to secure immediate medical attention for either gonorrhea or syphilis.

Any responsible man or woman who is temporarily short of funds can quickly arrange to be treated without undergoing a credit investigation or signing any papers whatsoever! And the treatment given will be of the same high caliber as that which has attracted more than 275,000 patients to the Institute during the past 20 years.

This truly generous offer makes it unnecessary for any venereal disease sufferer to risk disability or even death by going without expert medical attention. For unless promptly and properly treated, gonorrhea and syphilis may easily lead to the most dreadful consequences imaginable!

Neglected gonorrhea can readily result in a sight-destroying eye infection, crippling arthritis, sterility, stricture, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. And neglected syphilis is frequently the cause of heart failure, blindness, deafness, locomotor ataxia, paralysis or even insanity!

Because the Public Health Institute was founded by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, its fees are remarkably low for the expert treatment rendered. A complete examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs surprisingly little, while individual treatments are easily within the reach of every wage earner!

Furthermore, treatment is administered in the utmost privacy. As each patient is known by number instead of by name, not even the attending physician need be aware of his or her identity.

So, if you know or suspect that you have a venereal disease, don't let another day go by without obtaining proper attention. Remember, even those temporarily short of money can confidentially arrange to be cared for!

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

A. F. L. WILL FIGHT PROSECUTION OF BUILDING UNIONS

Exempt from Antitrust Law, Says Lawyer.

Atlanta, Ga., March 3 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor today promised assistant United States Attorney General Thurman W. Arnold "the damndest fight he ever had" over anti-trust prosecution of building trades unions.

Denouncing Arnold as a publicity seeking individual, Joseph A. Padway, chief counsel of the A. F. of L. assailed federal indictments of union building trades groups in New Orleans and elsewhere as "ruthless, brutal, inconsistent, damaging, and destructive of the principles of organized labor." He contended labor unions specifically were exempt from provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act.

"Any sixth grade pupil who can read English at all would understand these things," said Padway as delegates from 10 southern states yelled encouragement.

Arnold Invites Conference.

Padway's statements came near the close of a two day southern organization conference of the A. F. of L. and followed by a few hours a charge by John P. Coyne, president of the building and construction trades of the A. F. of L., that Arnold was seeking to place organized labor under the thumb of the federal government. Arnold earlier, in Washington, had made public a letter to Coyne, inviting labor leaders to a conference to clear up "any misunderstanding that exists" over the government's position.

Padway and Representative Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.] today criticized administration of the Wagner act by the National Labor Relations board and advocated elimination of the present three man board in favor of a five member board, regionally selected.

Labor Board Assailed.

Padway said the national labor relations act had been badly administered and disputes between the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. found the labor board taking sides and championing the cause of the C. I. O.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., spoke this morning in the Druid Hills [Atlanta] Baptist church. He deplored war, racial persecutions, and religious intolerance elsewhere in the world, and urged Americans to "go about our daily work and business tenaciously holding to our liberties."

ATOM COUNTER NOTES MILLIONTH PART OF SECOND

Device Announced at Indiana U.

Bloomington, Ind., March 3 (AP).—An atom counting device, capable of noting and recording the progress of atomic explosions over the infinitesimally small period of one-millionth of a second, has been built at Indiana university, it was announced today.

The action is electrical. The one-millionth of a second is the time over which the device will count the rays that shoot out, one after another, when an atom explodes.

Because an atom is so small—there being more atoms in the head of a pin than there are people in the entire world—the feat of the robot is a new scientific record.

The device was built by Dr. A. C. G. Mitchell, head of the university's physics department; Dr. L. M. Langer, and P. W. McDaniel.

To Aid Atom Conquest.

Their purpose is to penetrate the last barrier to man's knowledge of the secret of the structure of all matter. This barrier is the nucleus of an atom. Altho any nucleus is always a million times smaller than its own atom, every nucleus contains 99 per cent of the mass of its atom. Thus virtually all there is to solid substance is hidden in these atomic nuclei.

When an atom explodes it does so by first blowing off a particle of matter, like an electron, and afterward emitting a flash of energy known as a gamma ray. The latter is similar to X-rays or radium rays.

Notes Gamma Rays.

These explosions, however, always are explosions of the nucleus. This nuclear broadcast is picked up by the Indiana counter.

"Click," it says as an electron comes out.

"Click, click," it adds, noting two gamma rays following.

These sounds are too nearly simultaneous for the ear. Usually they are only a few billionths of a second apart. The virtue of the recorder is that it separates and tabulates them accurately by electricity.

A BABY BOY DIES IN FATHER'S ARMS AS AID IS HUNTED

The only food the Duke family had all day Saturday was oranges which the father, Harry L. Duke, bought with his last 20 cents. So when the baby, Harry Jr., 14 months old, became ill during the night the Dukes, having no money, did not call a doctor.

Yesterday morning when the baby seemed worse Duke left their home at 1246 North Clark street, the child in his arms. His wife was too ill to accompany him. Duke's first stop was at a physician's office near by. He was told there was no hope. But he trudged on to Henrotin hospital, where attendants told him his son was dead. There will be an inquest to determine the cause of death.

Duke told Chicago avenue police that his wife is expecting another child and that he has been out of work for two years, with the exception of a few days a month or so ago. But he wouldn't let the body of his son be taken to the morgue. Maybe, he said hopelessly, money for a decent burial would come from somewhere. The family is on relief.

INJURED BY FALL; DIES.

Mrs. Nancy Haenisch, 81 years old, 3743 North Hermitage avenue, a resident of Chicago for 65 years, died last night in the Ravenswood hospital of complications resulting from a fracture of her left hip received in a fall last September.

JAMES C. MURRAY, QUAKER OATS CO. DIRECTOR, IS DEAD

Illness Fatal in Florida Winter Home.

James Clement Murray, vice president and director of the Quaker Oats company and a former president of the Chicago Board of Trade, died in his winter home in Miami Beach, Fla., late Saturday night, Chicago friends learned yesterday. He had been ill several months. He was 67 years old, and lived at 433 Cumnor road, Kenilworth.

James C. Murray.

As head of the board of trade in 1931, Mr. Murray was an outspoken critic of governmental meddling in grain, and an advocate of a free and open market.

With Company 44 Years.

Mr. Murray had been associated with the Quaker Oats company for 44 years, most of that time with or in charge of its grain division. He was active in civic affairs in Chicago and in his home suburb. For eight years—from 1920 to 1928—he was president of the Kenilworth village board.

Mr. Murray was born in Derby, N. B., and educated in Toronto, Ont. He came to Chicago 45 years ago, joining the Quaker Oats company soon afterward.

Joins Board of Trade.

He joined the board of trade in 1904, and was the first chairman of its first business conduct committee. He was active for more than 30 years in every movement of the board, and was a director for many years. He became the board's 58th president in 1931. He had previously been a member of the advisory committee of the federal farm board out of which grew the grain stabilizing corporation.

Mr. Murray's widow, Ninetta, and a son, John Robert Murray, of Glenview, survive. He was a member of the Chicago Athletic, Indian Hills, and Bob O' Link clubs. He will be buried in Chicago.

LEWIS A. YANCEY NOTED AVIATION PIONEER, IS DEAD

Yonkers, N. Y., March 3 [Special].—Lewis A. [Lon] Yancey, celebrated Chicago aviator who flew with Roger Q. Williams from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome in 1929, died unexpectedly of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home here last night. He was 44 years old.

Lewis A. Yancey.

Yancey was one of the pioneers credited with making ocean flying practicable. In 1930 he made the first New York to Bermuda flight and toured South America by plane. Since then he had headed a number of noted airplane expeditions. He was the author of books on flying and navigation.

Yancey was born in Chicago, the son of the late Detective Sergeant Charles Lewis Yancey. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Civello Yancey, and a sister, Mrs. Ruby Pierson of Chicago.

Wife of Charles J. Herlihy, Subway Builder, Is Dead

Mrs. Anastasia Herlihy, wife of Charles J. Herlihy, vice president and general superintendent of the Herlihy-Mid-Continent company, now building the Chicago subway, died last night in the Presbyterian hospital after a month's illness. She was 50 years old and lived at 10356 South Leavitt street. Mrs. Herlihy was born and educated in Chicago. She is survived by her husband and three daughters, Mary Jean, Patricia, and Margaret. Funeral services will be held from the home to St. Barnabas church at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Wealthy Student Kills Himself Aboard Steamer

New York, March 3 (AP).—Matthew J. Moore, 21 years old, of Carpinteria, Cal., a student of the University of Southern California, was disgusted with life. So, returning from a long visit in South America, he shot himself to death aboard the steamship Mormacdove. That was the story revealed today when the Mormacdove docked in Brooklyn. Police found in his stateroom a strong box containing insurance policies, bank books, and stock that showed he was worth more than $100,000.

Capt. Thomas L. Noonan, Life Saving Fireman, Dies

Fire Captain Thomas L. Noonan, 47 years old, of engine company 100, died last night in the South Shore hospital after an illness of two months. He lived at 8628 Euclid avenue. Capt. Noonan had been a member of the fire department for 27 years, most of that time with inhalator squads 3 and 5. Department officials said he had saved countless lives during his inhalator service. He is survived by his widow, Lydia.

OBITUARIES

John Logan Baker.

Funeral services for John Logan Baker, gospel singer and mission worker, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the Moody Itallian church, 1136 North La Salle street. Mr. Baker died of a heart attack after conducting a children's program in the church Saturday. He was 55 years old and lived at 2026 North Kedzie avenue. Mr. Baker once was a professional baseball pitcher. Later he was a member of the Delmar Opera company of St. Louis and a stage entertainer. In 1919 he became a mission and church singer and was well known to Chicago church congregations. He leaves his widow, Mary, and two sisters, Molly Baker and Mrs. N. Beatty, both of St. Joseph, Mo.

Earl B. Paxton.

Earl B. Paxton, 50 years old, a leader in the Christian Catholic church of Wilbur Glenn Voliva in Zion, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 2700 Elizabeth avenue, Zion. He was a deacon in the church, and assistant director of the Zion White Robed choir. He also was a Zion township supervisor, a former president of the Zion High school, district 126, and recently became president of the Brock Printing company in Kenosha, Wis. His widow, Edna; a daughter, Elizabeth, and two sons, Charles and Samuel, survive. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Zion auditorium.

Mrs. Mary Ann Sayers.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ann Sayers, who would have been 100 years old on May 29, will be held at 4 p. m. today in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue. She died Saturday in her home at 7155 Yale avenue. Mrs. Sayers was born in Miami county, Ohio. Her husband, Judson Sayers, was a farmer and building contractor in Champaign, Champaign county. Mrs. Sayers leaves a son, W. W. Sayers; a niece, Mrs. Lena Robbins, with whom she lived; seven grandchildren, and 14 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Martha J. Burgess.

Mrs. Martha J. Burgess, 82 years old, a Christian Science practitioner for 40 years, died yesterday in her home at 424 West 66th street. She came to Chicago 30 years ago from her native town of Ladoga, Ind. Mrs. Burgess leaves two daughters, Miss Queen Ann Burgess, with whom she lived, and Mrs. Edward Harrigan, Whitewater, Wis., and a son, Harold, of Crawfordsville, Ind. Funeral services will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue.

Catching COLD?

Gargle Listerine quick!

At the first symptom of a cold, gargle often with Listerine Antiseptic. It treats a cold for what it is—a local infection aggravated by germs. Kills germs by millions on surface tissues. The prompt use of Listerine Antiseptic may head off a troublesome cold or an irritating sore throat.

REALITY GRACES ZION REOPENING OF PASSION PLAY

1,000 See Performance of Religious Drama.

BY JOHN ASTLEY-COCK.

The annual presentation of the Passion Play by members of the Christian Catholic church opened yesterday afternoon in the auditorium in Zion. In the absence of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who is on vacation in Florida, the prefatory address to the 1940 series of performances was delivered by Overseer Michael J. Mintern. A crowd of 1,000, most of whom have witnessed the premières of four previous years, attended.

LeRoy Peacy, Christus in Passion play.

While Zion cannot claim for its performances the traditional background of centuries, which places such as Oberammergau enjoy, yet in only five years there has accumulated an indefinable aura of impressiveness. It is revealed by the sincère portrayal of the gospel characters, by the absence of theatricalism in the mob scenes, and it is reflected in the reverent attitude of the audience.

Reality Graces Portrayals.

In this Passion Play are gathered individuals who, on Sunday afternoons for three months, assume characters far removed from their daily life, but they are more than mummers for a few hours. There is acting, of course, but yesterday the artificialities of the theater seemed obliterated. The portrayals were given with simplicity and reality.

Great credit is due to the author of the scenario. Elder Jabez Taylor has adhered closely to the dialog of the Gospel narrative, and the costuming and scenery are authentic. The production, as in previous years, was directed by Sophia Swanstrom Young, and the Hosanna scene of Palm Sunday, the grouping for the Last Supper, and the episodes of the Via Dolorosa were effective.

Christus Played with Restraint.

The Christus again was played by Le Roy J. Peacy. This, the most difficult of all rôles, was presented with admirable restraint and dignity.

Improvements on the mechanical side of the production over last year's were noticeable. Where the presence of angels was required, and in the Ascension scene, an illusion screen was used with a fadeout by the spotlight and the obviousness of "the too, too solid flesh" thus was avoided.

The incidental music was a feature. Rudolph Reiner of the Chicago symphony orchestra had 30 instrumentalists under his baton, and the choir was conducted by Philip A. Jones. Miss Adrienne Moran played organ accompaniments.

Performances of the Passion Play will be given on Sunday afternoons during March, April, and May, with evening performances on the Thursdays of March 14, April 11, and May 9.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., March 3.—It may offend the glamour girls, but the past seven days in this burg were dominated by a horse, a dinner, and a professional pugilist.

The horse was 7 year old Seabiscuit. . . . The dinner was the academy award banquet. . . . The pugilist was 140 pound Henry Armstrong. . . . Running, eating, and punching topped emoting all week long, and even tho the movies tried to hold their own with a world première of "Grapes of Wrath," a première of "House Across the Way," and a preview of "Strange Cargo," it wasn't even close. . . . The horse, the dinner, and the pugilist won all of the headlines, and most of the attendance.

Seabiscuit, the horse, has more glamour than most glamour girls, if the truth be set down coldly, and his cinderella background is a romance of newsprint. . . . A grandson of Man o' War, thru Hard Tack, his paw, Seabiscuit was an ugly duckling as a colt. . . . He was regarded so scantily that his owners used him in various menial capacities around the stables, and when they got a chance to dispose of him for $7,500, they seized the opportunity. . . . When he won the Santa Anita handicap late Saturday afternoon, Seabiscuit, the $7,500 stepchild, had established a new all-time record by winning approximately $440,000 in purses, despite the fact that he has been pursued by the most evil luck ever to befall a champion.

Twice, he lost $100,000 purses by no more than the width of a whisker on a horse's nose. . . . As if that were not sufficient hard luck, he was crippled for a complete racing year by a bad right ankle. . . . The experts said that no horse could recover from such an injury, but Seabiscuit again confounding the experts, not only accomplished the unbelievable but on Saturday turned in his most stunning race to break the track record and win the $100,000 purse that makes him the No. 1 money winner of all time.

Amazingly enough, this wordless animal so gripped the imagination and the affection of people who had but a cursory interest in horse racing that he became the idol of all that territory west of the Rocky mountains. . . . He became a topic of conversation at dinner tables, in golf clubs, in the public schools. . . . Learning that he could not perform at his best on a wet track, Californians became more interested in weather forecasts than ever before. The affection that this inarticulate brown horse had aroused was a most amazing thing.

His magnificent victory aroused 62,000 people literally to a vocal frenzy. . . . I've never heard such a volume of sound as when the gallant animal, fighting off one challenge after another, poked his red hooded nose into the lead and then thundered on to the finish line with 12 other horses trailed out behind him. . . . Movie stars screamed themselves hoarse, strangers pounded each other on the back, in a scene that was completely indescribable. . . . I think the reason was that life offers too few happy endings. . . . Ordinarily the best laid plans of men and mice go astray. . . . On Saturday, luck being what it is, it should have rained cats and dogs. . . . Instead of winning, as we all had hoped, Seabiscuit should have finished second, or last. . . . That's the way things generally work out. . . . What was most miraculous was that instead, the hot sun poured from the sky, and Seabiscuit, won.

Without trying to read into the academy award banquet any social values that will tax your credulity, let it be established in the records that the academy, in waiving all provincialism and naming two Britishers to the top cinema posts—Vivien Leigh and Robert Donat—vindicated itself. . . . When on top of this broad and sporting gesture, the academicians for the first time in history, gave the second highest award to buxom Hattie McDaniels, colored actress, it underscored the necessity at this time of a completely tolerant attitude toward all races and creeds and all colors. . . . The United States motion picture industry served notice to the world that it was not narrow or bigoted. . . . The world must be the gainer thereby, for the power of suggestion carries terrific weight.

Third event of the week was the appearance of St. Louis' mighty midget, Henry Armstrong, in Hollywood, in a 10 round brawl with Ceferino Garcia, one of the Filipinos this country proposes to make independent. . . . The movie stars turned out for this in full force, even Sonja Henie hurrying to the ringside from the train that returned her to the movie colony. . . . Shorter and lighter than his opponent, doughty and resourceful little Armstrong supplemented his gloved shots with adroit use of elbows, shoulders, and head. . . . Utterly confounded, Garcia perhaps was more confounded when Referee George Blake, himself confounded, called the fight a draw. . . . Armstrong won from here to Denver, because it seems to this reporter that this is rather a late date to question the legality of his tactics. . . . He always has fought this way. . . . At any event, he was much too much for Garcia.

Sun Worshiper Finds Paradise in Palm Springs

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT ISN'T a long drive from Los Angeles to Palm Springs, but the climatic differences are tremendous. Leaving the big California city warmly wrapped in woolens, one motors for three hours or so through lemon, orange, and walnut groves, winding ever upwards. A dusty road that apparently leads to nowhere suddenly rounds a bend and becomes the main street of Palm Springs.

Here it's hot. Take off those sweaters. All the people who are staying here are wearing slacks, sandals, sunglasses, big straw hats. It's only the unprepared tourist who is conventionally clad.

Main Street Is Meeting Place of All Humanity.

Strolling down the main street on a Sunday is a cross between a hike on Atlantic City's Boardwalk and a visit to a rodeo. Cowboys in ten gallon hats ride by in luxurious automobiles. Gobs in uniform with their girls on their arms are up from San Pedro. Buses unload every conceivable type of human. They gape and stare and fill the sidewalk cafés, the curio shops, and hunt for movie stars.

The conservative ones laugh at the incongruous costumes in the continuous circus-like parade. Fat women in slacks with bare midriffs; young girls in the briefest of shorts but properly hatted and gloved; old women with halter-topped dresses; old men in shorts, all go about their business unconcernedly.

Off this main street there is another world. It is a man made world, the work of the people who love Palm Springs and who have built homes there. These houses are of modern architecture, one story affairs, built on just enough ground to hold the house. Water is of prime importance, and it is only by constant watering that the tiny grounds are made beautiful with grass, trees, shrubs, and flowers. So precious is water that home owners do not have enormous gardens. The difference watering makes is indicated pointedly by any unimproved property, which is bare and stony, like the desert surrounding Palm Springs.

Chicago Families Buy Homes in Palm Springs.

The Arthur D. Cushmans and the Horace White Armstrongs are Chicagoans who have purchased homes in Palm Springs. Both families are in the west now. Miss Jean Armstrong is with her parents. Frank H. Armstrong, II., who is practicing law in Los Angeles, goes to Palm Springs on week-ends, as do many from the city.

Mrs. Cushman Kimball left last Friday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cushman. Mrs. Kimball has been working at the Library of International Relations and living at the Ambassador this winter.

At some times of the year the desert blooms with colorful flowers. A number of famed beauty spots are short drives from the heart of Palm Springs. Every one wants to visit Palm canyon, Tahquitz falls, and the Palms to Pines highway.

Many dude ranches nestle at the foot of the mountains that line the desert. The Deep Well and Smoke Tree ranches and the Desert Inn are popular with Chicagoans. The John P. Bents are leaving next Friday for the Deep Well ranch. Mrs. Francis T. O'Brien and her children are at the Smoke Tree, where Mr. O'Brien will join them later.

Return from Sojourns at Nearby Dude Ranches.

Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr. and her daughter, Mrs. Aldis B. Browne Jr., have returned from a holiday at the Desert Inn, where the Charles C. Bunkers have been enjoying a sunny vacation. The Frederic Woodwards arrived at home yesterday after a visit to one of the ranches near the resort where the average

Nelson Eddy Again Shows He Is More Than a Movie Idol

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Nelson Eddy, the blond six footer whose baritone voice is known as far as radio and the movies can reach, came to the Civic Opera house last night to turn his friendly smile on his Chicago followers. An almost capacity audience heard him in a recital program which consisted of lyrical songs in a variety of languages and three or four such not easily classifiable things as a musical setting of Hamlet's "O, what a rogue and peasant slave am I."

Mr. Eddy's voice, which flows as easily as a brook and is almost as clear and translucent in texture, was displayed to especially good advantage in some attractive, unfamiliar songs of Joaquin Nin and in Schubert's famous Serenade. Grieg's "Ich Liebe Dich" and Strauss' "Allerseelen" were done with great restraint and with a decided nobility of phrasing.

The whole atmosphere last night was different from that of Mr. Eddy's past recitals here. The audience seemed more willing to treat him as a serious singer to be listened to carefully rather than as a movie idol to be ooh-d and aah-d at—a consummation for which he has doubtless been wishing devoutly for many a year.

Angna Enters, American mime and dancer who is also, in her spare time, a literary worker and a painter, presented another of her remarkable series of impersonations at the Civic theater yesterday. "Impersonation" hardly tells the story, for Miss Enters' power of projection does not stop with surface characteristics nor even with basic traits. She goes on to handle ideas and intuitions as well.

It seems to work something like this. A woman with great powers of observation and a phenomenal plasticity of face and body is also possessed of a breadth of sympathy which permits her to be amused by man's absurdities, delighted by his occasional graces, and enraged at his cruelty and stupidity. This amusement or delight or rage she manages to translate so forcefully into motion and posture and grimace that only an audience of sticks and stones could resist its contagion. She gives us not only the character but also her attitude toward the character and even toward the forces which made the character what he or she is.

Retired Postal Clerk Sells Painting to Metropolitan

New York, March 3 (AP).—Arnold Friedman, 60 years old, a retired postal clerk, has climaxed a 40 year career as a "Sunday painter" by selling one of his pictures to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Friedman retired from a New York postoffice two years ago. His formal training was a two year night course at an art school in 1908 and 1909.

Vanities Has 39 Beautiful Girls, Not Much Else

EARL CARROLL
"HOLLYWOOD VANITIES."

Revue in two acts. Directed by Earl Carroll. Music and lyrics by Dorcas Cochran and Charles Kosoff. Dances by Eddie Prinz. Costumes and scenery by Jean Le Seyeux. Presented by Earl Carroll in the Erlanger theater, Sunday evening, March 3, 1940.

THE PLAYERS.

Prof. Lamberti, Susan Miller, Johnny Woods, Ygor and Tanya, Norman Lawrence, Gary Stone, Beryl Wallace, Jerry Lester, the Four Hot Shots, and the Sixty Most Beautiful Girls in the World.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Not having penetrated, even with Burton Holmes' help, into the remoter corners of Sumatra or the Himalayan fastnesses of Tibet, I am in no position either to affirm or to deny Earl Carroll's claim that he has peopled his "Hollywood Vanities" with "the most beautiful girls in the world." There is no arguing the point, however; these girls are extremely comely in all the expected regards, and they represent the pick of the season's chorines. But Mr. Carroll, who never inadvertently slips into understatement, has clearly overestimated his supply. There are not 60 of them, but 39.

Still and all, 39 glowing young Hollywood beauties create a severe drain on one's powers of concentration. Mr. Carroll is wholly within his rights in assuming that he has done his duty in getting all 39 on the stage, severally and collectively. The one comprehensible purpose of the "Hollywood Vanities" consists in the provision of an opportunity to see the 39 in reasonably attractive costumes part of the time and without them the rest of the time.

From time to time Mr. Carroll has exceeded the minimum essentials of costuming by embellishing his lovelies with plumes, lace corsets, bird feathers [even including the Fire Bird] and tambourines. Confronted with the necessity for displaying these properties, the girls either "parade," as they say in the burlesque shows, or engage in feverish, untutored movements that pass for a bolero or a can-can.

An excellent, if disconcerting, moment arrived last night when some of the men in aisle seats were induced to play patty-cake with the 39 sirens. I was so confused by the enchanting, and I must say cultured, brunette who singled me out that I muffed the whole game badly. Robert Pollak did not, however, and Raymond Massey put on a masterly exhibition.

As to featured soloists, the "Vanities" is pitiably short on talent. Prof. Lamberti, a lovable habitué of our vaudeville stages, entertains with a xylophone item that is still as good as it always has been. Jerry Lester, a member of the clan often revoltingly described in abbreviated form as "emcees," is affable enough. Ygor and Tanya give an astounding display of acrobatic ballroom dancing, which merely goes to prove that it is possible to do the impossible. The Four Hot Shots, a Negro tapping team, are really good.

There is almost no new material in the show. Most of it has a thrice familiar ring, and I shall not embarrass Mr. Carroll by designating any of the places I have seen it before. Unless you are interested in the girls, the "Vanities" has not much for you beyond stale routines and a fearful deluge of hackneyed, leering filth. Incidentally, Nirska, the advertised "exotic" dancer, did not appear, nor was her name listed in the program.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

Polite but Provoked Author. (In the Morning Mail.)

Dear Miss Provines: I do not want to seem ungracious, for you have been exceedingly kind with advance mention of my new book, but the title as it has appeared in your column twice was "This Land of Ours." I want to make this point because, altho the book was first named two years ago there seems to be an avalanche coming this spring of books with "land" in the title. [In my book the title is definitely the keynote of the struggle between white and red peoples in this country.]

In order to keep myself from making the same slip I have written out the following:

THIS Land Is Ours.
This LAND Is Ours.
This Land IS Ours.
This Land Is OURS.

This, any way you say it, puts punch into the title.

Sincerely,
Louis Zara.

Evasion.

Two girls were arguing, and a third was listening. One of the two who disagreed turned to her to ask her to verify a point.

"Sorry, but I'm mutual," she answered.

Visiting Composer.

Manoah Leide-Tedesco, composer and conductor, will be in the audience at the Great Northern theater this evening when the Illinois Symphony orchestra plays the first Chicago performance of his composition Acturias. So will Radie Britain, whose Southern Symphony is on the program. Tedesco told Izler Solomon, brilliant young conductor to whom he has dedicated the work, that one of the most popular programs he ever conducted in Vienna included John Alden Carpenter's Krazy Kat Suite, Deems Taylor's The Kiss in Xanadu and the Overture on Negro Themes, by P. J. Dunne. This was in proof of his statement that music lovers of Europe, contrary to the impressions that prevail among Americans, are not slow to appreciate the music of American conductors.

"A Note on Carpenter."

Speaking of John Alden Carpenter, a piece entitled A Note on Carpenter in the February Coronet by Carleton Smith says:

They [the thousands who rush daily past the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter on Lake Shore drive] are not aware that he was the man who Carpenterized the skyscraper, put Krazy Kat on the stage, introduced the Charleston, the banjo, and the saxophone to the Metropolitan Opera house. They have not heard his Improving Songs for Anxious Children, his bits of tone painting that are at once as evanescent and as strong as the winds of Michigan boulevard. They do not know The Sleep that Flits on Baby's Eyes, the Odaliaque, the mood of the lake he has caught in a web of sound . . . Carpenter's works are historical documents, glimpses of his epoch, recorded with the keen perception of a discerning musician and filtered thru a poised, challenging, intellect.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Today's the day some thousands of hairdressers have been awaiting. It marks the opening of the annual midwest beauty trade show sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association, an event that this year celebrates its 17th birthday.

The programs of these shows thru the years tell a remarkable story. They're literal testimony to the fact that the beauty industry has done an amazing job of growing up in a hurry. They recall the day when the permanent wave was an experiment, a brave adventure for waver and wavee. They tell the whole story of the changed status of the beauty operator—the dignified, rightful transition from servant to specialist. They hint at the legislation that has been evolved thru the years, national and state laws concerned with skill, sanitation and educational requirements. In themselves these programs arranged for the beauty shop owners and operators for their annual three day get together constitute a history of the American beauty shop.

The program for the 1940 show has features undreamed of in 1923; beauty services for the juvenile; Hollywood hair styling; business management; learned educational discourses on the scientific aspects of the scalp, hand, and face treatment. But we think the one event on the schedule that proves the profession's adult perspective is a "Consumers' Forum" to be held tomorrow, during which the customers' pet peeves and points of view will be seriously analysed.

An industry that can frankly examine its own conscience in this way is mature! Its development from now on will probably be slower, but it will be sound.

The news that yesterday emerged from the show was that women can brush their hair again.

In recent years woman's hairbrush has been handicapped by her festoons of curls, explained Mrs. Margaret Condos, president of the association.

"But," she said, "hair is to be so simple this year that women can even brush it."

She said there are to be no more straggly, unkempt masses of locks. There are to be no mops of curls. Instead, there will be "soft, deep waves ending in soft tendrils." This, she said, permits brushing.

"Hair is to be fitted to the head this year," Mrs. Condos explained. "A woman's hair must be as fitted to her as her clothing. Very simple—the skilled simplicity of a fine gown."

INSTALMENT I.
ON THE TRIGGER.

The plaza of Santa Luz was flanked on three sides by wooden awninged stores. Only three things distinguished it from its sister towns of the territory: It was the capital; it had a governor's palace which made up the fourth side of the plaza, and it had six good saloons on the other three sides.

In a back room of the second best a man was interrupted this afternoon at his glass of beer by the entrance of a puncher. There was something about this seated man curious to behold. His shoulders were almost as thick as they were broad, and they were very broad. It followed, then, that his head should be large and well fleshed. It was not. Under the swart skin every tiny muscle of his face was visible, like the face of a man who has been flayed. His dark eyes were bland and cunning and merciless, not the eyes that went with the dusty clothes of a working puncher which he wore. He was asking all the questions, while the tall and dusty puncher was answering them.

"Who did he ride in with, Rhodes?"

"Bohannon, from over at the marshal's office."

"That doesn't make sense."

"Not any."

"Are you sure?"

"I saw him, I tell you."

"Was he armed?"

"Same as always. Two guns."

"Then what?"

"Bohannon left him at the Exchange House."

"To sleep?"

"Yeah. He's there now."

"Asleep?"

"I made sure. I could hear him thru the room door."

"How was he dressed?"

"Blue checkered shirt, levis, flat crowned black Stetson, and vest."

"And he came in with a marshal?"

"Unh-hunh."

A pause.

"Could he get out of that room without being seen?"

"Sure. His window opens onto a store roof."

"Well, well."

The order of questioning was now reversed. The puncher, Rhodes, asked the questions, and the other man answered them.

"Want me to make a try for him, Chief?"

"Don't be a fool."

"Since when did he start riding around with a marshal, and him with a price on his head?"

"Think a minute."

"I am. Why is he?"

"The governor wants him, or the commissioner, I suppose."

"Sure they do. About $5,000 worth, ain't it?"

"Not for the reward money, or he wouldn't have been armed."

"He's still a wanted man, ain't he?"

"Technically. He won't be long, if he rode in with a marshal."

"What do you aim to do?"

"Plenty. I want the Runt."

"He's half drunk, out front. What for?"

"Go buy a blue checkered shirt, a black, flat brimmed Stetson, and a red bandana. His size. Then bring them back here to me."

. . . . . .

He seemed to be asleep, but even as the sound of footsteps swelled in the corridor outside, his hand, which had been fisted on the pillow, unfisted and slid down under the pillow.

When the knock came, he pushed himself up on an elbow and called, "What do you want?"

"There's a man to see you," the clerk's voice came thru the door.

"Send him away."

"He's here now. Right here."

"Send him away, I said." While he was talking, he slid off the bed. Erect, without his shirt, he was undersize. His chest and shoulders were solid and beautifully knit without being heavy. His face, wholly awake now, was tough, arrogant, insufferable beneath his tow colored hair. Silently he moved over against the wall, looking not at the door but at the window.

The knock came again.

"Get away from here," he said gently.

Another voice spoke then. "Amiga, Sam!"

His head swiveled toward the door and he walked over to it, removing the chair and opening it. To the clerk he said, "Drag it," and to the other man, a browned Mexican of middle years in sun faded tatters, he put out a hand and smiled.

The Mexican, pulling off his hat, stepped inside. He smiled, too, as if courtesy were fully as urgent as what he was about to say.

"He is here, Sam."

"Who?"

"That cabron, Santee Bales. I have seen him."

"No! Where?"

"At the Paradise. He is fighting."

"Why."

"He is drunk."

Sam's forehead wrinkled a little as he stared at the Mexican.

"You have seen it?"

"I have seen it."

While the Mexican waited, Sam snatched up his checkered shirt, put it on, and strapped on his gun belt. Afterward they left, Sam leading.

They walked thru the lobby out onto the hotel's awninged porch. Squinting against the sunlight which poured down onto the hard baked adobe of the plaza, he first saw that the square was slowly emptying toward the Paradise saloon. His eyes narrowed a little, suspicious, and without moving his head his glance traveled toward the bank across the plaza.

"He was never drunk in his life," he murmured to the Mexican.

He had no sooner finished saying it than a man stepped out of the bank. He was carrying a two-sack. He was dressed in a blue checkered shirt, a black, flat brimmed Stetson, and levis. A red bandana was either shading the lower part of his face or it seemed to be doing so, for the man had his head down.

"Ah," the small man said. His glance hauled away from the man at the bank and pulled up closer to scan the line of horses at the tie-rail in front of the hotel porch. Then he vaulted the low porch railing, dodged under the tie-rail, drew out a carbine from a saddle boot, and vaulted back over the railing to the cool depths of the porch, and stopped beside one of the porch pillars.

"Sam, be careful!" the Mexican said.

"It is all right, Amigo," Sam murmured. He took a deliberate rest against the pillar and hauled the carbine up. A bystander who had been watching this stared at Sam from the top step.

"Move," Sam said.

The man dropped to a sitting position, his head swiveled to look across the plaza. The man in the checkered shirt was on a horse now, and he was cantering down the street. He swerved for a freight wagon, touched spurs to his horse, and turned right at the corner.

At the moment, Sam shot. It was a good hundred yards distant, over the heads of teams and saddle horses at the tie-rails. Still the man in the checkered shirt disappeared from sight.

The shot bored into the afternoon silence and seemed to explode it. The men who were heading for the Paradise stopped and looked around. Some one on the far corner yelled. A man in the crowd yelled back, and then the tide of movement headed for the downed man in the checkered shirt.

Sam grinned, and let the carbine slack off. "All right," he said to the man on the steps. "You can get up."

He was about to turn when he felt the warm barrel of a gun jammed against his back. He did not move, only said, "Take that out of there." It pulled away, and he turned around to confront an army lieutenant.

"That was murder if I ever saw it," the lieutenant said angrily.

"Let's go see if it was," Sam drawled.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

INSTALMENT XLIX.
ALIAS CLARA BROWN.

In a calm, even voice Cynthia began her account.

She told Michael of her meeting with Rory Clarke, the casual acceptance of an invitation. The almost equally casual way in which she had suddenly found herself helping a murderer, being his accessory, without the least idea what she was doing until she heard it at the police station.

She described her exasperation at the trial; all the evidence against her was true; there was nothing for her lawyers to tear up; and the one fact that distorted all the evidence—namely, that she was ignorant of the nature of Rory Clarke, she was unable to prove. And then she told him of the strange shock of finding Bessie herself one of the wardresses in charge of her.

"But why didn't you tell me on our honeymoon?"

"Because you could not have done anything. If I had told you before we married, I believed, Michael, that you would have insisted on marrying me. And you would have had to carry this awful secret with you. It was better for you to go back to Malta thinking that I had appendicitis than knowing I was in prison."

"I suppose you are right," he admitted. "But it is very hard to be lied to even if it is for one's own good."

"I thought that at the end of the year I should have served my sentence and Bessie would arrange for our letters. And then Bessie was transferred—and I found that our child was to be born. I determined that he should not be born in prison."

He let her finish her tale without further interruption and then:

"Thank God you have told me!" he exclaimed.

"But it has made you miserable."

"Yes, a bit," he conceded. "But I would have found out. You know what a slow chap I am. I believe I half knew it in the subconsciousness of something. Yes, it has made me miserable."

"You can't forgive me, can you, Michael!" Her voice was thin and high pitched.

"I can never quite forgive you for lying to me. But I can love you all the more."

"But, Michael——"

"Don't you understand. I am miserable because you endured all that as much for my sake as your own without letting me help you endure it."

"I ought to have told you before we married."

"Yes, you ought." He smiled as he took her hands in his. "You ought to have given me the chance to say that I washed my hands of you because you were in undeserved trouble. And if you had, d'you know what I'd have said? Just this." He folded her in his arms. "I love you, Cynthia."

It was some minutes later that she breathed in his ear:

"What are we going to tell your mother?"

"Lies, darling," he laughed back. "That is, if she asks any questions, which I don't think she will.

"A serious problem we have to face," he added presently, "is Bessie. She doesn't fit in as a companion; and she isn't the least bit like a domestic worker. We could offer her training for an office job and perhaps I could get her fixed up at the firm."

"Yes," said Cynthia without enthusiasm and he rather wondered why she seemed so little concerned until Bessie herself solved the problem that evening after dinner.

At their request she came to their room. In a few well chosen words, Michael thanked her for the part she had played in their lives.

"My wife has told me the whole story," he added. "But I think you will agree it is unnecessary to discuss it with my mother or my sister."

"I wouldn't discuss it with any one, Mr. Alloway," said Bessie. "This afternoon I saw Detective Sergeant Stevens off duty. I did mention what had happened today and he admitted that he had suspected us both unjustly."

"Unjustly!" echoed Michael, in astonishment.

"Yes, sir. And he was so ashamed of himself that he asked me to marry him."

"What cheek!" exclaimed Michael.

"Yes, sir," agreed Bessie heartily, and added: "I accepted him and if it's convenient to Mrs. Alloway we are going to be married in three weeks."

[The End.]

Directs Choral Club.

Stanley Martin, choirmaster of St. Marks Episcopal church in Evanston and organist for the Chicago Sunday Evening and the Swedish Choral clubs, will direct the Milwaukee Road Choral club. His appointment was announced yesterday by the club president, George M. Dempsey.

Now Amazing Proved Hygienic Protection for Married Women

Thousands upon thousands of women have now learned to use a sensational, scientific discovery for hygienic purposes. This boon to womankind is not a poison, yet actually kills germs at contact. It is called Zonite, and its action is amazing when used for feminine hygiene. It instantly kills germs and bacteria on contact, yet it is proved safe—will not harm delicate tissues. And Zonite deodorizes—assures daintiness. Helps keep one fresh, clean and pure. So successful has Zonite been that over 20,000,000 bottles have already been used. Get Zonite from your druggist today. It's surprisingly easy and economical to use. Ideal for feminine hygiene. Follow the simple directions and enjoy proved hygienic protection that you may never have known before.

Muffins take to variation as salads take to salad dressing. The possibilities for putting new trimmings on last year's muffin recipe are seemingly endless.

All the recipes given here, with the possible exception of the Apple Graham Muffin, could be worked out from a single basic recipe. The fig muffin actually is the basic recipe with the single addition of chopped figs. Any other dried fruit, or drained, canned fruit might be substituted for the figs in the same proportion. Sometimes, as in the fruited corn muffins, some other kind of flour or meal is substituted for part of the white flour. Occasionally the sweetening is the variant, as in the honey date muffins.

Fig Muffins.

[About 1 dozen medium.]
½ cup dried figs
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening

Pour boiling water over figs, cover and let stand 10 minutes. Drain, clip stems, and cut in small pieces. Sift flour, salt, sugar, and baking powder together. Combine milk, beaten egg, and melted shortening, and stir into dry ingredients. Add figs, stirring only enough to mix. Fill muffin pans ⅔ full and bake in a hot [425 degrees] oven until muffins are done, 20 to 30 minutes.

Fruited Corn Muffins.

1 9 ounce package dry mincemeat
½ cup water
1 cup flour sifted
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup corn meal
1 cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons shortening

Break mincemeat into pieces, and add water. Stir over low heat until mixture has boiled for about 3 minutes. Cool. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together, stir in corn meal. Combine milk, beaten egg, and melted fat. Stir into the dry ingredients, mixing only enough to blend. Fold in mincemeat and bake in greased muffin pans for 25 to 30 minutes in a hot [425 degrees] oven.

Apple Graham Muffins.

[About 1 dozen small.]
16 graham crackers
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter
½ cup milk, scalded
1 egg, well beaten
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 cooking apples, peeled and sliced
Sugar and cinnamon

Roll crackers into crumbs and add sugar, butter, and salt, mixing well. Stir in hot milk; add egg and finally baking powder. Turn into greased muffin pans. Top each muffin with 2 or 3 slices of apple and sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Bake in a hot [425 degrees] oven until done, 20 to 25 minutes.

Honey Date Muffins.

[About 18 medium muffins.]
2½ cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup bran
½ cup chopped nutmeats
¾ cup chopped dates
½ cup honey
1½ cups milk
1 tablespoon melted shortening

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt together; stir in bran, nutmeats, and chopped dates. Combine honey, milk, and shortening and add to flour mixture, stirring only enough to mix well.

Suit for Easter Parade

MISS' SUIT, BLOUSE AND HAT.

If it's a suit you want particularly to wear in the Easter parade, we offer this pattern as a suggestion, and also a design for a blouse to be worn with the two-piecer. You needn't look far for the proper chapeau, either, because a third pattern helps you to make one in spirit with the rest of the ensemble.

The suit has a deep V neckline with revers, and the jacket is single breasted with two buttons. There are pockets if you wish them, and the squared shoulders are smart. The skirt is a gored model with adequate flare. Frills lend femininity to the blouse, which is essentially a shirtwaist model. The beret pierced by the feather may be made of the suit woolen or of some other fabric. The blouse may be fashioned of cotton or silk, preferably sheer.

Style No. 3004 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 54 inch material for jacket; 1½ yards for skirt; 1½ yards of 39 inch for lining.

Style No. 3138 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for short sleeved version, with 4½ yards of lace edging.

Style No. 3214 is designed for one headsize only, and must be ordered separately.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Monday, March 4.

An emotional and conflicting set of celestial vibrations today, especially during business hours. Hold self-pity temptations. Check up on old ideas before putting effort or money behind them. Evening improves for new ideas and plans.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if this is your birthday, continues financial-occupational opportunities till end of June. May and June bring emotional experiences with partners, allies, and in-laws. Danger: April 14-26, Aug. 26-Sept. 15, Jan. 17-25, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Starts well, but becomes tricky; avoid frictions.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth, and address.

P. E. O. Meeting.

The annual meeting of P. E. O., chapter A, Illinois, will be held at 10:30 o'clock today at the Palmer House.

noonday temperature from October to June is 81 degrees.

The pool at one of Palm Spring's biggest hotels, the El Mirador, is filled with bathers every day. Guests in shorts take luncheon or cocktails in a house with glassed-in sides at one end of the pool. There is music for luncheon and dinner in the main dining room of the hotel, and the lobby is lined with shops showing the most expensive accessories and clothes.

Mrs. Gerhard Foreman and her sister, Miss Frances Lasker, gave a cocktail party at the El Mirador last week to welcome Mr. Foreman to Palm Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Levis,

The George Kellogg Ganns, the Laurence E. Schwabs, and the junior William F. Schumanns are at the B-Bar-H guest ranch for their fourth annual visit to the resort.

Chamber Music Concerts Start Next Tuesday.

Hans Lange, associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will present the first in a series of three chamber music concerts at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Mr. Lange's Little Symphony, composed of members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and the Philharmonic String quartet will present works which are seldom heard.

Among those who have taken tickets for the series are Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mrs. Philip Miller, Mrs. William L. Bowe, the Charles H. Hamills, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, the John P. Wellings, Francis M. Knight, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener.

The other concerts will be given on March 19 and April 2.

Hans Kohn, author of "Nationalism in the Near East," will address members of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at a luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock next Friday in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Mr. Kohn will speak on "Turkey: The New Near Eastern Front."

Ski Breakfast Party Held for MacLeods.

The Harold Wallers gave a gay ski breakfast party yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. MacLeod of Waukesha Wis., who lived in Winnetka until recently. Mrs. McLeod is a member of the Chicago Junior league and won the league's two weeks' trip to Sun Valley at its benefit open house last fall. The Wallers' guests wore indoor ski clothes.

Mrs. Edward H. Ball III. and Mrs. Leslie L. Cooke will act as hostesses at this afternoon's lecture in the chapel guild of the Cenacle's Lenten series. The Rev. Martin D'Arcy will speak at 2:30 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club. "Crisis in Morals" will be the subject of Father D'Arcy, who is lecturer on philosophy at Oxford university.

Prof. Frans Blom, director of the Institute of Middle American Research at Tulane university, will address members of the Geographic society of Chicago at 8:30 o'clock this evening in Orchestra hall. Mr. Blom will speak on "The Great Empires of Mexico and South America." This is the fifth illustrated lecture in a series on "The Story of Man." The final lecture will be given by Dr. Wendell C. Bennett on April 1.

The women who attend a tea Mrs. Frederick Herendeen is giving this afternoon will arrive laden with packages. The party is a membership bundle meeting of the Social Service club of the Infant Welfare society. The object of the tea is to gather donations with which to restock the thrift shop which the group conducts at 1451 East 55th street.

Three Crocheted Pot Holders

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Three different pot holders made with three different stitches afford variety for today's needlework. The herringbone and crazy stitches are used in crocheting a pot holder from carpet warp in contrasting colors. The two threads not only make the holders durable and attractive, but create firmness which defies steam and hot water. The octagonal pot holder is crocheted from two shades of carpet warp, but there is a striped effect on the right side which is crocheted in a popcorn stitch. The back is made of double crochet and joined with the contrasting color used for the front.

For instructions in crocheting the three pot holders, No. X-440; send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The squeeze play is the most faithful friend that a consistent overbidder can have. When all the guideposts of sound bidding have been ignored and a declarer finds himself in a contract that he fervently wishes were a little more logical and a little less optimistic, his best course is to call upon the old reliable squeeze. If that fails him, nothing is left except surrender.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	1 heart	1 spade	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
7 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's bidding was not characterized by pessimism, to say the least. It resembled the mode of progress of a jack rabbit, but apparently the goddess of luck favors the rash, as will be seen.

East opened the king of hearts and, when the dummy appeared, declarer felt far from comfortable. Six-odd was a "cinch," but where was the 13th trick? South's spade king would provide one discarding opportunity and, if the club finesse "was on," declarer could get rid of another heart, but he still would have the heart jack of which to dispose. North probably had visions of an apopletic partner saying a few choice words about a player [him, North] who would throw away a cold small slam to go out for a very doubtful grand slam.

The ace of hearts won the first lead and declarer ran off five trumps. He then cashed dummy's ace and king of spades, discarding a heart from his own hand and led a low club to his king. With only four cards left to go, poor East was in trouble. This was the situation:

NORTH

EAST

When the last trump was played, East could not discard safely. A club discard would establish dummy's suit for three winners; a heart would promote declarer's jack to winning rank. Thus, thru the good luck of finding East with both the heart honors and the only club stopper, the grand slam contract was fulfilled.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Fifteen years is a long time to carry the torch for one woman, but Dan O'Farrell does it in "Night of Nights"—as gloomy a little drama as you would care to see.

It calls upon you to witness the deterioration of a one time successful actor playwright whose wife deserts him. . . . WITH cause!

On the opening night of a play which he'd written for her and in which he was to be leading man, Dan, and his bosom pal, Barry, also an actor in the show, become so pickled that it's necessary to ring the curtain down on the first act. . . . And that is that . . .

Of course the wife has gone thru different sorts of purgatories due to Dan's love of liquor, but never anything so tragic. . . . Moreover on this night there lay on his dressing table unnoticed a letter in which she had told him that, in the not far future he was to become a daddy. . . .

She dies in childbirth. . . . Follows the Great Downfall of O'Farrell.

A convent bred daughter comes into his life later and her influence is responsible for the great comeback. . . .

H. E? Well—yes and no.

"Night of Nights" is rather "different" and it IS well acted. . . . Olympe Bradna is charming—only she shouldn't wear her hair sheep dog fashion!—and you know what the other players listed in the cast can do.

See you tomorrow.

Breath Taking--That Describes Wedding Gown

BY REA SEEGER.

Fifty-seven yards of airy net in the skirt and train of a new wedding gown is one of the breath taking confections in a collection of bridal finery now ready for the early spring and summer brides to be . . . a record number of them are floating around the town in a rosy trance.

There's another beautiful model in brocaded silk with tiny romantic floral sprigs and foliage that has long sleeves, dozens of yards of silk in the train and skirt, and a bodice that positively caresses the body lines.

Another heart breaker has hundreds of wee buttons down the front of the ivory satin to match the rows down the sleeve, but these are not operable. The gown fits with smoothness because of the concealed zipper down the side. Ribbed heavy silk or faille in a lovely deep ivory shade is excitingly new because of the cut-out eyelet embroidery motifs around the heart shaped bodice top and the cuffs of the sleeves.

Such a decorative idea is also used in the jersey silk wedding gowns. Applique bandings sewed on, in scrolls and loops, the banding not any wider than an eighth of an inch, makes a gleaming satin wedding gown especially classic in eye appeal. The long basque top is outlined with this scroll work where the full gathered skirt meets the bodice. Dotted organdies are ethereal affairs with bias cut ruffles, a round neckline, and no other trim but the deep ruffles.

Briselli Makes Chicago Debut with Orchestra

The season's third concert by the Civic orchestra in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon was marked by the Chicago début of Iso Briselli, young Russian-American violinist, and by the first local performance of Otto Luening's "Prelude on a Hymn Tune by William Billings." Debussy's prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun" and the First Symphony by Brahms rounded out the program. Hans Lange conducted.

At 27 Mr. Briselli, who started out as a child prodigy, has arrived at a satisfying point of musical maturity. His interpretation of the Bruch G minor concerto was intelligent and clearly defined. Except for a dull pace in the finale, he found the essence of Bruch's highly conventionalized romantic style, and gave a performance of excellent musical intention.

It would be a falsehood to call Mr. Briselli a virtuoso player. His passage work is not of the sort that gives off sparks; indeed it is not always accomplished with complete accuracy or purity of intonation. He does not struggle against his instrument, but he does not make much of it.

His tone is of that special sort apparently inculcated by New York teachers in their pupils nowadays. The vibrato is exceedingly rapid, as in the case with Yehudi Menuhin and Isaac Stern. This highly stylized method of tone production has a tendency to sentimentalize the music. It also is extremely destructive to smooth legato playing.

Mr. Luening's prelude, based on a primitive hymn tune by an eighteenth century Bostonian hymn composer who had been forgotten until musicologists got to work, is modeled in form after the seventeenth century chorale-fantasias of George Böhm and other German organists. It is a series of free variations, some slow and some fast, upon Billings' stark and unprepossessing little tune. Mr. Luening's first harmonization of the tune is so bleak as to sound almost Elizabethan. As he proceeds, however, he employs a variety of wholly contemporary devices of dissonant counterpoint. It is a resourceful piece, but an episodic one.—C. S.

GOLDEN GLOVES TROPHIES GO TO CORONA, COWAN

Awards Are Given for Sportsmanship.

Trophy Winners

WINNERS of Golden Gloves sportsmanship trophies since establishment of the awards in recognition of the graduates from the Chicago tournament who have won world professional titles are:

ROSS TROPHY.
1940—Morris Corona, Fort Worth, Tex.
1939—Savior Canadeo, Chicago.
1938—Jimmy O'Malley, Chicago.
1937—Verne Patterson, Chicago.
1936—John Barbara, South Bend, Ind.

LOUIS TROPHY.
1940—William Cowan, Rockford, Ill.
1939—Mike Zompini, Cleveland.
1938—Chief Shoulderblade, Oklahoma City.
1937—Alex Kettles, South Bend, Ind.
1936—Paul Hartnek, Omaha, Neb.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Morris Corona and William Cowan, who represent Fort Worth and Rockford, respectively, have yet to launch their final drives toward championships, but already they have won two of the most highly cherished prizes Golden Gloves competition has to offer.

By a vote of the judges and referees who officiated in last week's Tournament of Champions, Corona was awarded the Barney Ross trophy and Cowan the Joe Louis trophy. Each year these prizes are donated by the famous fighters who once were Golden Gloves champions themselves. The award is based on sportsmanship displayed by contestants in the welterweight and heavyweight classes.

Start for Chicago Today.

Corona and Cowan will make their bids for further honors Wednesday evening in the Stadium, where they will join 30 other survivors in the semi-finals and finals of the battle for Golden Gloves. Fighters representing the more distant of the 21 cities still in the tournament will start for Chicago today. The entire field will reassemble tomorrow to allow a day of relaxation before taking up where they left off last week.

Corona, whose home is in Port Arthur, Tex., away down on the Gulf of Mexico, chose to remain in Chicago during the lull between the Tournament of Champions and the finals. Cowan, who lives in Elgin, will return to the scene of battle tomorrow.

In reaching the semi-finals, both boys defeated powerful foes, but in all their victories they gave outstanding examples of the sportsmanship and the generosity toward opponents that have come to be associated with Golden Gloves competition.

Draw First Round Byes.

After drawing a first round bye, Corona disposed of Charles Busalowski of Milwaukee, Howard Beyhl of Minneapolis, and O'Neill Bell of Grand Rapids. Cowan also drew a first round bye, then scored a technical knockout over Robert Lowe of Danville. His third round opponent defaulted, and in the quarter-finals he won a decision over Allen Aubrey of Cleveland.

Corona is of Italian descent. He is 21 years old and has lived in Port Arthur all his life. He works for an oil company and hopes to make a lifetime career in that business.

He has had considerable experience during his four years of boxing, having competed in featherweight, lightweight, and welterweight classes. He has held state and southwest championships.

While in high school, from which he was graduated in 1938, he played considerable basketball and baseball.

Third Year in Golden Gloves.

Cowan is a lineman for an electric company. This is his third year of Golden Gloves competition. In his first attempt he was beaten in the Rockford finals. Last year he won the sectional title and came on to the Tournament of Champions. After winning his first bout he incurred a nose injury in his second round engagement with Orlan Ott and the bout was stopped.

Cowan has shown remarkable improvement this year. In taking the Rockford title he beat Linto Guerrieri, who was Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion in 1938. Guerrieri has now grown into the heavyweight ranks.

Real Sportsmen

Morris Corona of Fort Worth, Tex., has been voted the Barney Ross trophy for sportsmanship during the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions. The award goes annually to a welterweight.

William Cowan of Rockford, Ill., was judged the best sportsman among the Golden Gloves heavyweights and will receive the Joe Louis trophy.

Fight Tonight in New York to Name Team

New York, March 3 (AP).—Amateur boxing teams representing 13 cities in seven eastern states, from Florida to New York, begin swinging their gloves in the Coliseum tomorrow night in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions sponsored by the Daily News A. A. They'll fight two nights in the uptown arena, then move into Madison Square Garden for the finals Wednesday.

The survivors of this three day tournament will meet the winners of Chicago's Golden Gloves tournament in the inter-city bouts here March 18.

Teams representing Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, West Virginia, Washington D. C., and Pennsylvania will face the New York city champions, three New Jersey squads, the Westchester county [N. Y.] champions and two teams from upstate New York.

Most prominent of the fighters are Cyclone Williams of Buffalo, who has knocked out last year's Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, Buddy Moore; Frankie Donato, Philadelphia featherweight who holds two decisions over Bill Speary, three times Golden Gloves winner, and Johnny Aiello of Philadelphia.

TIME IS SHORT!

Hurry if you want to see the finals of the Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago Stadium Wednesday. Only a few tickets remain. Thirty-two boys, the best punchers from 44 cities and 23 states will show you how championships are won.

THE TICKET PRICE SCALE:

~~$3.30~~, ~~$2.20~~, ~~$1.65~~, and $1.10

Tickets may be obtained at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

McCoy Goes Hitless, Makes Wild Throw.

Anaheim, Cal., March 3 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics bunched six of their ten hits in the first three innings to open their spring exhibition schedule today with a 6 to 3 victory over Seattle of the Pacific coast league before a crowd of 6,000.

Aided by wild throws by Benny McCoy and Bill Lillard, Seattle scored all its runs off George Caster in the first three innings, but thereafter was held in check by Herman Besse and Ed Heusser. Besse particularly was impressive, yielding no hits in his three innings.

Bob Johnson slammed out three singles in three trips to the plate. McCoy, second baseman who got a bonus of $45,000 for signing with the A's after being declared a free agent, went hitless in two times up. Score:

Seattle	201	000	000	3	6	0
Philadelphia	213	000	10*	6	10	0

Batteries—Pudlick, Raduniich, Scribner, and Campbell, Annunzio, Caster, Besse, Heusser, and Wagner, Hanrken.

PIRATES GET GARMS.

Bradenton, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Outright sale of Debs Garms, Boston Bee outfielder for the last three seasons, to the Pittsburgh Pirates for an undisclosed amount of cash was announced tonight by President Bob Quinn.

Garms, sent down to San Antonio after a previous major league trial with the St. Louis Browns, was drafted by the Bees and played as an outfielder and substitute third baseman. He was a consistent .300 hitter with Boston, but only fair afield.

MEL ALMADA SIGNS.

Clearwater, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Outfielder Mel Almada accepted terms and a wage slash today and took part in a routine practice of the Brooklyn Dodgers, leaving only Dolph Camilli, Lindsay Deal and Dixie Walker still holding out.

Joe Vosmik's long hits, including a drive over the left field fence, attracted most of the interest in today's workout. Peewee Reese, rookie shortstop candidate, was not in uniform because of a slight attack of food poisoning.

VINCE POWERS 'EM.

Tampa, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Vince Di Maggio, the eldest brother of the famous family, may have struck out 10 times in a dozen tries last season with the Cincinnati Reds, but he's doing some fancy hitting in spring training.

Even tho the Red pitchers have started to season up their offerings, Vince, who won't ride from the hotel to the field, but walks to keep his legs in condition, is hitting the ball often and far.

Ernie Lombardi has vowed that the crepe hangers, who wanted him traded after his "beauty sleep" on home plate during the last world series game, will be shown up this season. Ernie is the first out on the practice field in the morning and the last to leave in the afternoon. He keeps moving all the time and has Manager Bill McKechnie blinking in amazement.

GIANT REGULARS LOSE.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 3 [Special].—Bill Terry got his first real glimpse of his 1940 New York Giants today when he sent his first and second teams against each other. The game, played for the benefit of the local high school, went nine innings, the second team whipping the regulars, 7 to 3.

A three run rush on Hy Vandenberg in the fifth inning gave the reserves a grip on victory which they tightened in the three closing innings by clipping the left handed Steve Tramback for a run in each frame. The best pitching of the day was turned in by the two starting hurlers, Harry Gumbert and Clydell Castleman.

DOM DI MAGGIO DRILLS.

Sarasota, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Manager Joe Cronin sent his Red Sox charges thru a 90 minute workout today with young Dom DiMaggio, brother of Yankee Joe, arriving 24 hours ahead of schedule to join in the drill. The main contingent of regulars arrives tomorrow and Cronin plans two daily sessions.

BIG 10 QUINTETS TO DECIDE 1940 WINNER TONIGHT

Purdue Can Clinch 13th Flag by Beating Illinois.

Games Tonight

Purdue at Illinois.
Ohio State at Indiana.
Northwestern at Iowa.
Michigan at Minnesota.
Chicago at Wisconsin.
Illinois Wesleyan at Illinois college.
Creighton at Kansas.
Millikin at Lake Forest.
Dartmouth at Cornell.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In the final set of Big Ten basketball games tonight you may take your choice of headliners. Either Indiana and Ohio State, playing in Bloomington, or Purdue's invasion of Illinois may be given top billing. If Purdue wins the Boilermakers will have an undisputed title, their 13th, which is high for conference competition. Should Purdue lose, then the winner of the Bloomington game will tie with Purdue for the title.

The Boilermakers did not seem unduly disappointed over losing to Indiana Saturday night, 51 to 45, altho it was the first time in 39 years that Indiana has swept the annual series. Purdue holds a 51 to 13 edge in victories. No matter the outcome, it must be satisfying for Purdue partisans to realize that for the last week the title fight has centered around which team may share the championship with the Boilermakers.

Purdue Most Consistent.

Even if Purdue loses to Illinois tonight, and that is a distinct possibility despite the score the Hawkeyes rolled up in knocking Illinois out of the race Saturday night, the Boilermakers probably must be ranked as the most consistent team in the Big Ten. They have been beaten twice by Indiana, but as was apparent in the game Saturday, Indiana's speed and individual dribbling ability merited both victories by just about the point margin, seven and six, respectively, for the series.

There is no such blemish on Purdue's record as the licking Indiana received from Minnesota, 46 to 44. Nor did Purdue, in its four defeats [Southern California and De Paul won preseason games from Purdue], ever collapse as Indiana did against Ohio State [44 to 26], or as Minnesota did against Illinois. For that matter, Iowa might be awarded a prize for inconsistency. The Hawkeyes either have been blazing hot or as uninspiring as dead ashes. Iowa whipped Ohio State by 10 points and Saturday overwhelmed Illinois, 62 to 47, for the high team score of the year.

You Figure It Out.

But Iowa, victor over Illinois, which won from Minnesota, 60 to 31, has lost two games to the Gophers. These circles are common but seldom by such wide point margins.

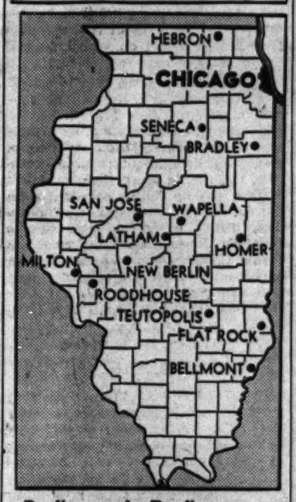
About all Illinois can salvage now, granting that illness may have cost them a game or so early in the campaign, is an individual scoring title for Capt. Bill Hapac. Altho held to eight points by Iowa, and with the handicap of missing one game, Hapac scarcely can lose the scoring race. He has 151 points.

Northwestern won its sixth conference game by whipping Wisconsin in a thrilling battle Saturday night, in which Dick Klein, as usual, led the attack. But Al Butherus more than matched Klein's shooting, and Don Clawson, Ad Vance, and Bob Shepard supported. Tonight the Wildcats, having beaten Iowa at home, travel to Iowa City. The result hinges on the Hawks' ability to continue their unusual scoring pace.

Michigan and Minnesota will determine possible possession of at least a share of fifth place in the final standings tonight in Minneapolis. Should Northwestern lose, the winner in Minneapolis will share fifth place. If Northwestern wins, then sixth place is the stake. It is the first game between the teams.

Chicago and Wisconsin will settle possession of last place in Madison tonight.

Illinois Prep Davids



Bradley and Roodhouse, two smallest schools to reach the 1939 state tourney, are still in this year's Illinois prep basketball race now reduced to 124 contenders from a starting field of 898. The other eleven shown on the map are the only survivors from a group of 504 schools of small enrollment which were compelled to play thru one more tournament stage than the other entrants.

Village Prep Teams Poison to City Fives

Hebron, population 608, located 68 miles northwest of Chicago near the Wisconsin line, today takes rank as one of the popular Davids in Illinois prep basketball. Listing among its victims two neighboring Goliaths—Elgin and Dundee—Hebron is among the 124 survivors from a record field of 898 entrants which started in quest of the 1940 state championship.

Altho the enrollment of its high school is only 96 students, Hebron has achieved 27 victories in 28 games and needs only three more triumphs this week to qualify among the "sweet 16" for the state tournament in Champaign March 14-16. But to accomplish this feat the McHenry county team must wade thru the Rockford sectional tournament where Rockford's defending state champions will have the advantage of playing on their home court.

May Avenge '39 Defeat.

Possibly the law of averages, however, might pull Hebron thru. Last year Hebron eliminated Elgin from the state race in a regional semi-final, as it did this season, and forced Rockford's eventual Illinois champions into overtime before losing, 35 to 34.

A year ago, however, Hebron had been beaten by Dundee, and went on to Rockford only because the runners-up as well as regional champions are permitted to advance. This season Hebron gained revenge over Dundee, 37 to 34, in the Crystal Lake regional windup. This was no ordinary achievement, since Dundee had won 21 of its previous 22 games and averaged 51 points per contest for perhaps the best offensive record in the state. Dundee's only loss has been to Waterman, which still is in the title fight. Hebron's lone setback, ending a 20 game streak early in February, was to Crystal Lake, which thereafter was eliminated in its own regional.

Bradley Strong Again.

Fifty-four miles south of Chicago, another school from a comparatively small town also is on the rampage again. It's Bradley, population of 3,048 and with a student enrollment of 194, which was among the last 16 in the 1939 state race.

Bradley has won 31 out of 32 games and includes among its victims Glenbard, champion of Chicago's West Suburban conference. Altho beaten in a regional final by Morton of Cicero, Suburban league champion, Glenbard also continues in the race.

While Phillips, Hirsch, Amundsen and Crane Tech fight it out to determine Chicago's City league representative in the state meet, Bradley will attempt to win one of the 15 sec-

Ott Heller, armed with a rabbit's foot, a four leaf clover, and a hockey stick, last night gave the New York Rangers a 2 to 1 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks before a crowd of 18,114, largest of the season, in the Chicago Stadium.

Mr. Heller is an upstanding young man who is equipped with all of the manly virtues, including honesty, and he would be the last to deny that his third period swipe at the puck was not blessed with luck. Certainly, his face revealed his own bewilderment at the swing that broke up a 1 to 1 tie.

Cracks a Hex, Too.

That swing also cracked the hex which the Blackhawks have had pinned on the Rangers in the last three meetings between the two, all of them ending in Hawk victories.

As it is, the Hawks emerged from their scheduled eight game feud with the New Yorkers with an even break, having won four out of seven prior to last night's battle. This is quite an accomplishment against the Rangers, who by last night's fortunate decision took a three point grip on first place over the Boston Bruins.

The Rangers displayed a variety of moods before the 10th minute of the final period when Heller took a ballet stance, just inside the Chicago blue line against the north side boards, and then, just before failing, took a wild cut at a rolling puck. The disc was lofted against the right goal post and before Goalie Paul Goodman could adjust himself for what had seemed to be an unnecessary stop, it fell back of Paul for the winning goal.

Rangers Play Mean.

Prior to the Heller swing, the Rangers had evinced a yen to be mean. They played a strictly man-to-man style for the first period, almost disdaining any pursuit of the puck for the pleasure of administering teeth jarring checks to the smaller Hawks.

This attitude continued into the second period when Burly Earl Seibert showed that he could play the Rangers' game, too, and strong armed his way thru the New York defense to score from six feet out against Davie Kerr, the league's leading goalie.

Only one penalty was called by Referee Bill Stewart during an unusually rugged game. That was a dual sentence in the 12th minute, meted out to Jack Portland of the Hawks and Alf Pike of the Rangers for a slashing duel in mid-ice.

MacDonald Ties Score.

The action continued unabated while they were off, but the Rangers waited until both hands were back to score the tying goal. Kilby MacDonald, their rookie pride, did the trick with a long side shot from 35 feet when Goodman apparently was figuring for an obvious pass to Lynn Patrick.

From there on until Heller closed his eyes and hoped, the Rangers almost brazenly played for a tie, knowing that would give them a full game edge on the Bruins. The Heller feat, however, sent them farther back into their shell and they repelled several spirited five man rushes by the Hawks at the finish.

FIVE HORSES DIE, 54 ARE RESCUED IN BOWIE BLAZE

Bowie, Md., March 4, Monday (AP).—Five thorobred race horses burned to death early today in a fire which swept five of the largest stables at the Bowie race track. Fifty-four horses were led to safety.

Horses destroyed were Eudes, I. Betsy, and La Tautrie, all owned by J. J. Martin of Baltimore, and Set 'Em Up and Flying feet, owned by K. D. Kolseth, also of Baltimore.

Six volunteer fire companies battled successfully to keep the blaze from spreading to the nearby grand stand, but could not check the fire in the stables.

CUBS OPEN BUSY WEEK; PREPARE FOR CAMP GAMES

All-Star Charity Clash Is Slated for Sunday.

Leiber Talks

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 3 (AP).—Hank Leiber, Chicago Cubs outfielder, will be interested in a 1940 contract when and if the management improves its terms. He acknowledged today that he still was a holdout, adding that he had heard nothing additional from the Cubs' management during the last few days.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 3.—Manager Gabby Hartnett today eased up on the business of exercising his Cubs no longer than it took them to get from the practice field direct from church. Religious duties over, it was another rigorous day, the third on which the first and second squads have worked as an ensemble.

If Gabby's camp continues to be graced by the same kind of weather that has favored his project, especially since the arrival of the second squad, this week is going to be a tough one. The manager does not know definitely the selections for the all-star game between major league and Pacific coast league players in Los Angeles next Sunday but wants to make sure that his entries will be in condition to function creditably. Since Dizzy Dean isn't here, no attempt will be made to ornament the cast with a nonplaying notable.

Offer Services to Charity.

Hartnett personally has agreed to take a turn at catching, and there had been a request for Stan Hack's services until it was learned Stan is a convalescent in his Sacramento home. It is likely that Bill Lee, Claude Passeau, Charley Root, and Larry French will be invited to pitch. Gabby has told the committee in charge of the charity contest they may have requisitions on any players who are able bodied at embarking time.

Back from the All-Star game, Hartnett will round out the stay with a couple of intraclub games, wind up of a series of five or six camp contests which will be launched this week.

Rivalry for First Base Job.

Play in these camp brushes is expected to produce some merry fighting for several positions, with the main battle focused on the shortstop job. Some of the shortstops will have to fill in at third in the absence of Hack, but four fellows will be shortstop conscious nevertheless, these being Bobby Mattick, Bobby Sturgeon, Bill Rogell, and Leonard Merullo.

Another rivalry of more than usual intensity is that between Rip Russell and Phil Cavarretta for the first base job. Phil, his broken ankle thoroly mended, will get the job or make Russell hustle more than Rip's natural speed and aggressiveness. Phil also has been working out with his outfielder glove, just in case.

HORNET HOCKEY TEAM WINNER IN AMATEUR PLAY

The Chicago Hornets won the Maj. McLaughlin trophy awarded to the top Chicago team in the Arena Hockey league when they defeated Pianert, 7 to 1, yesterday afternoon. The C. Y. O. Shamrocks scored a 4 to 2 victory over Pepsi-Cola in the second game. The Zeman-Boutin-Vokac line led the Hornet attack with five goals. Al Soumi got the other two. Clark Porter in the Pepsi-Cola nets received a cut above the eye that required seven stitches to close. Larry O'Byrne finished the game in the nets.

LAKE VIEW WINS IN B'NAI B'RITH LEAGUE GAME

Lake View, defending champion in the lodge division of the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization Basketball league, won a playoff berth yesterday by defeating South Side, 43 to 41, at the Boy's Brotherhood Republic gymnasium.

Opening round games in the Youth division tournament also were played yesterday. In other lodge games, Garfield Park trimmed Sachar, 50 to 45, Lawndale routed Salomon, 52 to 34, and Austin won from Albany Park, 17 to 15.

MOON MULLINS—A CLOUDY OUTLOOK

All Sox Except Dr. Brown Due in Camp Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 3.—Unless somebody missed the train or leaped off at the wrong station, the White Sox training school will have its full quota of faces tomorrow, barring, of course, Clint Brown, the lone holdout. Seven men are due for their first drill of the spring and the appearance of the batch is more or less important, involving as it does five prospective regulars in Manager Jim Dykes' 1940 model on which he will tinker for the next five weeks.

Due here in time for breakfast tomorrow are Joe Kuhel, the first base attendant; Jack Hayes, the second base question mark; the affable as well as leisurely Luke Appling of shortstop attainments; Mike Kreevich, the roving center fielder; Julius Solters, the fly chaser obtained from the St. Louis Browns; Larry Rosenthal, utility outfielder, and Rookie Infielder Johnny Gerlach, who can thank Commissioner Landis for an opportunity to see the country. Gerlach had been farmed out, but Landis ruled he had to be given a camp trial.

Speed Up Drills Today.

The daily program which thus far has been gentle on the first squad will be speeded up tomorrow, but the better than three hours of labor planned by Dykes won't be as tough on the newcomers as it might sound. The fresh contingent will be permitted to kick off with an extensive batting practice and there is nothing dearer, barring a thick steak, to the hearts of ball players. While the ball slapping is going on the pitchers will have a chance to throw and do a few other things calculated to improve their endurance as well as skill.

Dykes already has a fairly definite idea of how he is going to arrange his batting order for the summer campaign. He doesn't have to have this ready until the first exhibition, March 14, and even then can continue to make changes as he sees fit, but has a hunch his first guess might prove correct. One spot he is quite sure he will not have to change, at least not until after the season opens, is the important No. 4 or cleanup post. The manager has reserved that for Taft Wright, the pudgy right fielder who did enough as a Senator to indicate he swings a potent bat.

Hayes a Question Mark.

The lead-off place may offer some complications. It rightfully belongs to Hayes, but he can't be counted on until after practice has shown whether or not he has fully recovered from his knee ailment. He underwent a second operation on the joint last fall, but that may prove no more of a success than the one of a year previous. If Hayes can't play Dykes doesn't know just what he might do for a leadoff. He has men for second base, but so far as known they are not the No. 1 type of hitters.

The second notch in the manager's tentative scheme will go to Kuhel, with Kreevich batting third. This pair was similarly stationed much of last season. Appling batted fifth last year, except when he took a fling at the cleanup place which bothered Dykes from start to finish. Appling will start fifth this year and not be molested unless it can't be avoided. Solters is destined for sixth, followed by McNair and the battery pair. On paper it is about the classiest attack Dykes has commanded in his term as Sox boss.

LITTLE, HOGAN ELIMINATED IN BEST BALL GOLF

Coral Gables, Fla., March 3 (AP).—The Canadian team of Stanley Horne and Jules Huot, trailing 2 down at the turn, eliminated third-seeded Lawson Little and Ben Hogan, 1 up, to interrupt a parade of favorites thru the first round today in the $5,000 international four-ball golf tournament.

First round results:

Ralph Guldahl and Sam Snead, defending champions, beat Johnny Bulla and Frank Walsh, 7 and 6.

Paul Runyan and Horton Smith beat Lloyd Mangrum and Ed Oliver, 4 and 3.

Jimmy Demaret and Willie Goggin beat Victor Ghezzi and Jimmy Hines, 3 and 2.

E. J. Harrison and Clayton Heafner (12 under par, best ball) beat Johnny Revolta and Marvin Stahl, 5 and 3.

Stanley Horne and Jules Huot beat Lawson Little and Ben Hogan, 1 up.

Billy Burke and Craig Wood beat Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, 6 and 5.

Byron Nelson and Harold McSpaden beat Johnny Farrell and Felix Serafin, 7 and 6.

Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon beat Harry Cooper and Jimmy Thomson, 2 and 1.

Tomorrow's second round pairings:

Guldahl and Snead vs. Burke and Wood; Harrison and Heafner vs. Demaret and Goggin; Horne and Huot vs. Metz and Laffoon; Nelson and McSpaden vs. Runyan and Smith.

Cocker Spaniel Is Named Best of Show at Detroit

Detroit, Mich., March 3 (AP).—Champion My Own Brucie, a black cocker spaniel owned by H. E. Mellenthin of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and winner of top honors in New York's Westminster show, was named best of show tonight at the Detroit Kennel club's silver anniversary dog show.

Hawks Get Puck Out of the Way

SPARTAS WHIP SWEDES, 7-1, IN BENEFIT GAME

The Sparta Falstaffs defeated the Swedish Americans yesterday, 7 to 1, in Sparta stadium in a benefit match for Ted Doubek, Sparta reserve full back who suffered a broken leg last fall. It also was a practice game in preparation for the western division semi-finals of the national soccer cup competition, March 17, when the Falstaffs oppose the Chrysler team in Detroit.

George Peterson, Sparta's new recruit from Moline, scored twice. After a 1 to 1 first period the Swedes played without three of their regulars as the Falstaffs counted six times. Jimmy MacDermott and Gus Flodin each scored within two minutes after the intermission to start the rout.

Austin Fencer Captures State Prep Championship

Armando Stella of Austin won the state high school fencing championship yesterday in Bartlett gym at the University of Chicago. Bernard Sishman of Austin was second and Artie Cohen of Hyde Park was third. The tournament was conducted under the auspices of the Illinois division of the American Fencers' league.

Younghusband Scores 48 to Win in Skeet Shoot

J. L. Younghusband won the 50 target skeet shoot held at the Lincoln Park traps yesterday afternoon with a score of 48. Harry Altice, H. G. Helms, W. F. James, Mrs. J. L. Younghusband, Albert Gallert, and Claude Winterrowd were next with 47 each.

tional tournaments, performing in Joliet.

Laverne Hahs, the highest individual scorer in Illinois prep history, is Bradley's 6 foot 3 inch center. He counted 24 points against St. Anne in the Kankakee regional finals to run his season's total to 560. During the regular schedule he amassed 497 points to beat the record of 486 set 24 hours earlier by Dwight Eddleman, a sophomore at Centralia. Eddleman also hopes to lead his mates to the state tournament for the second consecutive year.

Roodhouse, population 2,621 in Green county of southwestern Illinois, is another of the 1939 Davids still in the running. Its school enrollment is 196, two more than that of Bradley, was second smallest of the 16 in the state meet last year.

Won Honors Hard Way.

Hebron's accomplishments thus far overshadow those of Bradley and Roodhouse, since Hebron was among the 504 schools forced to play thru an additional round two weeks ago when those of small enrollment had to prove the right to join 355 others automatically seeded in the regionals.

Only eleven were able to get thru both stages. Hebron went so far as to win a regional title as did three others of district classification—Homer, Milton and New Berlin. Seven from the districts, surviving as regional runners-up, are Wapella, Teutopolis, San Jose, Latham, Bellmont, Flatrock and Seneca.

Tough for District Teams.

No district team since the present elimination system was adopted in 1936 ever has won a state title. Braidwood, in 1938, came the closest, losing to Dundee in the final round at Champaign.

Fourteen of the 16 in last year's state meet still are in the running as the 124 survivors await the start of the third series of eliminations Wednesday. Missing from this group are Zeigler and Lane Tech of Chicago. Zeigler lost to West Frankfort, 37 to 31, in the Benton regional semi-finals and Lane failed to reach the Chicago quarter finals. The other 14 attempting to repeat are Rockford, Bradley, Centralia, Dwight, Wood River, Flora, Morton of Cicero, Paris, and Moline, all of which won regional titles, and Canton, Roodhouse, Champaign, Gillespie, and Peoria Woodruff, regional runners-up.

ZALE IS WINNER OF 40 LAP RACE; MUHLKE SECOND

Wally Zale of Chicago shot into the lead on the first turn and won the 40 lap main event auto race last night in the 124th Field Artillery armory. Zale, driving Duke Nalon's No. 3, completed the 40 laps in 9 minutes and 18 seconds.

Ted Duncan and Ray Richards crashed on the ninth lap and were forced out of the race. Bob Muhlke of Chicago was second to Zale; Myron Fohr of Milwaukee was third; Paul Russo of New York, fourth, and Pete Nielsen of Milwaukee, fifth.

GRACE IS WINNER IN WEST ZONE OF WALTHER LEAGUE

Grace of Chicago won the west zone title in the Walther Basketball league yesterday by defeating St. Paul of Austin, 22 to 21. Fred Rossow led the victors' attack, scoring six baskets and one free throw. The Lincoln zone completed play with a four way tie between Bethany, First Bethlehem, St. James, and Pilgrim.

BOWLS 300 GAME.

John Zuke of the Petkus Funerals bowled a 300 game yesterday in the Regular Fellows league on the Windy City alleys. His other scores were 172 and 171.

Rubin Is New to Cue World, but Knows the Angles

[This is the fifth of a series of sketches on the entrants in the world's three cushion championship billiards tournament, opening next Monday at Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, and continuing thru April 4.]

Ten of the eleven competitors in next week's tournament are big time workmen with established reputations which, in many cases, cover 30 years. The 11th is the only rookie, but at the same time is reckoned the dark horse of the tournament. He is Arthur Rubin, 35 year old New York Jewish player who is making his debut in world competition.

Arthur Rubin.

Rubin, who is nicknamed Moich, resembles his namesake, Benny Rubin of stage and screen fame. He is the present holder of the eastern states championship, having won the title against a field which included Edward Lee, world's amateur champion; Harry Schuler, Joe Procita, Joe Cosgrove, and the former world's pocket billiards king, Andrew Ponzi.

During the eastern tournament, Art compiled a neat grand average of one plus per inning during the tournament, scoring 470 points in 465 innings. He also set a tournament high run of 10. Following the tournament proper he was challenged to a special match by Ponzi, who had finished second. The match went only 203 innings, Rubin winning by a score of 200 to 163, with billiards which included the match high run of nine.

Altho this is Rubin's first big tournament appearance, he has met most of the stars in exhibitions and always has given a good account of himself. Many of his rivals in the forthcoming $20,000 event opine that he has come faster than any newcomer in the last year. He has a strong stroke and like Jay Bozeman, one of his opponents-to-be, is an exceptionally fast player.

Gophers Win A.A.U. Hockey Championship

Lake Placid, N. Y., March 3 (AP).—The University of Minnesota's hockey team displayed their vaunted power in the final two periods today to win the national A. A. U. championship with a 9 to 1 victory over Brock Hall, New Haven, Conn.

Brock Hall, on the spectacular net minding of Charlie Wilson, held the Gophers scoreless in the opening period. Then the midwesterners hit the net four times in the second period as Pickering, Lampton, Eggleton, and St. Vincent crashed thru Brock Hall's defense.

Wave after wave of insistent attack finally had its effect on the New England team and in the closing period Johnny Maricucci, football star, fired home three scores, one coming on a solo dash, and Pickering and Lampton added the remaining two.

The game was Minnesota's 18th straight victory this season, and accomplished what the Gophers failed to do last year, when they lost in the finals to the Cleveland, O., American Legion sextet.

FIRESTONES WIN FROM HAMMOND QUINTET, 45-39

Chicagoans Triumph in Lake Cities Table Tennis

Toledo, O., March 3 (AP).—William Holzrichter, Chicago, captured the lake cities open table tennis tournament championship tonight, defeating Robert Andersons, also of Chicago, 21-17, 17-21, 21-15, 14-21, and 24-22. The Chicago singles finalists teamed in the doubles to capture that title from Mac Crossin and John Vargo of South Bend, Ind., 21-8, 17-21, 21-15, 21-12. Mildred Wilkinson of Chicago won the women's singles championship, defeating Mary Baumbach of South Bend, 21-14, 21-17, and 21-17.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

BANKS DISCLOSE FOREIGN SALES OF U. S. STOCKS

Britain Markets 32 Millions Monthly.

New York, March 3 (AP).—Two bank publications today made public figures which, it was said, may allay apprehension in Wall street that renewed selling of United States securities by England and France may adversely affect the domestic money market. The action of the British treasury in taking over its nationals' holdings in 60 United States corporations becomes effective tomorrow.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York in its annual report, and the National City Bank of New York, in its monthly bank letter, give figures on the volume of belligerents' holdings and other liquid assets here and the rate of liquidation during the first three months of war.

Statement on Assets.

A federal reserve estimate gave the following as to assets:

England [at the outbreak of war]: Readily negotiable United States securities, $735,000,000; dollar bank balances, $595,000,000, and undisclosed total of earmarked gold. England's net shipments of gold to the United States in 1939 totaled $1,826,463,000. However, total dollar volume of earmarked gold for foreign account was $543,400,000 net, at the year-end, and this included gold owned by countries not involved in the European war. England is also reputed to have billions in United States "slow" assets, such as real estate.

France [at outbreak of war]: Readily negotiable United States securities, $185,000,000; dollar bank balances, $315,000,000.

Rate of Liquidation.

As to the rate of liquidation, National City estimates from United States treasury figures that British nationals during the first three months of war [to the end of November] reduced holdings of United States securities at the average rate of slightly less than $32,000,000 a month, dollar balances at the rate of $25,000,000 a month, average.

The reserve bank reported that during October and November British net liquidation here averaged $8,000,000 a week, but that during the period net foreign selling totaled only 4 per cent of New York Stock exchange turnover. Foreign owners of United States securities, said the bank, sold in the market $87,000,000 net securities in October alone. During that same month 60 stocks in the Associated Press averages showed a net decline of 6-10 of a point.

French sellers, said National City, apparently were not net sellers of United States securities during the three months, but moderately reduced bank balances, accelerating toward the end of November.

ECONOMY, LIKE CHARITY, MUST BEGIN AT HOME

Boston, Mass., March 3 (AP).—Observing that "economy, like charity, must begin at home," the Boston Chamber of Commerce today published a letter congratulating the house committee on appropriations for favoring economy in rivers and harbors appropriations, even tho it meant curtailment of New England projects.

"We will refrain from making any demands for public works projects for our locality which will prevent a decrease of expenditures," said the letter signed by Chairman Philip Nichols, and addressed to Representative Edward T. Taylor [D., Colo.], chairman of the committee. Taylor has advocated a $2,000,000 reduction in the river and harbors appropriation.

FEDERAL POWER SURVEY WILL BE FINISHED SOON

Washington, D. C., March 3 (AP).—Surveys which are intended to lay the basis for voluntary coördination of power facilities will be completed early this year for the region east of the Mississippi, the federal power commission announced today.

In its 19th annual report the commission noted that it had been studying the power needs of the nation since 1933-'34, when it made, at President Roosevelt's direction, the first national power survey.

During the last year, the FPC said, it also investigated the power possibilities of 116 flood-control projects with a view to recommending to the secretary of war where power-producing facilities might be installed.

Outling other activities, the report said annual electric rate reports, which culminated in the issuance of a national electric rate book for the first time, "had a profound effect in bringing about rate reductions."

HOUSING NEEDS, WORK SITUATION TO BE SURVEYED

New York, March 3 (AP).—A survey of housing needs and their relation to reëmployment opportunities will be made by a committee appointed by the Twentieth Century Fund, Evans Clark, executive director, said today. Miles L. Colean will resign as assistant administrator of the Federal Housing administration to become research director of the survey.

"The fund's investigation," Clark said, "will attempt to determine how residential construction can be stimulated, with a view to contributing substantially to the restoration of a higher level of employment, meeting the recognized need for more adequate housing for the American people, and making more effective use of the country's available resources."

WAR DIMINISHES FOREIGN SALE OF FARM PRODUCTS

Washington, D. C., March 3 (AP).—The agriculture department said today that the European war had diminished the export demand for farm products, but had increased domestic demand thru stimulating industrial production.

"United States exports of tobacco and fruits have been greatly reduced," it said. "Exports of pork and lard are not up to the volume that would flow normally in a year of large production and low prices. Export sales of cotton have been good, but have declined recently. Little wheat is going abroad."

Rumania Cuts Currency Value 50% in Gold Terms

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 3.—Thru a decree issued today the Rumanian government has devalued the lei by about 50 per cent in terms of gold. The change will not affect values of the lei in relation to the currencies of nations with which Rumania has special agreements. The new rate will be 211.65 lei the to American dollar.

PEOPLES GAS.

How much money has the Peoples Gas company impounded pending final determination of its rate case? Will you kindly send me a report on the company's income and setup?—F. H.

Answer: Peoples Gas Light and Coke company is one of the world's largest gas utility systems. It sells without competition in Chicago, Ill., a mixture of natural and manufactured gas to 840,000 general customers, and supplies natural gas at wholesale to other gas utility firms in the area surrounding Chicago.

The company obtains its manufactured gas from its five plants and from three steel mills in Chicago. Natural gas, introduced in 1931, is piped from the Texas panhandle fields thru the 900 mile pipeline of the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America to Joliet, Ill., whence it is transported to Chicago by the Chicago District Pipeline company, an indirect subsidiary of Peoples Gas.

During the last three years Peoples Gas has pressed its demand for a rate boost sufficient to raise about 6 million dollars in additional annual revenue from gas sales. The application for the increase was made to the Illinois commerce commission in May, 1937, after the state had enacted a 3 per cent tax on gross receipts from gas sales.

The company contended the existing rates were confiscatory. When the commission refused to allow the higher rates the company carried the case to the state courts and on Feb. 4, 1938, was permitted to make its requested schedules effective. Peoples Gas agreed to impound the additional revenues received until ultimate disposition of the litigation.

Upon appeal by the commission the Illinois Supreme court reversed the lower court's allowance of the higher rates and declined to change its decision after a rehearing. The company announced it would appeal to the United States Supreme court.

The company's balance sheet at the end of 1939 indicated that $5,581,716 had been impounded under court order since Feb. 4, 1938. The amount represented net income produced by the rate boost.

Capitalization of the firm consists of $72,403,000 in long term debt and 656,119 shares of $100 par capital stock. Dividends on the stock have been paid in each year since 1898 except from 1934 thru 1936 and from 1918 thru 1921.

The following table compares net income, earnings per capital share, and dividends paid per capital share in recent years:

	Net income.	Earned per share.	Dividends per share.
1935	$1,009,823	$1.52	....
1936	2,133,280	3.21	....
1937	2,424,725	3.65	$2.00
1938	1,627,323	2.48	1.00
1939	2,291,491	3.49	2.50

A dividend of 50 cents a share was paid Jan. 15.

The balance sheet at the end of 1939 carried the utility properties of the company at $147,890,931. Total assets were $200,543,433, of which current assets were $19,998,447. Current liabilities were $13,391,852.

Wheat Prices Fall Rapidly in Last Week

Wheat prices declined rapidly last week, reacting to an improvement in the domestic crop outlook and the easing of the war threat in southeastern Europe. Declines from the high point of the preceding week ran to more than 7 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Weather conditions became more favorable in the west and southwest, and reports indicated the winter wheat crop has begun to make progress.

The apparent condition of the new crop on March 1 was much better than on Dec. 1, when condition was rated as the poorest on record.

Reports Expected Wednesday.

B. W. Snow and Nat C. Murray, crop experts, are expected to issue reports on winter wheat Wednesday. These may give figures on Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, the leading wheat states.

The condition of the crop in these states was estimated last week by Mrs. E. H. Miller, crop expert, to range from 50 to 66 per cent of normal, compared with 34 to 47 per cent on Dec. 1.

Reports from Europe placed the amount of winter wheat seeded in 23 countries at 75 million acres, excluding Russia. This would be about the same acreage as was planted in the preceding season. The severe winter in Europe has raised fears among grain traders there that much of the winter wheat acreage will have to be abandoned. However, many countries have taken steps to sow a large spring wheat acreage to balance any loss in the winter crop.

Week's Range of Prices.

The range of prices last week on the Chicago Board of Trade follows:

WOMEN'S WAGES BOOSTED FASTER THAN MEN'S PAY

Washington, D. C., March 3 [Special].—Women's wages in the majority of industries rose faster than men's during the first year's operation of the wages and hour act, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins reported today. The act went into effect Oct. 24, 1938. The period covered in Miss Perkins' report included Sept. 1, 1937 to Sept. 1, 1939.

Women's hours averaged less than 40 a week in 12 states, she reported. The longest for men were 42.5 for those engaged in paper box and confectionary production.

The increase in average week earnings of women "usually was due to lengthened hours of work, some times combined with a rise in hourly wage," the report said.

UPTURN IN STEEL BUYING LIKELY, SURVEY SHOWS

The approach of seasonal expansion in the requirements of some industries and a steady erosion in consumers' inventories were reported by the magazine Steel yesterday as major factors in the possibility of improved steel buying.

Altho it forecast an increase in coming orders, Steel was more pessimistic about a revival in production of the nation's mills. Operations slowed last week to the lowest rate of decline in five weeks, dropping only 1.5 points to 65.5 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity, but Steel cautioned that the "changes for the better are too slight to be regarded as a complete reversal of the previous trend."

INDUSTRY'S DIP INCREASES IDLE COMPENSATION

Washington, D. C., March 3 (AP).—A slackening in production and employment caused a 34 per cent increase in unemployment compensation benefit payments during January, the Social Security board reported today. Payments totaled nearly $41,000,000 in January. A weekly average of 877,000 workers received benefits. All except two states—Oregon and Maine—reported increases in payments.

The board said that, despite the 34 per cent increase between December and January, the benefit payments reported by state employment-security agencies showed a general increase of only 3.7 per cent over a year ago.

CHEMICAL FIRM REPORTS LARGE GAIN IN PROFIT

Sales of Monsanto Rise 35 Per Cent.

Profits of Monsanto Chemical company increased 69 per cent in 1939 and sales rose 35 per cent to the largest dollar volume in Monsanto's history, Edgar M. Queeny, president of the company, reported yesterday.

Edgar M. Queeny.

Profit was $5,546,416, equal after minority interest and preferred dividends, to $4.01 a common share, against $3,290,519, or $2.35 a share, in 1938.

Queeny made public his annual report to the stockholders, in which he discussed many questions confronting business management, including those relating to government policy, taxation, the European war, and other economic or political problems.

Until these questions, particularly those concerning the government's attitude toward business, are answered, every move of business management will be "made in a fog of confusion," Queeny declared.

View on General Need.

"If management of industry could be granted one wish I am sure it would be: 'Let us have a condition wherein we can concern ourselves with business with assurance that there is no undue need to worry about the future—a condition wherein we can again plan and budget for a year or two years in the belief the effort will not be lost,'" he wrote. "Today this is impossible.

"There have been radical changes in judicial interpretation of the constitution, in concepts of the fundamentals of money, tariff making, financing, labor relations, and the relations of government to business—and, indeed, of government in business.

"Must industry face further changes? Further, what problems will the end of the war present? Will it mean dislocated currencies?

Asks Other Questions.

"As debt piles on debt, what additional taxes do we face? Above all, what attitude will government assume toward business? Will it recognize that the consumer, government, capital and labor do have interests in common, and that all gain when venture is encouraged?"

Queeny said that nearly every year of the 1930s brought new taxes or additional taxes to burden private enterprise.

"Such taxes," he said, "remove incentive to risk existing capital on new ventures. As it requires several thousand dollars to provide each job in industry, these taxes account in great measure for the paradox of millions of idle men and billions of dollars of idle money. These taxes absorb also most of that part of individual income which formerly went into new ventures, investment, and philanthropy."

Reports on War Effects.

Reporting on the effects of the war on Monsanto's business, Queeny said that "what would have been a mediocre year was spurred into great activity by the outbreak of the tragedy abroad." However, he said, conditions abroad caused a loss from foreign operations, and new export business did not compensate for losses resulting from the depreciation of the dollar value of the company's British assets.

The pamphlet report of Youngstown Sheet and Tube said net profit was $5,004,484 in 1939, equal to $2.50 a common share, against a net loss of $656,933 in 1938.

Sales increased $32,363,431 to $117,027,997 last year despite lower prices, and ingot production rose 69 per cent. The company spent 319,686,264 for plant improvements.

Magma Copper company reported consolidated profit, in 1939, before depletion, was $1,385,852, equal to $3.40 a capital share, against $654,346, or $1.60 a share, in the preceding year.

Killing of Two Young Lombard Prowlers Described—Six Die in Auto Crash—New Hair Style Shown

Robert A. Thomas of Lombard, who killed two young prowlers Saturday night in backyard workshop. He is seated at workbench near which they were standing.

Scene in New York yesterday after auto had plunged (broken line) from viaduct 40 feet to pavement, killing six persons. Police are standing near the bodies of five on ground.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.] (Story on page 12.)

[TRIBUNE Photos.] (Story on page 15.)

1 THOMAS ENTERS DOOR AND FIRES TWO SHOTS FROM HERE
3 SECOND SHOT MISSES McWILLIAMS; HE CRAWLS UNDER TABLE
4 THOMAS FIRES THIRD SHOT FROM BEHIND TABLE AND KILLS McWILLIAMS
THOMAS' AUTOMOBILE

Photodiagram of interior of Thomas' garage workshop in which he shot to death two Lombard schoolboys. Captions on the picture explain how Thomas, aroused by burglar alarm, rushed into garage and fired fatal shots.

John McKenna, 14, of 318 South Grace street, Lombard, younger of the two slain prowlers.

Driven by Dee Abbott, whose father was killed, the family of Sam Morris (left) leaves tornado stricken area near Flatwoods, Ill., on spring wagon. Their home was razed.
